

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1883.

Henry Villard left Portland yesterday for Puget Sound.

County Treasurer Heilborn gives notice concerning county orders.

Arndt & Boelling's new steamer will be launched at Rainier tomorrow.

B. F. Stevens is among the returning passengers on the State this morning.

The State is due this morning from S. F. The Oregon leaves for S. F. tomorrow.

The old engine house has disappeared, and the hand engine along with other curiosities, is stored away at the Main street wharf.

The Edith took the Canby's place on the Cape route yesterday, consequently upon some slight disarrangement of the latter's machinery.

The Escort No. 2, is expected here about the 1st inst. What she will do after she gets here is a question. There is no towing of any consequence at present.

"Forest green," "telegraph blue," "crushed strawberry," "mashed gooseberry," "shrimp pink," and "fried muck" are among the fashionable tints in spring suitings.

The Melancthon and Tam O'Shanter went to sea yesterday. The Indiana and C. S. Hulbert are reported outside. The Miles arrived in from Gray's harbor yesterday.

The boiler in the Portland planing mill of W. B. Cantrell exploded last Wednesday afternoon, killing the engineer, W. P. Gheen, and injuring his son and the owner of the mill.

The Weekly Astorian is out this morning, full of news that you can read in no other paper. Buy a copy, and after you have read it through send it to some one you know back east, in whose welfare you are interested.

The two men who were supposed to be drowned from boat No. 2, of Geo. Hume, have turned up all right. Some of their comrades finding their boat and not brought it up and reported the drowning of its occupants; not so bad after all.

Reports from below are to the effect that there will be a light run of salmon in the Sacramento this year. There is no sure thing in reference to salmon one way or the other. The catch here has hardly begun yet; but few canneries care to put much gear in the water till the run justifies it.

The Coquille mill and tug company's saw mill at Parkersburg, on Coquille river, was burned last Saturday, and was a total loss. The mill was entirely new and well equipped. It stood about a hundred yards from the cannery of the Coquille Packing Co., which was incorporated here about a month ago.

From Mr. A. Knapp, of Knappa, we learn that Alex. Brownell, who has been cutting cord wood for him since last October, and who left there March 31st to go to Astoria in his skiff, intending to return soon, left Astoria on about April 4th, intending, as he said, to go up to the Portage, where he left his skiff and to return to Knappa. He has not been seen since, and fears are expressed that he is lost, as much stormy and squally weather has prevailed for weeks past.

The Seattle Herald has indisputable information that within the past thirty days upwards of fifty thousand dollars has been invested in real estate in the vicinity of Gray's Harbor. A deputation of San Francisco gentlemen in company with Gov. Newell, were inspecting the harbor a few days ago. It looks as though the next boom will be in that direction. A Michigan mill company have perfected arrangements to erect a large sawmill on the harbor, which will cost a half million when completed. The Gray's Harbor and Olympia railroad will be in actual operation within a year. Already the capital is subscribed and the right of way has been given by the farmers and property-holders in the vicinity of the road.

Shad and Carp.

Large numbers of carp and a few shad have been received in Oregon from the Potomac hatcheries, near Washington City, during the past year. These fish have been distributed over the state in various quantities and are generally, as far as heard from, doing well. A gentleman who is largely interested in their distribution in Oregon waters says:

"Shad are a peculiar fish, with home instincts. Take the little baby fish, scarcely an inch long, and put them in the Willamette at this place and they will find their way over the bar of the Columbia and into the Pacific ocean. They will return in three years to their home in the Willamette to spawn. They will then weigh two or three pounds. It is a singular thing that these fish can find their way back to the place in which they are first put in the water. A little shad an inch long may be put into a river, go down to the ocean, stay the allotted time there, and will then return to the spot where he was first deposited. Shad and carp are handled in a peculiar yet very careful manner. We usually handle them in a can holding ten or fifteen gallons each. In a ten-gallon can we will carry

FIFTEEN OR TWENTY

Thousand fish. The little fellows are an immense amount of trouble, and it takes two men to manage them. The water has to be changed every two or three hours. For instance, we take a ten gallon can of water, in which we have, say, fifteen or twenty thousand little shad from three-quarters to an inch in length. When we want to change the water, which must be done every two or three hours, we put a funnel shaped affair into the can, at the end of which funnel is a sieve through which the fish cannot go. The water runs into a bucket. That is, we don't take quite all of it out. We then take the bucket of water that has been drawn off and remove three large dippers of it. In place of that three dippers of water we put three dippers of ice water. They have to have ice water. Then with the dipper we dip up the water and pour it back into the bucket—not in the can—ladle it as you do cane juice at a syrup mill. That oxygenizes the water. When that is thoroughly done we return the water to the can and the fish have another rest for two or three hours.

THE HATCHERIES.

It is quite interesting to see the shad hatcheries at Washington. All the shad that are hatched in Washington are hatched from eggs taken from the female shad caught in the Potomac river. An ordinary female fish will drop twenty thousand eggs, some more and some less. That is about the average. A fish has to be "ripe" before she is ready for the eggs to be taken from her. An expert can easily tell when she is ripe. He takes her in his hands, with the back down and gently presses the eggs out into a smooth, polished pan, to which is added a small quantity of water. Then the milt is taken from the male fish and dropped into the water, when the eggs, which before were perfectly clear, become gray and opaque after impregnation. They are then put into glass jars or large cones, through which there is a continual supply of water passing, and the eggs are kept in continual motion until the young fish are hatched out, which usually requires about four days. They are immediately put into cans and are then shipped to the different parts of the country. Eighty or eighty-five per cent. of the eggs taken from the female fish hatch. Really more are hatched out of a given number by the artificial process than by the natural method. It is interesting to watch eggs just before they hatch. First you see a little speck, then the eyes, then the tail begins to wiggle, then the little fish comes out with a sack on the end of his chin, a very small sack in reality, but a very large sack for such a little fish. That sack is called his umbilical sack from which he feeds until he is able to get his living from the water. He is much more troublesome than the young carp. They are raised in ponds and are the hardest domesticated fish I suppose that are in existence."—E. P. Vindicator.

"ENJOY YOUR LIFE"

Is good philosophy, but to do so you must have health. If bilious and constipated, or blood is out of order, use Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are mild, yet certain in their operation. Of all druggists.

The State of California which arrives here to-day brings a large consignment of books and stationery for B. F. Stevens & Co. Ladies and others contemplating the purchase of something really fine should wait and see the choice and fashionable styles that will be displayed.

Lime-Kill Club Philosophy.

"Am Judge Perfection Smith in de hall this evening?" asked the President as he laid aside his gavel and looked around him.

"Yes, sah," answered a voice full of fishbones and shingle-nails shaken up together.

"Please ambulate dis way." The Judge ambulated. He came up confident and smiling, expecting to receive a gold medal for inventing a mosquito-bar, which also catches rats.

"Judge Smith," said the President in a solemn voice, "dar am a few little things I desiah to spoke to you about. You war' at de pos'office de odder day to rent a box at $2.50 per quarter. All de mail dat you receive in six months wouldn't light a kerosene lamp. Den why dis attempt to frow on style an' heap on agony?"

"I-I didn't rent one, sah," replied the culprit in a weak voice.

"A few days ago," continued the President, "I oberheard you trotting out a Presidential candidate for 1884. You had your biggest voice, an' you was flingin' your arms about, an' one would have thought you knowed all about it. Judge Smith, you will have no mo' to do wid de making of de nex' President of de United States dan one grain of sand will have in makin' up de great Salary desert."

"No, sah—dat's so, sah."

"Let dis be a warnin' to you, sah. From dis time on you have no candidate; doan' want one, an' take no interest in politticks beyond what can be expected of every citizen. If any gyan aces you to tell him who am to be de nex' President doan' you do it. Keep dat information locked tight in your busum. An' a day or two ago you denounced yourself as an advocate of a tariff. Judge Smith, do you know what a tariff is?"

"N—not zactly, sah, but I was gwine to read up on it."

"Exactly; an' perhaps you'd better read up on how to keep your mouth shut on what you doan' know an' what doan' affect you! You am a purty lookin' advocate; you am! While your wife needs shoes an' de chil'en want clothes you walk aroun' de market wid yer old white obercoat on to tell de world dat you doan' believe in dis or dat, or dat you am wedded to dis theory or opposed to dat one!"

"I'm sorry, sah. I'll drap de hull bizness right off."

"See dat you do. Theories am all right unless a man am two months behind on his rent. Doctrines am all right when a family ain't shiberin' wid cold. Individual opinions count for nuffin' when de individual can't raise cash 'nuf to get a patch on his boot. Go an' sot down, Judge Smith, an' doan' lose a minit in startin' on de road to reform."—Free Press.

Firemen's Tournament.

The members of the committees appointed by the fire companies of this city to make arrangements for the forthcoming State Firemen's Tournament, to be held in this city, met in the hall of Capital Engine company No. 1 last evening, to make preliminary arrangements for the same. Hon. J. G. Wright was elected president and C. A. Gray secretary. F. E. Hodgkin secretary of the State Firemen's Association of Oregon, being present, was invited to participate in the meeting, and stated briefly the object of the meeting, defining its duties, etc. On motion A. B. Crossman, Jas. Minto, and A. E. Strang were appointed a committee on finance, and Geo. H. Burnett, Owen Hatton, and C. A. Gray, a committee on transportation. The Ladies' Coffee Club of this city were upon motion cordially invited to aid the committee in entertaining our guests on that occasion. The secretary of the State Firemen's Association was upon motion requested to secure if possible the consent of the Board of Directors to change the date of the meeting from June 15th and 16th to June 13th and 14th, thus enabling visiting firemen to attend the Pioneer's Reunion, which meets here on the 15th of June. Adjourned to meet at the call of the President.—Salem Statesman 18th.
