

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1883

A Royal Address.

It may not be generally known that Queen Victoria is a very successful journalist. The three official papers published by her authority, the London Gazette, Edinburgh Gazette and Dublin Gazette, paid a profit last year of £29,316 and in the preceding twelvemonth of £29,485. Their circulation is not large, but the sovereign has unusual advantages as an editor and publisher.

LOCAL mechanics, says the Oregonian, unable to sell their plows and wagons because of the mistaken notion that those of eastern manufacture are better, have been compelled in many instances, to give up business.

A NUMBER of civil engineers propose to memorialize congress to take the public works of the government, forts and military structures excepted, from the charge of the engineer corps of the army.

BEN BUTLER, the bold has written a letter on presidential chances. He says that for a generation both political parties have looked to four pivotal states—New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois—for their candidates.

CALIFORNIA farmers work under occasional disadvantage. One of whom we lately hear found that by reason of the drought in the San Joaquin Valley his wheat crop was lost;

SENATOR McDONALD says "we are all apt at seeing pleasant things said of us in the newspapers." Our experience, says the Standard, has been to the contrary.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer takes comfort that the visit there of Mr. Willard settled one thing, and that is that he has no present intention of building any railroad north of that city.

The Goldendale Klickitat county Gazette says: "The North Pacific railroad have a line located on the north bank of the Columbia river through this county, and have had for months past, a small force of men at work on it, near Columbus. It will probably not be built until several lines of more immediate importance have been constructed."

It is a noticeable political fact that amid all the nominating for President that is now going on, not one name is mentioned whose owner lives south of Mason and Dixon's line.

NOTICE. AS A REPORT has been circulated among the fishermen on the Columbia river, that the undersigned has appropriated and used several hundred fathoms new web with lines, and boats, together with other effects, the property of others; as this report circulated through jealousy and jealousy by evil-minded men, and endangers my life in the pursuit of my legitimate business, I announce that a liberal reward will be given to anyone who can reveal, and with legal evidence prove the originator of said report, so that he may receive due punishment for defamation of character.
