

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1883

The Columbia crossed out at one o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Ullock has a pilot on board. A barkentine, supposed to be the Melancthon, seventeen days from San Francisco, is also outside.

The tug Tacoma recently towed a raft from Sanaiah to Tacoma, containing 2,500,000 feet of logs, the largest single raft ever towed on the Sound.

The Standard flouring mills at Milwaukee were sold to the Sellwood real estate company last week for $35,000. Possession was given Tuesday.

J. O. Bozorth arrives down from Portland this evening, at which place, he, on Tuesday evening, instituted a new lodge of Knights of Pythias.

A local paper speaking of the death of a prominent citizen says "he has gone to that bourne from which, as yet, no traveler has returned." "As yet" is good.

At a special meeting of the city council last evening an ordinance was passed providing for the improvement of certain portions of Cedar street and estimating the cost.

The repairs to the Canby are about completed, and the vessel goes on her regular Cape route to-morrow. The Miles is billed to leave for Gray's harbor to-morrow morning.

The editor of the Philadelphia Ledger has forty-six clocks in his office, but when he wants to know the time he has to go across the street, just as we do to look in Hansen's window.

A correspondent of the Bureka Cal., Times-Telephone, says he saw a fallen tree in Humboldt Co., Cal., which would, if sawed, produce 435,000 feet of lumber. That is a big 1—tree.

J. F. Boyer, grand master of the I. O. O. F., of Oregon, has granted a dispensation for the public celebration on April 20th, of the 64th anniversary of the introduction of the order in this country.

Up the valley fruit trees are blossoming, and the cherry and plum trees are "clothed like a bride." They are, we fear a little too previous, but this sunshine would make an old boot leg sprout.

To-day being the great fast of Holy Thursday there will be appropriate service at the Catholic church at 8 A. M., to-morrow the Fast of Good Friday, mass will be celebrated at the same hour.

Washington Territory papers say the Sunday law is a dead letter, and that it should be either enforced or repealed. There are plenty such ordinances and laws south as well as north of the Columbia river that should be either enforced or expunged from the statutes.

Yesterday was the equinoctial; at noon great masses of fog swept in from the ocean, obscuring the warm sun and chilling the atmosphere; toward nightfall the clouds banked themselves in the southwest: our extraordinarily long spell of fine weather comes to a close.

The children in a certain school were recently asked to write a sentence embodying the word capillary. One girl wrote: "I came from San Francisco in a capillary," and when asked what she meant, triumphantly pointed out the word in Webster's dictionary—"Capillary, a fine vessel."

The following is an advertisement in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer:

I WILL GIVE A GOOD OLD RELIGIOUS couple rent free, in the prettiest cottage in Seattle, if they will take care of a bed room and parlor for my own use. They must be neat and tidy, and not quarrelsome, and the woman must be old enough to be my mother. Apply to Alex Waugh, the great American traveler arrived down from the inland empire yesterday afternoon. He grows handsomer as the years go by and is enthusiastic over this magnificent region of the northwest. He is advance agent for Mrs. Anna L. Potts, who will lecture here on the 27th. Mr. Waugh is accompanied by his wife. From here he goes to Australia.

The subscription books for stock in the Clatsop road has been placed in the hands of Bozorth & Johns, at whose office they will be found. We have already discussed at length the benefits that would result from the building of the road. To be able to do anything in the matter this season it is requisite that a sufficient amount be guaranteed to justify commencement of the work.

Launch of the A. B. Field.

Yesterday witnessed the starting out of another steamer of Astoria manufacture, the A. B. Field, a description of which was published in these columns two weeks ago. The ways were all ready last Tuesday, but Alex McKenzie, who had charge of the work from the start, concluded the tide was hardly high enough and waited for twenty-five hours more. At 11.15 yesterday morning the shores and wedges were knocked away and the pretty little steamer floated gracefully in the Columbia. She was taken in tow by the Sam, and carried to upper town, where she will be finished. Steam will be got up in a few days, and about the first prox. she will go on her regular trips between Astoria and Tillamook.

Medical Lecture.

Speaking of Mrs. Anna M.L. Potts, M. D., whose announcement appears in the advertising columns this morning, the Oregonian says she took a wide range in her lecture, and discussed the physical creation of the earth as well as the origin of species, and the physiological laws of health. To say that the lecture was an able and comprehensive one, abounding in thought and scintillant with brightness, is to pay but a meagre compliment to the effort. She is clear in her statements and forcible in her deductions, and has rare power of arresting the attention and exciting the reflective faculties of her auditors. The ladies seemed to be held particularly rapt, and frequently expressed their sympathy with the lecturer by audible exclamation.

Notice of Distribution.

Local inspectors of steam vessels of the first, second, third, eighth, ninth and tenth supervising districts have been notified that there are sent to them immediately, for distribution upon the steamers in their districts, copies of the pilot-rules for "seas, gulls, lakes, bays, sounds and rivers. Each steamer in the various districts must be supplied with two copies of the amended rules, prior to April, 1883, at which time it is directed that the new rules shall go into operation. Owners, masters and pilots can procure copies by calling upon Capt. J. D. Merryman at the custom house.

The regular spring installment of stories concerning snakes and lizards ejected from human stomachs, is fully up to former seasons. Sea serpent stories are a little delayed, and the ninety year old man who chops three cords of wood before breakfast, and the 103 year old lady who has just finished a patch work quilt with 32,407 pieces in it, have not been heard from so far.

We are in receipt of a letter from an irate party who recounts his wrongs and alleges that his employer has "beat" him out of two day's wages. He says relative to said employer, "give him hell." We are not dealing in that article, and know nothing of his case. But, probably, if he tells the truth, he "knows how it is himself." We have been buying paper, collecting news, paying to have it set in type, paying to have the paper printed, folded and mailed to the complainant for nearly eighteen months, and haven't got our pay yet. Tom Hood says that benevolence is like a game of blindman's buff—"a fellow feeling for a fellow creature." The defrauded employee has our sympathy.

To the Public.

Mr. I. W. Case is the sole Astoria agent for the following lines of Atlantic steamships: White Star, National American, Red Star, and Allan. I shall be glad to have my friends patronize the lines that Mr. Case represents.

A. T. BRAKKE.

Good News.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17, 1883. CARL ADLER:—I send by steamer twenty baby carriages on sale at nearly one-third of regular price. An eastern factory having suspended we bought their stock for a mere song. Be sure to sell them as we have no room to store them. We also send you velocipedes, bird cages, and a variety of other goods which you will sell regardless of price. Will send you another lot shortly, as these prices will sell the goods on sight. Yours,

FRIDENBAUM & Co.

Referring to the above I would respectfully inform the public that I will sell the carriages and other goods on their arrival on incoming steamers at 20 per cent. less than the same articles are now marked. Call and examine the goods. CARL ADLER.

Wood Choppers Wanted.

Men who want to contract for cutting timber into cord-wood can get a chance for a contract by calling on JAS. BELL, Upper Astoria.

Senator Grover's Views.

Senator Grover arrived on the Oregon, from Washington. To a Chronicle reporter he said in response to various questions: "The most important measure to us before congress during the last session was the bill for improving the Columbia river, Yaquina bay and other rivers and harbors of this coast. The bill originated in the house, which it passed, and was sent to the senate so short a time before its adjournment that no action could be taken on it.

"Another important bill, which got through both houses, was one increasing the pay of deputy government surveyors of California, Oregon and Washington Territory fifty per cent. above former rates. Heretofore it has been a difficult matter to secure deputy surveyors for government work on this coast on account of the meager salaries paid.

"Late in the session a petition was received from residents of San Francisco and other places on this slope, asking that the fortifications intended for the protection of the San Francisco harbor, the San Diego harbor and the mouth of the Columbia river be improved. The petition was very favorably considered by the committee on military fortifications, of which I was chairman, and I am confident that there has been time for action after its receipt a desirable bill would have passed both houses without much opposition.

"The reason why Washington Territory was not admitted to the Union as a state at the recent session was that her census roll did not show sufficient population to warrant her admission. By the next session she will probably make a better showing and may then be admitted.

"The matter of revoking the land grant of the Northern Pacific railway on account of its having failed to complete its line through from St. Paul to Portland within the specified time was before congress, but as it was shown that the work of construction had been pushed forward as rapidly as possible, congress concluded to not disturb the grant. In conversation with President Villard of that line, a few days ago, he told me that the road is completed with the exception of a gap of 200 miles, which will all be in readiness for rolling stock by the 1st of August. On the completion of the Northern Pacific and Oregon Short Line roads Portland will loom up as a dangerous rival to San Francisco, occupying about the same relation to this place that Boston does to New York. Portland will have a shorter route to the east and will stand an equal chance in competition for Asiatic trade."
