

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SUNDAY, APRIL 1, 1883. -Low Sunday. -The Nebo has arrived out. -Services in all the city churches. -The life crew at the Cape disbanded today. -The Kate & Anna went to sea yesterday morning. -Fresh salmon, caught this morning, is in the market. -Simpson & Co. are having a new tug built at North Bend. -The Edith has sent to San Francisco for a new shaft to replace the one recently broken. -Chas. Hodge, a pioneer Portland merchant died in that city last Friday, aged fifty-five years. -The Kentucky Jubilee singers will appear at Occident Hall on next Thursday and Friday, the 5th and 6th inst. -The American ships Harry Morse and Resper, went up stream yesterday, the latter in tow of the Wide West. -Chas. Whitehead, late city editor of the News was among our callers yesterday. He went below on the State. -The pipe for the Columbia water-works has arrived in San Francisco and will be shipped here as soon as possible. -The State of California sailed for San Francisco at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. She will arrive back again next Sunday. -P. J. Goodman has received a splendid stock of boots and shoes, purchased in the east, and of the best guaranteed quality. -The A. B. Field, comes down from Portland to-day, and will start for Tillamook on her initial trip to-morrow or Tuesday. -The March that closed yesterday was unrivaled in the climatic history of the northwest for fine weather and absence from storms of any kind. -On the first page of this morning's edition M. D. Kant makes announcement concerning spring goods, which will be opened in a short time. -Chaplain Scott will preach at the Baptist church at 11 A. M., and deliver a lecture in the evening, subject, "The fast young man." Sunday school at 2 P. M. -Quarterly meeting at the Methodist church to-day. Love feast at 10 A. M., preaching at the usual hours by Rev. W. B. Osborne, late of the South India Conference. -The Clatsop Milling Co. take possession to-morrow of the saw mill property recently sold by Geo. W. Hume. It is the intention of the company to enlarge the capacity of the mill. -Regular quarterly Sunday school review and concert at the Presbyterian church at 7 P. M. All are welcome; parents whose children attend the school especially urged to be present. -The showery weather of the past week has delayed completion of several buildings. The number already put up but serve as an indication of the great amount of building which will be done here this season. -We notice Jas. Scott, who was shot by one Peter Carlson some months ago, is out on crutches. The injury, will, it is feared, result in permanent disability. Scott is a straightforward industrious man, and it is hard that such a half crazy, jealous creature should spoil his whole life as he has. -The Oregon Knight Templars who intend visiting San Francisco on the occasion of the grand convocation next August, will, like the McGregors, "have a boat of their own." The steamer which they charter for the occasion will furnish them with hotel accommodations while at the metropolis. -It is reported that the O. & C. R. R. Co., has bonded considerable property from Skipanon creek, past Tanzy point and down to Fort Stevens, for terminal facilities. If so, "a boom" in Clatsop stock will be the next thing in order. In the meantime it might be well to suggest that a few more shares in the Clatsop road may still be procured. -The Chinese celebrate to-day as some sort of grand holiday wherein special consideration is given to the spirits of departed Mongolians. One of the tribe who came in yesterday to squander two bits in the purchase of paper explained in a disjointed fashion that the chief solemnity of the occasion was inspired by the belief that some of the dead Celestials were still in a sort of limbo, and it was of great comfort to them to know that those who still sojourned here below, were mindful of their departed brethren and by sacred ceremonial, mitigated their sufferings they now endure for wickedness committed in the flesh.

TOO MUCH KNOWLEDGE.
Weather Signals in the Bermuda Islands.
The code is very elaborate, and the signals are used not only for spreading information, but also for communicating with vessels at sea. As soon as a signal is hoisted on one pole, it is repeated on the other three. Nearly every Bermudian knows these signals like the alphabet, without the use of the chart, but strangers have to hunt. It is one of the things Bermudians pride themselves on—understanding every possible signal.
The day before the Princess Louise arrived we had a terrible time in the hotel. It was a beautiful, quiet, calm, summer Sunday morning, making me feel so peaceful and lovely that I resolved to get up once in time for the 9 o'clock breakfast. I strolled leisurely to the end of the hotel and looked at the signal-post. It was as bare as a telegraph-pole. This was a disappointment, for by that hour two weeks before the steamer had been sighted. Just as we were through breakfast a flag was run up. One of the experienced gentlemen took the telescope, and a dozen or more of us went out with him to see what it was. With the dignity of a general surveying a battle-field (from a safe distance) he rested the glass across a limb of the tree, bent his knees, and took an observation.
"It's a red swallow-tail," said he, after patiently waiting for the wind to straighten out the flag. "What does it mean? Go look at the chart, somebody."
Somebody went and looked, and found that it meant "an unknown sail."
"There's something coming," said the observer. "I suppose they haven't under her out yet. It may be the Princess, or it may be the New York mail." He was hardly done speaking when up went another flag.
"Hello! what's this! Blue with a yellow center. What the deuce does that mean?"
That meant "a vessel coming into St. George's." Then there must be two vessels in sight; one not yet made out, and one coming into St. George. Could it be that the Princess would land at St. George? But look out; there goes another flag.
"Wait a minute," said the observer, who was fast becoming a very important person; "wait till she blows round a little. There she is, a big, yellow flag without a mark on it. What is that! Why, that's a vessel waiting a health officer. Can it be that there are three in sight! There's the key to the code, anyhow. Hold on, there goes another flag. By George! it's the Stars and Stripes!" So it was, sure enough. No need of a glass to make that out. But what could it mean! Why should the American flag be hoisted on a Bermuda signal pole? Ah, this explains it. Here is another flag going up just under it, white, with a red center, denoting a frigate. This must mean that an American frigate has been sighted.
"There goes another," somebody shouted, and it was true enough. This time it was a blue pendant, with a white center. There was no mistaking that. "A screw sloop of war was the meaning of this flag."
"The Princess is coming, sure enough!" And a half dozen people ran into the hotel to tell their wives and children.
By this time one of the halcyons was full of flags, and it was thought best to bring out the framed code to help decipher them. There never was such a wild time in Bermuda. The very air seemed to be full of ships. They were in the north, in the south, off the reefs, in St. George's harbor, in quarantine, every where. The New York mail flag went up. So did the Halifax mail flag. What on earth had broken loose! The Halifax steamer was not due for three weeks. There must have been a terrible storm, driving the vessels into shelter. Yes, sure enough, there was the signal, "A vessel in distress!"
"There goes the No. 4 flag," said the observer; "what does that mean! They must be communicating with some vessel in the harbor." Everybody was excited. Children hopped and danced. What a rare day for Bermuda, with vessels coming in every direction. We would have our letters, we would have the Princess; there was nothing we wouldn't have, in short, for there were ships from every where. The danger signal went up. Both halcyons by this time were full of flags. The Union Jack was at the mast head, it was a perfect carnival of flags. People ran in and out of the hotels, spreading the great news, hardly able to contain themselves.
An old Bermudian came down out of the breakfast-room, and somebody told him the great news. He looked a little incredulous, but went to the corner of the building where the observer had the telescope, to see for himself. He took only one glance, jammed his hands far down in his breeches-pockets, and smiled.
"Oh," said he, "that's nothing. They're only airing the flags. They do that every Sunday morning to keep them from moulding!"—New York Correspondence.

Good Words from Yamhill.
A movement is on foot says the Yamhill Reporter looking towards the construction of a line of railroad from Astoria to Forest Grove. Already the O & C. company have ordered a corps of engineers to start upon the projected route at an early day. Well may our enterprising little city "down by the sea" hail the prospect of such an event with glowing exultation. It is the one thing now needed to give Astoria a wholesome channel to the heart of that country of which she is the natural entrepot, and give her a chance to develop the advantage which her position between the soil and the seaboard possesses. Nor will the consummation of such a scheme be without its benefits to the people of the Willamette valley generally, and especially the western portion. With direct transportation to tide water we will have in the market there a new and a hardy competitor against the old monopolist, via Portland.
This would be greatly advantageous to the producers of this section, as it costs many an extra dollar to get every cargo of produce from Portland to the seaboard, and that means many a dollar wrung from the pocket of the producer. It is easy to perceive, then, why we should be interested in the success of an Astoria-Forest Grove railroad connection, and why it becomes us to join hands with our sea-side friends for the furtherance of the desired object. We must expect, however, to see the project confronted by weighty obstacles. Portland's capitalists will naturally throw their influence against it, and for a time may retard the scheme. But surely it cannot be silenced forever. The natural condition of things demands the improvement. The country's increase of population and business and progress must be met by an accommodation so necessary, and that too, at no distant day.

—With her lecture on love, courtship and marriage, last evening, Mrs. Dr. A. M. L. Potts closed her series of lectures in this city. The fact that every succeeding lecture was given to a larger audience than the preceding one best exemplifies the interest this talented lady has elicited during her stay. She, together with Dr. J. C. Harrison, will remain at the Occident to-day and to-morrow, and will leave for San Francisco next Tuesday.

"NOW WELL AND STRONG."
SHIPMAN, Illinois.
Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:
Dear Sir—I wish to state that my daughter, aged 18, was pronounced incurable and was fast failing as the doctors thought, with consumption. I obtained a half dozen bottles of your "Golden Medical Discovery" for her and she commenced improving at once, and is now well and strong.
Very truly yours,
Rev. ISAAC N. AUGUSTIN.

Useful in the Family.
We usually leave it to Doctors to recommend medicines, but Parker's Ginger Tonic has been so useful in our family in relieving sickness and suffering that we cannot say too much in its praise.—Salem Argus.

Good for Babies.
With a baby at breast nothing is so useful for quieting my own and baby's nerves as Parker's Ginger Tonic. It prevents bowel complaints, and is better than any stimulant to give strength and appetite.—A Newark Mother.

Wiggins' Great Storm.
It seems as though the great storm predicted by Wiggins, is going to strike Astoria. During the last week, at least seventeen young, good-looking, marriageable men have been at A. M. Johnson's Crockery Store, inspecting their stock and pricing crockery, with a view of getting ready for housekeeping. If a storm is not in transit towards Astoria, a squall is, at least, and the young ladies had better be prepared for it. If they will call at our store during the week, our gentlemanly clerk will take pleasure in showing them the nice sets of dishes, etc., that their young men have already picked out. Of course we don't want you to give us away, as we have promised the young men not to let you into the secret; but of course you will want to see what kind of crockery you are going to use, and as it is all here we would like to have you inspect it. Seventeen honeymoons are going to be crowded into this year it seems. How they are going to do it is a question, but they'll do it no doubt.

Success.
The sale of Syrup of Figs is simply immense. Everyone is taking it, and all admit that it is the best medicine ever used. Children cry for it on account of its pleasant taste, and grown up people who have used it once never take anything else. Unlike other remedies for biliousness and constipation it never loses its power to act, and it always leaves the organs on which it acts stronger than before. Besides one feels fresh and bright and realizes that it is Nature's own true laxative. W. E. Dement & Co., are agents for Astoria. Hodge Davis & Co., Wholesale Agents, Portland Oregon.
