

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 14, 1883.

Read Prud Bros. new adv. Oregon has 324 pensioners, who receive $36,221 annually. A slight but welcome increase is noticed in the length of the days. The rails now loading on the large Autocrat are for Baker City. There were sixteen deeds brought into the county clerk's office to be recorded yesterday. Mean men are said to be the best at guessing conundrums, as they hate to give anything up. The "unlighted paradise of crime" is the title given its place of publication by the Chicago Herald. The Miles took on twenty-five tons of freight yesterday, and sails for Gray's harbor at half-past six, this morning. A salmon fishery has been started at the mouth of the Salinas river, California, by a party of Monterey capitalists. With the exception of Sabbath school at the usual hour, there will be no service in the Congregational church to-day. The regents of the State University would like to have young trees, suitable for shade trees, sent to them for transplanting by the 10th of February. Libel suits are the latest development of Portland journalism. One injured individual seeks legal redress for alleged "definition of character." Like enough. Messrs. Pike and Stockton were busy yesterday, with tape and line measuring to see how much wire would be required for the Astoria Electric Light Co. The dedicatory sermon of the new Presbyterian church will be preached this morning by Rev. Mr. Lee, of Portland. The occasion will be an interesting one. Society cults say its the correct thing, now, if you are going to be married to rehearse the whole business several times so as to make no mistake when the ceremony takes place. "Frozen oysters" are not likely to be popular in Astoria after this. It isn't the freezing of the oysters, but their subsequent thawing out that aroused objections from the recipients thereof. Commodore Gorringer, who was here with the Villard party, has been assigned a ticklish job—to bring a new iron clad from New York around the Horn, and to her assigned station at Alaska. The bold bandits living in the suburbs of a Mexican city have kidnapped the mayor and one of the councilmen, and send word to the terror-stricken municipality that the officials must be ransomed or they die. Custer county (M. T.) is the largest county in the United States. Its area is 36,000 square miles. It is larger than the states of Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Delaware and Rhode Island, all combined. The sheet and pillow case party last Friday evening was an enjoyable affair, and was participated in by nearly every member of the club. These parties are becoming popular in all parts of the country and afford abundant occasion for amusement. In the circuit court yesterday the day was employed in impelling a jury in the case of Wm. Bannister, charged with kidnapping. Progress was necessarily slow; the case went on last evening, court sitting till a late hour. The jury in the Franklin case are still out. The Bannister case goes on at nine o'clock to-morrow morning. Last Monday night in San Francisco, the Rev. Kalloch's church was the scene of a boxing match between two champions of the manly art of self-defense. The body of the church was filled by gentlemen desirous of noting points and peculiarities in the matter, while the basement held a small congregation of members of that church who indignantly protested against such desecration. The pastor pleasantly asked them "What are you going to do about it?" For fine Havana, and domestic cigars, such as the "Commercial," "Flor de Cuba Delicieux," and the celebrated "Cascades" cigar, call at J. E. Thomas' Drug store.

Proposed Land Grant.

Senator Grover introduced a bill in the senate, last Friday, granting right of way over the public lands in Washington Territory to the Puget Sound and Canadian Railway Co., 100 feet wide, to build a road from a point on Puget Sound, via Bellingham bay, to the northern boundary of the state, or to the 49th degree of north latitude, to connect with the proposed road in British Columbia, to connect with the line to join the Canadian Pacific. The company is empowered to build bridges and take land, not exceeding forty acres in any one place, for depots and sidings. The road is to be a public highway for the use of the government. When the governor of Washington territory shall certify that ten miles of the road have been completed, the company shall have the right to buy, in legal subdivisions, not exceeding 150 sections of public land, within fifteen miles on each side of the line completed, at $1.25 per acre; and with each following completed ten miles; the right to purchase lands as aforesaid, is given. If the lands are not selected and paid for within five years from the date of the government's certificate, the right expires, and if the road is not completed within six years the grant expires.

Finished.

The last spike in the construction of the new through line from San Francisco to New Orleans, known as the "sunset route," was driven between 11 o'clock and noon last Friday. The scene of the event was southwest of Texas, four hundred miles from the place across the river at El Paso, near Devil's river, a tributary of the Rio Grande. Travel over the new route will begin this month, or as soon as the stock and employes can be transferred. The route leaves the main line of the Southern Pacific at Denning, N. M., and runs to El Paso, Texas, where the Rio Grande is crossed; then it runs southeasterly, nearly due east across Texas to San Antonio, and connecting at that point with the line known as the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio, runs to Houston; from there it connects with the former Texas and New Orleans railroad, and terminates at the southern metropolis, skirting on its way from Houston, the Gulf coast, and crossing innumerable rivers and small streams tributary to the Gulf.

Set for Trial.

The case of the United States vs. Capt. Sewell, of the El Capitan, charged with cruelty to seamen, comes up for trial on Tuesday next in the United States court. Fechtmeier & Ach have been retained for the defense, and some of the sailors now in hospital at Astoria are to be summoned as witnesses for the defense. The friends of the captain are confident of his ability to clear himself of the charges made against him.—Oregonian 13th.

Marine News.

The Oregon and Eureka came down yesterday from Portland and leaves out this morning; the Oregon for San Francisco, the other for Alaska. The Lord Kinnaird went to sea yesterday afternoon. The Eakdale has cleared for Liverpool. She has 66,196 bus. wheat, worth $67,986. The State of California is due to-morrow. The Ona crossed in yesterday. Meeting at Y. M. C. A. room at quarter to three. Song service from Gospel Hymns. Everybody welcome. The Chamber of Commerce will hold a meeting at Judge Bowley's office to-morrow evening, at half past seven o'clock. A union service will be held in the M. E. Church to-night. Rev. Winfield Scott will preach; subject "Even tones." Hansen Bros. gave a party at their new establishment, last evening, in honor of its opening, which was well attended. The Northwest News is informed that Portland hotel men won't let the Oregonian copy the hotel arrivals from their registers. This, indeed, savors of frost. The Wasco Sun says there is much surprise expressed that in the list of appropriations asked for, Mr. George only applies for $50,000 for the Cascades. A paper must brag about something once in a while. The Jacksonsville Times says, "out of the forty-five deaths in '82 only thirteen were residents of the town, showing that our beautiful cemetery is a favorite burial place with outsiders." An organ for rent at Carl Adler's. Shipper & Rybke, No. 11, Oak street Portland, are the bon ton tailors of the metropolis.

Indian Superstition.

The Ogden Pilot learns that a Banook boy about twelve years of age met with a horrible death at the flouring mills at Fort Hall Indian Agency, Idaho, on last Tuesday. The boy was idling around the mill at the time, and happened to get in the machinery, and was badly crushed and mangled before he could be taken from the gearing. He died soon afterwards. It is a custom of Indians to burn or destroy all things connected with the death of their tribe. For instance, if one meets death by a kick from a horse, the animal is killed; and if from disease an Indian dies in a wickiup or lodge, it is burned. The mill in which the accident occurred was built by the government at a cost of $7,000 or $8,000, and was worth that amount of money. Between 6 and 7 a. m., on the 6th, this mill was discovered to be on fire and was soon entirely consumed, with a large amount of wheat and flour belonging to the Indians. This grain and flour was worth from $2,000 to $3,000.

At the agency there are two tribes of Indians, Banooks and Shoshones, and the grain and flour belonged mostly to the latter. From the well-known practice of the Indians, which they consider a religious duty to avenge the death of one of their tribe by fire or killing, it was natural to place the destruction of the mill at the hands of the Banooks, and the Shoshones losing their property has caused a strong feeling between the two tribes. It is not apprehended that this will lead to any serious trouble between the Indians, and yet it may possibly do so.

It would seem that all Indians have pretty much the same notions in regard to avenging themselves upon anything, animate or inanimate, which hurts or kills one of their people. In Iowa some twenty-five years ago, when the town of Cedar Rapids was in its infancy, a large flouring mill was erected, and was the pride of the place. Indians frequently came to the mill for flour and were allowed to go about in the building pretty much as they pleased, the working of the machinery being a thing they never tired of watching.

One day several of the "children of the prairie" were in the mill and were watching the group of cog wheels attached to the bolting apparatus. Seeing the wheel run so smoothly, an Indian boy was tempted to put his bare foot upon one of them. In an instant the foot was shorn of all its toes. Seeing what the wheel had done, the father of the boy seized a sledge hammer and demolished every cog wheel of the bolting apparatus, and, descending to the lower floor, was proceeding to smash every moving wheel in the mill, when the employes interfered and wrested the hammer from his hands. From that day forward, by strict rule, every Indian was excluded from the mill.

The Bribery Case.

The trial of W. S. Beebe is attracting much attention, and is getting to be more interesting as it is narrowing down to the end. The state has got all its testimony in and its evidence is to the effect that a note was written by Judge Mason to a juror named Brigham, telling him to stand pat, and have others of the jury do the same; that Beebe gave money to C. L. DuBois in the courthouse while the jurors were in their rooms, and that other money was given and offered. The defense denies all the material parts in issue and claims that the note referred to is a forgery; that the money given DuBois was ten dollars which he had asked Carrie Bradley for, claiming he had spent that amount for her; that the money was obtained from Jos. Taylor at the request of Carrie Bradley, and given to DuBois at the place mentioned, as he said he had to have it that night. Brigham, the juror, testified that he had not been tampered with, and Beebe's testimony was a general denial of all charges except the ten dollar transaction which will have corroborative evidence before the trial ends. Judge Mason was on the stand when the court adjourned, and will probably be kept there the most of this morning. It is not likely that the case will be concluded to-day.—Standard, 13.

Probable Change.

A Baker City dispatch says it is learned that four parties of engineers and surveyors have started from Weiser City in the interest of the Oregon Short Line, to survey a route if possible, suitable for a railroad on the north side of Snake river, from Weiser city to Lewiston, thence to the Sound. The engineers are said to have orders to push matters, and if a suitable route can be found, the Oregon Short Line will not be built to Baker, but to Lewiston, thence to the Sound, making Seattle the terminus of that line. If that is taken as the route, Baker City will be at least fifty miles from the Oregon Short Line.
