

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: TUESDAY, MAY 22, 1888.

Saw Mills.

PROBABLY no department of business in this vicinity shows greater activity than the lumbering interests. When logs were $3.50 and $4 a thousand, sales were slow and demand limited; now the complaint is that the logs cannot be furnished in sufficient quantity to meet the incessant call for building material.

Force of the Wind.

THE recent cyclones which have swept over the Mississippi valley illustrate forcibly how meager all knowledge of them is, and hint the importance of systematically studying their origin, direction and effect.

It is a simple matter to estimate the force expended after a body has been overturned, but when costly bridges are the objects operated upon, the experiment is anything but economical.

That the whole question of wind pressure is shrouded in darkness is shown by the difference in practice among the leading engineers of this country, and also among those of other countries, and the allowances made for wind pressure, whether 30, 30 or 50 pounds to the foot, are the results of individual study, not of combined research.

The Northern Pacific road runs no emigrant trains like other Pacific roads. All emigrants are carried on the regular fast express, in second class cars.

has for its motto: "Pay cash and fear the Lord;" but a contemporary thinks the average Texas newspaper editor fears the man with a bill more than he does the Lord.

The estimated surplus wheat for export for the harvest year of 1883-84 is placed at 1,300,000 tons from California and 300,000 tons from Oregon and Washington Territory, which at present appears more likely to be an under estimate than an excessive one.

The dudine is the name applied to the female dude. The dudine wears a mashed goose-berry colored hat and a high collar and her clothes are made to fit tight. She carries a sharp-pointed parasol in lieu of the dude cane, and is often accompanied by an English pug terrier.

This is the way the paragrapher of the Bismarck Tribune serves up his personal notes: "W. B. Shultz, the brick-hued, copper-toed, upright, downright, self-adjustable boomer for Steele, came up yesterday afternoon to mingle for a season in the dazzling whirl of city life."

"God has blessed me with wealth," says Senator James G. Fair. This, says the Bee is the rankest blasphemy. The Almighty certainly would not waste any of his blessings on a Nevada senator. As Uncle Jimmy's wealth was obtained in the cinch game of stocks, it is more probable that Satan has been taking care of his own.

An unusual opportunity now offers to those persons who hanker after titles and social distinction to attain the second highest dignity known on earth. There is a little island lying to the east of Sardinia for sale at the moderate price of $30,000. It is the property of King Humbert, who is prepared to award the purchaser the title of King by royal letters patent should he so desire it.

A young Kentucky couple having eloped and got married were caught up with by the pursuing mother of the bride just after they had retired at a wayside inn. The mother, wishing to detain the pair until the arrival of her husband, went into the room and seized the groom's trousers, which that happy gentleman perceiving he lifted his head and shouted: "Take 'em along, old woman, I shan't want 'em again."

Mrs. Emily C. Kimball, of Riley, Mich., deserves to go on record as a model American woman. She is eighty-three years of age and has within the last two years knitted twenty-four pair of socks and stockings and four pairs of mittens, and made and quilted nine patchwork quilts, some of them of very minute pieces and intricate patterns, besides assisting with the house work and doing general sewing for the family. The old lady is a better housekeeper at eighty-three than many of the candidates for matrimony at sweet sixteen are.

M. De Lesseps reports favorably on the proposed Sahara Sea scheme. Soundings 73 meters deep have shown the existence of nothing but sand. The African inland sea might easily be made, with the aid of 100 excavators, representing 100,000 men. M. De Lesseps has met with the best reception from the Arab soldiery and population. On the 3d inst. he arrived at Biskra, having completed a survey of the country between Gabes and the Marsh Lakes. He declared that the soil will allow of the excavations necessary to connect the lakes with the Mediterranean, that the work will present no extraordinary difficulty, and that the concessions asked for with regard to the forests and adjoining lands will make the scheme remunerative and wholly independent of state aid, subvention, or guarantee.

The flurry that an alleged dispatch occasioned in Portland last Saturday indicates the uncertainty of feeling as to Villard's actions in the near future. The following pregnant paragraph from the Oregonian concisely expresses the feeling up there:

If the Northern Pacific should cross at Vancouver and go down to Kalama on the other side of the Columbia, and the Willamette valley roads should make direct connection from Forest Grove to Astoria, then ships could come to Portland unobstructed by bridges; but would they have much business here?

NEW TO-DAY LIBERTY HALL! Friday, May 25, 1883, AND Saturday, May 26, 1883.

RAYMOND HOLMES, (Late Easterbrook in Esmeralda Co.) Supported by a powerful company of talented ladies and gentlemen in the Musical Baroque Comedy.

"WHIMS," Whims is similar to Pop, Hobbes Photo's and the Volcanos. "Oh, but she is a daisy." It is chuck full of laughter and lots of the singing. "The door was open and the wind blew it in." This is not a melodrama; it is not farce, but a conglomeration of pleasure, and will warrant you say so after you have seen it.
