

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SUNDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1882. J. F. HALLORAN, Editor.

As It Seems.

WHAT possible interest can attach to a lot of nasty revelations concerning the Scovilles and Guitau's sister, we are at a loss to understand. We had hoped that when the wretch who murdered Garfield was executed, the whole miserable business of daily telegraphic report about it would be ended; but every day comes "news" concerning who Mrs. Scoville kissed, and what Mrs. Scoville said, and on whose lap Mrs. Scoville sat—as if anyone was interested, and that suggests another thought, that the simple sending of the statement 2,000 miles over a wire doesn't make news out of it. We read in the Oregonian of a man being drowned in the St. Lawrence river, and a girl being ravished in Alabama, and a boy falling into a pond in Maine, etc., but fail to see in what way that can be construed into intelligence. In the ordinary course of events, anyone who realizes what an enormous scope of country the Union is, can easily imagine a daily record of crimes and casualties. The wonderful part of it would be to have 50,000,000 people pass a day without some devilry or accident occurring in some nook or corner of the thirty-eight states. As it is, it looks as though the editor's desk was made the dumping ground for all the rubbish in the country, and because it is sent by telegraph it is labeled—news.

THIRTEEN of the survivors of Col. Stevenson's old command of Mexican war veterans of the First New York Volunteers had a reunion and dinner last Tuesday. A despatch from Col. Stevenson, who is in San Francisco, was received, asking "God's blessing on his old boys." Major Clark gave a brief review of the history of the old regiment. Over two-thirds of its original thousand members, he said, were under twenty-one years of age when they were enrolled, and perhaps that accounted for the youthful appearance of those assembled around the table. It was considered an arduous undertaking in those days, continued the speaker, to go to California. God had not been discovered and it was an unknown land. Although the regiment did not see much active service, still it had encountered many hardships. Of the original 1000 only 150 were left. Most of the survivors live in California, but about forty had returned to the east. The world had dealt kindly with the most of them, and the survivors represented $25,000,000 of capital.

A VICTORIA despatch says that miners working in a bank at Cassiar found about thirty Chinese coins strung on a wire six feet below the surface. The wire crumbled to pieces on exposure to the air. The coins are said by the Chinese to be over 3,000 years old. The question is now asked: "Were the Chinese the first settlers of this continent?"

THE surgeon-general of the army and navy has made a report to Secretary Lincoln, recommending five acres in the southwest corner of the Hot Spring mountain as the site for the proposed army and navy hospital, for the construction of which $800,000 was appropriated at the last session of congress.

THE Washington territory papers make a very good point in suggesting to the voters that a full vote should be cast at the election on November seventh. The exhibit of a large vote will be a good argument for the delegate to make in urging the claims of the territory before congress for admission into the union.

THE San Francisco registry books show a total of 43,000 voters in that city.

A SINGLE vote makes considerable difference sometimes. At the late election in Ohio, the Republicans carried three congressional districts by a combined majority of sixty-two. A few more votes in two other districts would have given them two more congressmen.

THE Philadelphians have just finished celebrating the two-hundredth anniversary of the founding of their city. The Quaker city is to-day the most distinctively American city in the United States.

DESPITE the time consumed in the senatorial fight, the legislature found time to defeat the registration bill, one of the most worthy of the hundreds that were introduced.

CHAS. NOBE, of Nez Perce county, Idaho, has declined a legislative nomination. How lonesome he must feel!

THE Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise will remain in British Columbia a month longer. The Mayor of Portland gets $1,500 a year. The councilmen get $300 a year, each.

LOST. OCTOBER 27TH, ABOUT ONE MILE above Tongue Point, a small green skirt, with one pair iron buttons and one pair buttons in lace. Owners, J. M. D. G. A reward of $5.00 will be paid to the party returning her to this office.
