

The Daily Astorian. ASTORIA, OREGON: SUNDAY, APRIL 20, 1883

The Astoria Railroad.

ELSEWHERE is presented a verbatim report of Mr. Villard's recent remarks to a committee from the chamber of commerce of this city. His statements are to be accepted as facts, his opinions as honest, his expressions throughout, as sincere. He gives considerable valuable insight into the history of the O. & C. R. R., and in his allusions to the action of the chamber of commerce in agitating the land grant makes public a little bit of history that was news to a good many, viz: that the Astoria land grant is mortgaged in trust in common with other portions of railroad grants, which trust is held by "three English gentlemen for the benefit of the bondholders," and that it would appear to be so tied up as to be practically impossible for any one to relinquish the "claim." Had Mr. Villard gone further and elucidated what shadow of a "claim" any "gentleman" whether English, American, German or Chinese, had to the great timber lands of Clatsop, Columbia and Washington counties, he would have made a valuable addition to local history. In point of fact, and as a matter of equity, the companies that Mr. Villard so ably represents have as much right to the town site of Astoria as they have to any land in the vicinity, which was granted on conditional terms that were never complied with by the corporation to which such conditional grant was made. This is something that needs no argument. It is either true or false, and its truth or falsity cannot be affected by conflicting assertions. THE ASTORIAN has always taken this position; it says to Mr. Villard's companies: The grant is yours when you build the road from Astoria to Forest Grove; as the matter stands it is no one's; you forfeited the grant by not building the road at the time agreed upon, your excuse that you had no spare time or money wouldn't stand in any court of equity in the world; but if you build the road it will be unnecessary to hold any post mortem examination of what has or hasn't been done. Build the road or make way for others who will build it. The road is to be built. If your corporations fail to see the advantages that will accrue to themselves, stand aside; you can't hold the grant and not build the road. This has been our platform, and though glad that Mr. Villard speaks in such a frank and cordial manner we see no reason to modify it.

Nor is there any "pleading" on the part of Astorians in reference to this thing. On the contrary it is a demand. Astorians know the value of that magnificent scope of country, the ownership to which is supposedly vested in "three English gentlemen," and do not "plead" with Mr. Villard for anything. A tract of land seventy-five miles long and twenty miles wide; fifteen hundred square miles, nine hundred and sixty thousand acres, (worth at the lowest calculation five dollars an acre or over four and a half millions of dollars) which is what the Astoria land grant comprises, is an empire in itself; the timber alone would pay for building the road; thirty thousand dollars a mile for seventy-five miles would be two and a quarter million, leaving a handsome margin of profit. Mr. Villard is shrewd enough to see this and it is probable further discussion will be rendered unnecessary by the road being built.

Irish Nationalists. THE Land League convention which was in session in Philadelphia last week, adjourned on the 27th. That erratic individual, Jerry O'Donovan, who some years ago took the name of Rossa, was squelched. The convention adopted a dignified protest against England's constant treatment of Ireland, and also some resolutions, suggesting the formation of "The Irish National League of America" whose objects are declared to be: Earnestly and actively to sustain the Irish National League in Ireland with moral and material aid, in achieving self-government for Ireland. To procure a clearer and more accurate understanding by the American people of the political, industrial and social condition of Ireland, that they may see for themselves that her poverty is the result of centuries of brute force and destructive legislation, and that, if permitted to make her own laws on her own soil, she will demonstrate the possession of all essentials, natural and ideal, for self-government, beneficial alike to Ireland and the United States. To promote the development of Irish manufactures by encouraging their importation into the United States; to circulate prepared literature in schools and societies, that the justice of our cause may be thoroughly defended against ignorance and malice; to encourage the study of the Irish language, the cultivation of Irish music, an enlightened love of art, and the characteristic wit, that has made a part of our race bright amid darkness and has always secured for the Celt success and renown in every country in which he has had an equal opportunity with his fellows; to hurt the enemy where he will profit most, by refusing to purchase any article of English manufacture, and by using all legitimate influence to discourage tradesmen from keeping English manufactures on sale; to abolish sectional feeling; and to keep alive the holy flame of Irish nationality, while performing faithfully the duties of American citizenship.
