ASTORIA, OREGON:

FRIDAY, MAY 11, 1883

Pointers.

It is said that the late A. H. Stephens, of Georgia, loaned money to 120 young men to enable them to get an education. Most of the money was repaid.

The ground upon which Cincinnati stands was purchased by J. C. Symes about ninety years ago for 67 cents an acre. He has not lived to take advantage of the rise.

The Beaconsfield administration paid off $90,800,000 of the national debt of Great Britain. The Gladstone administration has paid off $102,500,000, and hopes this year to pay off $40,000,000 more.

Old-fashioned flint lock shot-guns are still made at Birmingham, England, for use in remote places, where, should the ammunition for patent guns give out, the hunter would be helpless.

Bishop Riley, Episcopal bishop of Mexico, has never received any salary, and has given about $150,000 during the last ten or twelve years to the Christian work under his care. He has exhausted a private fortune.

Centennials in order are the signing at Paris of definite articles of Peace between England, France, Spain and the United States, on September 3, 1783, and the evacuation of New York, November 25, 1783. The latter occasion will be celebrated on Monday, November 26th.

The Boston Herald thinks that the Democrats in the next congress have three courses open to them: They can do nothing, and bring disaster to the country; they can do the wrong thing, and bring defeat to themselves; or they can do the right thing, and benefit the country and themselves.

Superintendent Warner, of the Allegheny, Pa., workhouse says: "Prison labor is not worth over 40 cents a day. When a skilled workman can be had for $2 a day I should prefer the latter. Men who go to prison are usually those who have cultivated all their life a natural distaste for work."

The Chinese have some queer medicines, as this, for instance, known as the five poisons: Dried snakes, pulverized, 1 oz.; wasps and their nests, 1/2 oz.; centipedes, 3 oz.; scorpions, 6 oz., and toads, 10 oz. These choice ingredients are ground into powder, mixed up with honey and made into pills.

Nihilism in Russia is responsible for a new element in politics—the explosive element—an element that would strike down and destroy all that stands in the pathway of its unholy ambition. Communism is but another name for robbery. It would reap where it had not sown. It would enjoy the fruits of the sweat and toil of others without rendering a just equivalent.

In the old North Providence graveyard there are several neat gravestones with the names and the dates of births of several aged persons, but no date of death. The Providence Journal thus explains this curious circumstance: "It is becoming quite customary now among old folks to provide and set up their gravestones in advance in this way, instead of leaving the duty of erecting a tombstone to their administrators or heirs, and it must be acknowledged that there is no lack of reason for this want of confidence in the affection and regard of relatives."

The editor of the London Sportsman, who recently visited this country, seems to have accommodated himself to the ways of the republic with remarkable sweetness and content, as the following extract from an interview with him on his return to London sufficiently demonstrates: "Did you make many speeches when you were in America?" they asked him. "Yes," was the reply. "I was frequently called upon to respond." "And what did you say for the most part?" "Thank you. I don't mind if I do."

The San Francisco Post counters on Johnny Bull's blushing proboscis in the following neat manner: "The London Times insists on speaking of the American Dynamite party. We have heretofore informed our London contemporary that there is no such thing as the American Dynamite party on this side of the Atlantic.

But if there were such a party, would it be more than just retaliation for the English Confederate Cruiser and Blockade Runner party that existed in England during the American war of the rebellion?"

A young man at Glasgow, Ia., was taken in and done for the other day with a new trick. He laid a wager with a stranger that the latter would not woo, win and marry a young lady whom, with his companion he had seen arrive at the hotel where he was living. The latter introduced himself to the damsel, she smiled upon his suit, a minister was called in and they were married within an hour. The wager of no inconsiderable amount was handed over to the bridegroom, who left with his bride the following day. It was afterwards discovered that the couple had long been man and wife, and that they had been traveling about playing the same trick at various hotels.

The Boston Transcript is of the opinion that the opponents of revenue reduction will not be able to deceive the people with a juggle of words. They argue and disclaim free trade, and characterize as freetraders all who have the tariff revised, though they know that the necessities of the government will prevent free trade from becoming a practical question for many years to come. Free trade is one question and tariff reduction quite another. The former is not now favored by anybody, although it is firmly believed in as the true principle of government by a large and increasing number of the most enlightened citizens. But tariff reduction is demanded by all who believe that the government is now collecting $100,000,000 more than should or need be expended, and that the taxes to be first abated are those which weigh upon the necessities of the people. Tax reduction is a necessity, and tax reduction means tariff reduction. Not free trade, but freer trade and lower taxes.

A CONNECTICUT liquor law began with these words: "Every person who shall sell liquor to a minor." This law was repealed, and a new one enacted beginning with the words, "Every licensed person who shall sell liquor to a minor." The result is that bar-keepers can sell liquor with impunity, because they are not licensed, while the proprietors of saloons escape punishment by denying that they were aware of such sales by their employes to persons under age. It is suggested that the word "licensed" was inserted in the new law to make it inoperative.

At next year's presidential election, it is considered probable that there will be over 10,000,000 votes cast; which would be about two-thirds of the number of men in the country.
