

Tragic Death of a Miner's Wife

At Scanton, recently, the wife of a miner named James Ruddy lost her life in a fire, and two of Ruddy's children were so fearfully burned that they cannot recover. The Ruddy family were startled from sleep at two o'clock in the morning to find the frame house in which they lived in flames. Ruddy, who was crippled by a recent mine accident, caught up the youngest child and with great difficulty struggled from the building, while the wife devoted her energies to rescuing the other five children. She carried them out one by one to the sidewalk. The last boy and girl were terribly scorched about the head and face, and their night clothing was on fire. Mrs. Ruddy, as soon as she had the children out, rushed into the burning house and up stairs for her husband's savings, amounting to $250 in gold, but she had no sooner entered than the flames broke out at all points, and the house fell in with a crash, enveloping her in a sheet of fire. The spectators were powerless to render assistance, and the poor woman perished in sight of her husband and children. She was only twenty-six years old. Her charred remains were not discovered until this afternoon. Most of the money after which she went was found unimpaired.

A contemporary says: "In 1816 one bushel of corn would buy one pound of nails. In 1882 one bushel of corn would buy fifteen pounds of nails. In 1816 it took twenty to eighty dozens of eggs to buy one bushel of salt. In 1882 one dozen of eggs would do the same thing. In 1816 it required sixty four bushels of barley to buy one yard of broadcloth. In 1882 five bushels of barley would do the business. In 1816 it required one bushel of wheat to purchase one yard of calico. In 1882 one bushel of wheat would buy twenty-five yards of a better article."
