

The Daily Astorian

ASTORIA, OREGON: SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1883

The duty on tin plate is fixed at one cent per pound. -Claus Spreckles will establish a sugar refinery in Portland. -Bozorth & Johns advertise miscellaneous property for sale. -The Oregon went out over the bar at 3:20 yesterday afternoon. -The Point Adams Packing company advertises for bids for hauling. -The schooners Sparrow and Trustee went to sea at half past three yesterday afternoon. -The Kate and Anna has arrived in. It is now in order to hear that there is no flour in Newport. -The mills of justice were running yesterday, but the grist was light; two vagrants and two misdoers. -On her latest trip from here the Columbia made San Francisco in twenty-seven hours from the bar. -California vine yards presented a curious sight last week, the owners smoking them to prevent the ravages of the frost. -Rev. R. Schriedt will hold divine service of the German Reformed church in the Baptist church at two o'clock this afternoon. -The Eureka started up stream yesterday, but came puffing and panting back at four o'clock; the cook had forgotten his tobacco box. -There will be divine service on the Highland Light, lying at the O. R. and N. Co's dock, at 4 o'clock, Rev. J. McCormac officiating. -The Highland Light came up from Kinney's dock yesterday and joined the minor fleet moored on the south side of the O. R. & N. dock. -The ocean steamer left Portland at 6:30 yesterday morning and smashed her way through, getting to Astoria at 1 o'clock. She left out at 2:30. -The San Pedro, the new steamer of the Pacific Improvement Co., and sister vessel of the lost Tacoma, is due at San Francisco, from Philadelphia, March 1st. -He dropped in casually and in answer to inquiries regarding the safety of his plant, said it was "nip and tuck, the wind nipped it and the frost tuck it," then he fled. -The ice blockade has given fresh impetus to railroad talk. There are a good many things that Clatsop county needs worse than a railroad. Good county roads are one of them. -The Oregon Short Line is completed to Shoshone junction, sixty miles south of Hailey, in the Wood river country, Idaho, a distance of 321 miles from Granger junction. -The demoralization in the Chinese ranks, consequent upon the annual celebration, is about ended. By to-morrow the menial crew will again howl the wood and draw the water. -The boom in Portland real estate seems to have reached its culminating point. Subsequent action will develop speculative ability in the skillful promptness with which stock will be unloaded. -A boat full of excursionists went down to enjoy the skating at Ilwaco yesterday morning. The Gen. Canby will give a free ride to-day to the firemen and those who helped save the Canby last Wednesday night. -Frank T. Jordan, long-time employe of THE ASTORIAN, laid down his rule last evening for a much needed rest. He has held a case for nearly two years, and a better, steadier printer never put his fingers in a space box. We shall be pleased to chronicle his success. -Owing to the extent and thickness of the ice fears were entertained yesterday that the mail steamer would not be able to force her way through; but at four o'clock the S. G. Reed rounded into the dock with a large quantity of welcome mail aboard. Her bow showed that it was no slight job to get down. -It isn't often such an opportunity for skating presents itself as has been afforded by the present cold snap, and Astorians are availing themselves of it. To-day there will be an excursion on the Canby, one on the Miles, (if the crowd is big enough) and the Lilian has also been specially chartered for the same purpose. -The members of Alert Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1 are requested to attend the regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, February 13th, at 7:30 o'clock. Important business to transact. C. BROWN, Secretary.

Unique

The international fish exhibition to begin at London May 1st is looked forward to with interest by every one connected with fishing interests. Our Columbia countrymen have sent some fine exhibits. Among the Astoria representation is something unique in the way of canned salmon. The establishment of A. Booth & Co. sent some time ago across the Atlantic and had a huge pattern made of a contrivance to hold a whole salmon, cooked and ready. From this pattern several sheets were cut, and upon arriving here the salmon were cooked and placed therein, each fish intact, from head to tail, the casing being the exact shape and size of the fish. When the pie is opened the fish does not begin to sing, but lies there placidly, as though resting in his native element, and seems to invite all lovers of good salmon to seize and eat him. Several of these "canned salmon" have been sent from this establishment, and the result will no doubt be gratifying. -Parties in from the timber report that the temperature where they live is fifteen degrees warmer than on the river bank. Next time it gets so cold we'll head straight for that timber and stay there till the eastern blizzard blows by. -We understand that a ghost has been seen at Ilwaco during the past week. Amusements are scarce in Astoria at present, and if suitable arrangements can be made with his ghostship, he might be induced to come here. -The latest rumor of "what's going to happen" is that a Scotch company with a capital of $5,000,000 are going to put on a line of steamers from Guaymas to Australia, and from Guaymas to the Columbia river, touching at San Diego and San Francisco. Town lots in Guaymas ought to sell well after that gets generally believed. -The Willamette Farmer thinks we misrepresent it. Far be it from us to misrepresent any journal. But it seems to us that paper is too zealous an advocate of certain interests to which we are opposed, and, in talking of those things we say generally just what we believe. If we have misrepresented the Farmer we have plenty of company. We would refer the editor to the issue of the Wasco Sun of the 7th inst. -About one hundred yards southeast of Captain Merryman's residence a score of men are busy with pick and shovel excavating for the buildings of the Astoria Gaslight company; the play for the first six or eight feet is yellow and sticky; after that blue, cherty stuff that looks as though it would have been slate if let alone for three or four hundred thousand years more. -The Rev. D. J. Pierce, Baptist minister in Walla Walla, publishes a letter in which he informs everyone that during his two years residence in that city he has not received fifty dollars for his support. During that time he has spent $2,000 for the support of himself and family, all this has been from eastern sources. What surprises us is that he expresses a willingness to leave. There would seem to be considerable material for missionary effort where he is now. -Yesterday morning the river was filled clear across the channel with masses of thin ice, and in the space between O'Brien's hotel and Devlin's cannery the drift had piled upon the shore to the depth of two or three feet. At high water yesterday afternoon the river presented a beautiful sight, the water was as smooth as glass, and of a deep blue color; the white masses of ice drifting by in the lulling sunlight, and the sea fowl perched on hummocks made a panorama of great beauty. -OYSTERS! OYSTERS!! Fresh from the beds every day. -"GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY" for all scrofulous and virulent blood-poisons, is specific. By druggists. -To the Public. I keep the very best of all kinds of candy. Chocolate creams, caramels, and taffy fresh every day. I use only pure and healthy materials in making my candy; no glucose, terra alba, or other injurious substances that form the painted and attractive poisons sold as candy by many dealers. CHARLES H. OERKWITZ, Opposite the Bell Tower. -Companions of Astoria Cannell No. 995, American Legion of Honor. Are hereby notified that at next Regular Meeting, Feb. 17, 1883, business of importance to each companion will be acted upon. The attendance of every companion is respectfully requested. By order of Deputy Supreme Commander, E. V. MONTYETH, Secretary. -WANTED - 5 furnished or unfurnished rooms for light housekeeping in a private house - to be occupied March 1st. Address W. E. T. ASTORIAN office.

Well Supplied.

We used to read in boyhood's days of famous wells to which pious people made pilgrimages and from whence they derived substantial benefits. Without questioning the fact, we would add that we know of no more famous well than that at Mrs. Rogers', just above us. It has been an object of pious regard to many a weary pilgrim during the late freeze up. From the hour when the morning star rose above the pine-crowned hills to the south, to the moment when sunset came blushing o'er the sea and the purple lines of evening filled the concave vault of azure, have been a jingle of cans and tins and buckets and pitchers. The old and the young, the grave and the gay, all ranks, sexes and conditions, have come with vessels in their hands and prayerful expectation in their eyes, and have not returned unsatisfied. It has been a fountain in the wilderness of bursted pipes, an oasis in the desert of freeze up faucets and as the shadow of a rock in a weary land of disappointed householders. There was one occasion to which we refer with vivid remembrances of relief. It was one evening last week when the mighty Columbia for the first time in our history, "went back" on us, and we couldn't get any water for our boiler; it was then, when the resources of art were exhausted that we fell back upon the boundless supplies of nature, and covering with silver the broad palm of a stalwart Asiatic we induced the bronzed minion to go to the well and work the pump handle that the water might flow, that he might carry it, that it might be poured into the tank, that it might be pumped into the boiler, that it might make steam that would work the engine that turned the press that printed THE ASTORIAN. For this and kindred reasons we think that the well in question should be given complimentary mention, and held in grateful remembrance for supplying relief in time of need. -The Morning Star JEWELL, Feb. 9, 1883. -ED. ASTORIAN: We are having a cold snap; thermometer has been down to six above zero. There are a great many potatoes frozen in Nehalem. The morning star Venus is now visible to the naked eye, during the day time. I have noticed it since New Year's; it was something new to me and I have been looking to see it spoken of in the papers, but have never seen it mentioned. I should judge that it rises about three hours ahead of the sun and travels in nearly the same circuit. The best way to observe it is to notice it about sunrise and then at intervals through the day, so as to keep track of it. -What Is It? There is a man of plural number. A foe to rest and quiet slumber. Now most nouns you would chance to take. By adding "s" the plural make. By adding "y" to this, Oh, wondrous metamorphosis! Fresh Eastern and Shoalwater bay oysters received by every steamer. -If You Don't Believe It, just try it. You can get the best cup of coffee in town, at Temperance Billiard Parlor. Next to Geo. W. Home's store. -Wood. Parties wishing wood should order two or three days in advance of J. H. D. GRAY. -Oysters! Oysters!! Malm is closing out her stock of winter millinery and woolen goods at cost. -If You Want the Best MEAL In town, for 25 cents cash, go to "J. J." Variety Chop House. -Time and Expense Saved. Hard workers are subject to bilious attacks which may end in dangerous illness. Parker's Ginger Tonic keeps the kidneys and liver active, and by preventing the attack saves sickness, time and expense. -Detroit Press. -P. J. Goodman, on Chenamus street, has just received the latest and most fashionable style of gents and ladies boots, shoes, etc. Agent in Astoria for the famous Morrow shoes. -"Jeff" of the Variety Chop House has the three best cooks and two best waiters in town.

Pacific Coast Life Saving Stations

The life saving stations of this coast figure prominently in the annual reports sent out from Washington. We know by that means just how many thousand dollars it costs to sustain them, how much in the way of apparatus is furnished, and how many men are employed. There have recently been two wrecks of steamships on this coast, at which times little more was ascertained about the life-saving service than that it was utterly inefficient. The Escambia went down off this harbor in sight of a life-saving station. Perhaps the one man did what he could. But if there had been no station in that vicinity the result would have been about the same. -The Tacoma was wrecked on the coast of Oregon, within a few miles of a life-saving station. There was a boat in charge of the keeper but no crew to man it until a volunteer crew was picked up, and this one went into practice for some time, to see whether it would do to venture out to the wreck. The station keeper, declined to go, and the life-boat was as useless for the saving of life as if it had been a hundred miles inland. If the service had been efficient it is probable that every man on board of the Tacoma might have been saved. This service needs overhauling for the whole length of this coast. Some one should be commissioned by the government to ascertain, first, why the provision which has been made is so nearly useless. This point having been gained, the next would naturally be to suggest necessary improvements. If the keeper of the station near Umpqua was unwilling to go to the wreck in his own lifeboat, it might be well enough to know whether the boat was defective or the defect was in the keeper. There were nine men lost on board of the Tacoma almost within hailing distance of a life-saving station. Such a record as that would be deemed scandalous if it referred to any part of the English coast. There would be the strictest official inquiry into all the circumstances. When the Tacoma went ashore, there was no gale, only the usual weather with such breakers as are seen all along the coast. The loss of the steamer under such circumstances is a strange fact enough. But the loss of nine men within a short distance of a life-saving station, when a keeper declined to go in his own life boat, is a still stronger fact, and one which invites further scrutiny. -S. F.
