

The Daily Astorian. ASTORIA, OREGON: SUNDAY MARCH 25, 1883

Too Many People.

A short time ago we commented on the fact that increase of population did not always insure prosperity...

What is the kind and measure of abundance upon which the single province of Bengal is breeding in the numbers I have quoted...

John Kelley is of the opinion that rebellion cannot succeed in Ireland, and advises emigration to America as a sovereign cure for the ills of misgovernment.

The Oregonian says that the real estate "boom," which for a year or more has been fitting from one suburb to another, has reached the city proper.

Nearly three centuries ago the body of the gallant Sir Francis Drake was encased in a lead coffin and buried at sea off Puerto Cabello.

The Hawaiian Gazette says that "twenty-five years ago there were not a hundred lepers in the Sandwich Islands, whereas now, at a moderate estimate, there are 1,500 or 2,000."

The people whom he speaks of are Caucasians, are moral and virtuous, and in the usual way of looking at this matter are deserving of a kinder fate than is store for them.

OWEN LOVEJOY'S historic press, which the foes of abolition threw into the Mississippi at Alton, Ill., is now in the office of the Belmont, Iowa, Herald.

The people of the Mississippi valley are said to be apprehensive of a cholera epidemic during the coming spring.

Governor Foster, of Ohio, being in New York the other day, was asked whether he was a candidate for re-election.

The Portland News says: Although the warm season has barely begun, the smell that arises from many of the public streets, gutters, alleys, and back yards in Portland, are as bad as possible.

The Buffalo Courier is convinced that a man with $9,000 insurance on his life ought not to sleep with a pistol under his pillow unless he is certain his wife is not a somnambulist.

Kentucky still retains the provision that no man exercising the functions of a clergyman, priest, or religious teacher of any sect, shall be eligible for election to the legislature.

The Utica Herald thinks if the Democratic house wishes to adopt outrageous rules at any time during its existence, it will not have to go far back for a Republican precedent.

Dr. Bunsen, the eminent German chemist, has been elected a foreign associate of the French academy, a dignity which is one of the highest in the world and limited to eight persons.

Now that King Kalakaua is wearing a crown and firmly seated on a throne of American manufacture, he should import a board of health competent to wrestle with the leprosy question.

The following notice was recently posted on the doors of an Iowa bank after the sudden disappearance of its cashier: "Another pioneer of American civilization lights out for Polynesia."

There are said to be three seasons in Florida—the orange, vegetable and invalid—the last paying the best. In the summer the Floridians live on yams and sugar cane, and in the winter on Yankees.
