THE WORLD ON SHOW.

Nearly all the countries of Europe are busy themselves this year with international exhibitions. In number and diversity nothing like this array has ever been seen. There have been greater fairs in past years at London, Paris, Vienna, and Philadelphia; but it is the multitude of these shows arranged for 1883 that is astonishing.

Should the transatlantic traveler of the present season have a mind for metallurgy and minerals, he will find in Spain an exhibition of them open on May day at Madrid. If his sympathies lead him to take an interest in wine culture, he can turn to the vine dresser's exposition, held by Portugal, hard by, at Lisbon, with its added show of agriculture and of farming implements. Should his tastes lean rather toward art, he may indulge them at Bavaria's display in Munich, where some American artists will be found competing in an exhibition expected to prove of unusual excellence; then there is a similar exhibition to be held in Rome. Austria will open an international electric exhibition at Vienna on the 1st of August, where specimens of the various wonderful appliances that have so transformed modern life, and that are destined to work changes, will be collected.

There will be an old-fashioned universal exhibition of the products of all climes and nations at Amsterdam, this being the central show of the year; and connected with it will be an exhibition and festival of music which is specially worthy of note. If the tourist should be a devotee of the line and rod, he will feast with eyes and mind upon Great Britain's exhibition of fish and fisheries at London, conducted on so grand a scale that it will no doubt surpass even the fish show of Berlin. But should the perfume of flowers be more to his fancy—and there is no accounting for tastes—he will perhaps betake himself to Russia's horticultural fair, which, should no dynamite prevent, will be held next month at St. Petersburg. At Zurich he will find Switzerland conducting, from the 1st of May to the 1st of October, a general exhibition of the products of the earth and of manufacturing industry.

But the traveler need not go eastward to find world's fairs. At the far west, San Diego intends that such a show shall grace her tercentennial celebration; while in July Venezuela will commemorate by a like exposition, at Caracas, the hundredth anniversary of the birthday of Bolivar. The year will wind up with a world's fair at Calcutta, modelled after the one held in Australia.

So, from Caracas to Calcutta, from San Diego to St. Petersburg, a large part of the world is building booths this year in which to make national and international shows of goods. The United States came near engaging in the same business during this summer. The most noteworthy suggestion of the present preparations is that universal exhibitions seem to be displaced to a certain extent by the exhibitions of special arts and industries, which now multiply and flourish.—N. Y. Sun.

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette estimates the quantity of old whiskeys in bonds at 80,000,000 gallons. This is not what is called the whiskey of commerce, but is expected to be used as a beverage. It places the number of drinks in a gallon at sixty-four. The number of drinks in bond, therefore, is 5,120,000,000, or 102 to every man, woman and child in the United States. How long this whiskey will last depends upon the number of persons who drink it, a bit of information not easily obtained. It is probable, however, that not more than 10,000,000 of the population drink, and the calculation is probably correct that there is enough of this class of whiskey on hand to meet the demand for five years.

The Chehalis.

Several men have recently gone to the Chehalis valley, to engage in the cattle business. A few will engage in raising sheep. This class of men will find this business especially profitable, on account of the excellent wild grass that prevails. The Humpulps country north of Gray's harbor, is now attracting a great amount of attention. The soil is rich and the grass and timber good. A number are also locating in the southwestern part of Mason county, which presents substantially the same inducements. A colony of Mennonites have recently located in that section, and will engage in farming there. They are industrious people, and it is thought will prove of great advantage to that section.

The government surveyors are at work on the second tier of townships east of the Pacific shore, and north of Hoquiam, and the land will soon be open for settlement. It is said to be exceptionally good. The Hoquiam mills are employing about thirty men, and two ships are at present loading lumber for Simpson & Co. This firm has just opened a new store to supply the mill hands and others. The cedar mill at Cosmo, a polis which is running by water power, is working five men. A good market is offered for all the cedar that can be manufactured.

A monster cougar was killed about one mile above David Byles' place, near Elma, last Monday. Harry Dunlap was following the animal with his dogs, and some strangers passing along the road, heard the noise of the pursuit, went to investigate the cause, and found themselves confronted by the ferocious monster. Luckily his attention was drawn to the dogs, and thus occurred an opportunity to shoot him. He measured seven feet, eight inches from tip to tip, and his estimated weight was nearly five hundred pounds.—Vidette.

Society owes us nothing, except as we render society service. There is in this world no such thing as independence. We are all, rich and poor, inter-dependent. By the labor of the poor the rich thrive; by the wealth of the rich the poor live. There is no man, except he be an idiot, who cannot extend to society some practical service, for which he will receive a proportionate reward.

When undertaking a long journey, we advise you to take along a good supply of St. Jacobs Oil in case of an attack of acute rheumatism or other painful ailments. In this connection the St. Louis Post-Dispatch relates the following: Under the title of "Old Probabilities" one of the most useful and valuable officers of the United States Government is most widely known. But quite as well known is Prof. J. H. Tice, the meteorologist of the Mississippi Valley, whose contributions to his favorite study have given him an almost national reputation. On a recent lecture tour through the Northwest, the Professor had a narrow escape from the serious consequences of a sudden and very dangerous illness, the particulars of which he thus refers to: "The day after concluding my course of lectures at Burlington, Iowa, on the 21st of December last, was seized with a sudden attack of neuralgia in the chest, giving me excruciating pain and almost preventing breathing. My pulse usually 80, fell to 35; intense nausea of the stomach succeeded and a cold, clammy sweat covered my entire body. The attending physician could do nothing to relieve me. After suffering for three hours I thought—as I had been using St. Jacobs Oil with good effect for rheumatic pains—I would try it. I saturated a piece of flannel large enough to cover my chest, with the Oil, and applied it. The relief was almost instantaneous. In one hour I was entirely free from pain, and would have taken the train to fill an appointment in a neighboring town had my friends not dissuaded me. As it was, I took the night train for my home, in St. Louis, and have not been troubled since."

Puny, weak, and sickly children, heed Brown's Iron Bitters. It will strengthen and invigorate them.

POLITENESS PAYS.

AN ANECDOTE PROVING THE TRUTH OF THE SAYING.
James Finnegan, a sailor bold, Who, naturally, went to sea; Was never known to swear or scold; A mighty pleasant man was he. 'Twas his belief one never lost By trying hard to be polite, And 'twas his rule, at any cost, To do a favor when he might. While sailing in the Southern sea His ship was wrecked; ships often are His mates were lost, but saved was he By clinging to a floating spar. He gained an island that was high, And there he met a new mischance: At once he was made captive by The barbarous inhabitants. They grabbed him with avidity And bound him to an upright stake, Piled wood about him. He could see They meant that he alive should bake. Now James was not at all inclined To undergo a fricassee, But still was to his fate resigned Because, forsooth, he had to be. A chief then tried to make some fire By putting friction to a stick. A toilsome task. He did persevere So much it almost made him sick. James pulled him, and then bethought Himself of matches. Chanced it he Had some in a tin box and not The least bit damaged by the sea. His hands were free; a match he drew From out the box; all to him turned Their gaze. Assassins always do. He scratched it on his leg. It burned. He held it out for them to take: They took it not, as you may guess; With awe and terror all did shake; Some fled with yells of dire distress. The boldest dared to cut the band That bound his body to the stake. They gave him time to understand That all he wanted he could take. He ran the island, was the boss He rescued by a passing bark. No man ever dared to cross The man whose leg could strike a spark.

There is a curve on the N. P. railroad near Bozeman which, if prolonged, would make a circle 600 feet in diameter. This is a very sharp curve, as 720 feet is the smallest which is considered safe, and the curves are always larger if room is to be had.

According to the Chehalis Vidette the building and equipping of the Seattle and Gray's harbor railroad is an assured fact.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican tells a story of a Woonsocket man who visited the Hub to do a little business and hear a lecture by Mark Twain. By mistake he happened in on the 120th or so talk of the Rev. Joseph Cook. "Were it funny?" queried his family at night. "Well, yes," slowly replied the traveler, "it was funny, but it wasn't so darned funny."

A LETTER FROM GERMANY.

Very esteemed Sirs:
The praise your Laxer Pills have called forth here is wonderful. After taking one and a half boxes of your genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, I have entirely recovered from my four years' suffering. All who know me wonder how I, who for so many years, had no appetite, and could not sleep for backache, stitch in my side, and general stomach complaints, could have recovered.

An old lady in our city, who has suffered for many years from kidney disease, and the doctors had given her up, took your Pills, and got more relief than she has from all the doctors. (Copy true.) J. VON DELB. WIG.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar-coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression: McLANE'S Liver Pills.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signature of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper. Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by FLEMING BROS., of Pittsburgh, Pa. The market being full of imitations of the name McLANE, spelled differently, but of no use or value.

If your storekeeper does not have the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, send us 75 cents, and we will send you a box by mail, and a set of our advertising cards.

NEVILLE & CO.
Pacific Net and Twine Co.
SAN FRANCISCO, Apr. 11th, 1883.

DEAR SIR: For general convenience, we have sent a supply of No. 30 10-ly Genuine Scotch Salmon Net Twine, to the care of A. M. Johnson & Co., Astoria, which will be sold at low enough figures to make it an object for all net men to use it for repairs, in place of the more expensive No. 40, 12-ly. Fishermen who have heretofore used this grade of Twine for repairs, claim that the durability of the patch is equal to the durability of the net, after the latter has had a few weeks' use. We think it will be money in your pocket to try it. For prices and samples apply to A. M. JOHNSON & CO., Astoria.
