New York Hash-Eaters.

"Have we any demand for hash?" said Lewis Leland, of the Sturtevant house. "Why, my friend, I am a hash-eater myself. When a landlord eats his own hash you can rest assured that there is nothing unclean about it. Oh yes: I know there are many people who think it too common a dish to be good. But this is a mistake," At the Windsor hotel the cashier said one of the plamor of a foreign language nor the art of a wilderness of French cooks could hide the fact that hash is hash and a favorite American dish. The most petite daughter of fashion relishes a plate of wellprepared hash as well as a newspaper reporter. In the absence of the Hon. Chas. Delmonico, his representative stated that a large number of their customers were liberal diners, but the hash-eater was numerous. And why not? Good meat was good meat in any disguise, and the manner in which they dished up square American corned-beef hash would have tempted Horace Greeley. Mr. Adams, of the Metropolitan hotel, thought the demand for hash would increase as the weather grew cooler. But in all times hash was a standard dish. In his experience many young people, traveling for the first time, were inclined to wade through the whole bill of fare, and often some eccentric Jersey doctor would begin with ice cream and end with soup But after all, meat and potatoes, well cooked and seasoned, make the foundation stone of this great republic, and this is what we call hash.

Sun. NEW YORK, 1883.

More people have read THE SUN during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other news-paper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are credibly informed that people buy read, and like THE SUN for the following read, and like THE SUN for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in at-tractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for human kind; the events, the deeds, and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable fol-ly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense-all the news of the busiest world at present all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs The SUN makes a practice of telling them the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainity and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. THE SUN has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that THE SUN is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, to association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt fron the strict application of its principles of right (and wrong.

powerful enough to be exempt fron the strict application of its principles of right jand wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robesonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, The SUN stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers. All this is what we are told almost daily by our friends. One man holds that The SUN is the best religious newspaper everpublished, because its Christianity is undiluted with cant. Another holds that it is the best Republican newspaper princed, because it thas already whipped half the raseals out of that party, and is proceeding against the other half with undiminished vigor, A third believes it to be the best magazine of general literature in existence, because its readers miss nothing worthy of notice that scurrent in the world of thought. So every riend of The SUN discovers one of its many ides that appeals with particular force to als Individual liking.

If you already know The SUN, you will observe that in 1883 it is a little better than ever before.
