

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1883

The Queen of the Pacific is due from San Francisco this morning with 181 cabin passengers.

Eighteen years ago to-day Abraham Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth, at Ford's theater in Washington City.

The New York Novelty store must move May 1st, and they prefer selling the goods at a sacrifice to moving them. See adv.

Word comes from Shoalwater bay that a fishing boat drifted in on the beach bottom upward last Tuesday. No identification.

Prof. A. L. Francis, the well-known piano tuner and musician, writes us from Victoria that he will be here about the 25th inst.

It is thought that the collier Unatilla will be fitted up to accommodate passengers northward from San Francisco and help take the strain off the other vessels belonging to the company.

The Eureka yesterday morning discharged the first consignment of pipe for the Columbia Waterworks; the Unatilla which is expected in tomorrow has some more of the same kind of iron.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of the auction sale that takes place at E. C. Holden's at half-past ten o'clock this morning. There will be some fine furniture, etc., offered for sale.

The steamer Gen. Miles, which is owned by the Iwaco Steam Navigation company, whose headquarters are at Iwaco, W. T., is still in Gray's Harbor. Upon her return she will leave for Tillamook.

Word comes from the Magnet that she ran into a log in one of the sloughs that head into Young's river and sank. The man that found her tied her tight, so she couldn't get away and now has a little claim for salvage.

The Army & Navy Journal hints that Capt. John C. White, 1st Artillery, may soon be retired, in which case let G. R. Shaw, of that regiment, would be promoted Captain. Capt. White went before a retiring board for examination some time ago, but the matter is as yet indefinite.

From Mr. Rob't Carruthers who recently returned from a trip to Shoalwater bay, we learn that the oyster beds are giving evidence of recuperating and that the damage occasioned by the cold weather last winter is not so much as was at first feared, a fact which it is a pleasure to chronicle.

The editor of the Seattle Herald in writing up an account of a supper he attended a few nights ago, says that "the viands consisted of Dry Mum French claret, and Hensley brandy." This is even worse than poor old Jack Falstaff who was willing that there should be one pennyworth of bread to "such a monstrous deal of sack."

The Wide West has been temporarily removed for the accommodation of Mr. Villard who arrives on the Queen of the Pacific to-day, and who, upon arriving at Astoria, will take the former boat en route to Kalama and the Sound. The Mountain Queen takes the place of the Wide West, and the Bonita goes on in place of the former boat.

A Knappston man troubled with insomnia was told that he would be cured by going to bed, closing his eyes and picturing in his mind a flock of sheep jumping a fence one at a time. This experiment nearly made him insane. "I jumped about 2,000 over the fence," he says, "and there were about 1,000,000 left. Sleep! I'd given $1,000 not to see those sheep jump that fence. I could have gone to sleep right away but for the 2,000,000 stupid, white-faced sheep standing waiting like a lot of fools for me to jump 'em over the fence. Jump 'em, did I say? I had to boost 'em. drive 'em, hoist every one of those 6,000,000 sheep over that pasture fence, and when I turned and looked back there were 13,000,000 sheep, stupid, black-faced, white, woolly imps waiting there, each saying, 'Me too; my turn next.'"

Arm Amputated.

The steamer Eureka arrived in yesterday from San Francisco with freight for the Columbia river and points to the north. She left San Francisco last Monday. When 24 hours out one of the oilers in the engine room named B. A. Hurlburt, met with a dreadful accident, having his left arm caught in the machinery, one of the engine valves sheering laterally across and severing the limb just below the elbow. The stump was bandaged up and attended to as well as possible. Upon the arrival of the boat at this port the injured man was conveyed to St. Mary's Hospital where the arm was properly amputated, and dressed. Last evening the patient was resting easily.

The Salmon Fleet.

Now that the white sailed ships that spread their wings and fly to sea have for a season ceased to line our docks, the more numerous salmon fleet dot the blue waters of our noble river. Already the surface of the water is covered with dancing boats each manned by a sturdy crew. In attendance on these is a smaller fleet of busy steam crafts, mostly Astoria built and owned. This season we have the A. R. Field, for Badollet & Co.; the Edith tending to the boats of J. G. Megler of Brookfield; the Argonaut which looks out for the boats of J. W. & V. Cook, of Clifton, and other steamers hourly arriving and going. The latest addition is the Mountaineer, lying at Flavels dock. She is a trim little craft built on about the same model as the Argonaut but smaller. She is about 75 feet long, and 14 feet breadth of beam, and registers 24.88 tons. She was built at Iwaco by Herbert Pettit, had her machinery put in at Portland, and will, during the fishing season run to the Cape and back in the employ of John A. Devlin & Co. The first trip will be made on Monday.

Birthday Party.

A merry party assembled last evening the occasion being the celebration of Herman Prael's twenty-first birthday. Among those who were present may be mentioned:

Mr. & Mrs. D. A. McIntosh, Misses Allie Gibson, Clara Strang, Daisy Payne, Dora Badollet, Winnie Crang, Marion Trenchard, Maude Hobson, Lottie Goodall, Jennie Crang, O. Elliott, Nellie Carnahan, Laura Worsley, Kate Davidson, Fannie Dickinson, Ellen Bryce, Laura Heilborn, Olgie Heilborn, Josie Bryce, Ettie Hobson, Ella Anderson, Messrs. H. C. Thompson, W. L. Robb, Jas. Thompson, Otto Heilborn, G. Richardson, Thos. Crang, Geo. P. Wheeler, F. W. Newell, Jas. Davidson, W. L. Garretson, L. A. Allen, Alsie Fox, Wm. Sherman, H. G. Van Dusen, B. Van Dusen, E. Prael, Jno. Bryce, W. E. Warren, Scott Bozorth and F. Prael. About 9:30 dancing began, and at eleven refreshments were served. Mr. Prael was the recipient of many hearty congratulations upon his advent into manhood, and after many kindly good-nights, the company separated.

Washing neatly and satisfactorily done: blankets and woolen goods nicely cleaned, at Mrs. Ellen Farrells, near Kinney's Cannery, left hand side of the street.

ASTORIA'S STEADY GROWTH

New Houses and More Business.

Building seems to be the principal thing going on. Every where are piles of lumber and busy workers. The new building on the lot this side of the Fosters will soon be completed. On the other side of the street three new buildings have lately been erected, and, of course found immediate occupancy. Farther up the lumber is being got out for a two story structure that J. W. Hume is going to put up opposite Barth & Meyers. Completed west we find Genevieve street completed from Chenamus to Squemoqua, fifty feet wide, giving E. R. Hawes and A. Van Dusen all the advantages that a corner location confers. Sidewalks are being laid, and it is the intention to continue the street blocks to the south, which will involve the demolition of the shed under which the old hand engine finds shelter. The bell tower too must go; its removal to the quarters assigned to it in the rear of the city hall will determine the time when Capt. Flavel will build substantial structures on its present site. On the south side of the street Hiram Brown is putting up a frame building to be occupied by I. J. Arvid as a boot and shoe store. Just west of Jackins & Parks, W. E. Headington is putting the finishing touches to a building, the property of I. W. Case. This is built in a manner which seems to us worthy of observation wherever practicable. The building is put up in the middle of the lot, leaving sufficient space on each side to admit of a team being driven around the premises. Should a fire break out in the vicinity the convenience of having a place to station an engine constitutes no small part of the desirability attached to having plenty of room. This building will be occupied by Mrs. E. S. Warren as a millinery establishment. On the corner the Odd Fellows' building is in process of completion. It was thought the hall would be finished by April 26th, and that that date, the 64th anniversary of the founding of the order would be made the occasion of a grand dedicatory ceremony on the part of Beaver Lodge No. 35, but as it was found impracticable to complete the rooms in the style intended by that time, the idea was abandoned. Messrs. Case and Megler were in Portland a few days ago to see about procuring suitable furniture and Capt. Reed went up yesterday afternoon on the same errand. The trustees have bids from Astoria, Portland and San Francisco, the furniture to be cost about $3,000 to be built with direct reference to the use for which it is intended, and will be of the best material and workmanship.

The lower floors have been let with the exception of the premises on Cass street which is still in abeyance. The second story front suite has been rented by Dr. La Force, the other suites will probably be occupied by offices and for private families. Suprenant & Ferguson have found time enough from their other work to put up a building south of the Odd Fellows', which will, we believe, be divided into three suites of rooms and used for office purposes. This brings us up to Jefferson street. On the corner of Main, L. Hartwig is putting up a three story building 25x40 for E. C. Holden, and further up A. Montgomery is about to put up a dwelling house. At the Parker House men are busy putting on an addition which will place the whole under one roof and add additional accommodation to that popular hotel. Opposite the post office and on Concomly street below, are other buildings going up which are already engaged at prices which render their construction profitable.

The late substantial improvements on Chenamus street are being supplemented by some street repairs in front of the Occident which were badly needed.

The other buildings of which mention has been previously made are fast approaching completion. A good many new ones are completed. Among others, Capt. J. D. Merryman is about to build a substantial dwelling house on his property.

RULES OF THE SEA.

Aprons of the recent marine collisions, the following clear definition of marine regulations is quotable: Steamers meeting fair on end, Three lights open, masts in one, in such a case have naught to fear. Each ports her helm and passes clear. If on your starboard bow or beam, A steamer's red port light should gleam. Be prompt to act without delay, Yours is the ship that must give way.

To every vessel under sail. A steamer gives way, without fail. Unless a case comes into view, Of a sailing ship overtaking you.

When on your port bow you sight A crossing steamer's starboard light, Be cautious how you go ahead, While her green light shows to your red.

When you are approaching to, A ship that should keep clear of you, This rule then comes into force, That you are bound to hold your course.

If in a special case you see, That you can save a casualty, Then by these rules you are not bound, But exercise a judgment sound.

It is not by these rules advised, To part from customs recognized. Mind the lights, bright green and red, The land, the log, lookout and lead.

If you are bilious, take Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." The original "Little Liver Pills." Of all druggists.

Is it Not True?

There can be no argument as to the qualities essential to a perfect remedy for the ill arising from a disordered or inactive condition of the liver, stomach and bowels. Everyone will admit that it should be perfectly safe for old and young of both sexes, at any and all times; that it should be acceptable both to the taste and the stomach; that it should never fail to act promptly and thoroughly, yet painlessly, and it should give strength to those organs. It is now well known that Syrup of Figs possesses those qualities in a pre-eminent degree. W. E. Dement is agent for Astoria.
