ALEXANDER III OF RUSSIA.

A Full-Fledged Potentate.

The Russian Czar was crowned last Sunday in exact accordance with the programme as published in full in THE ASTORIAN of the 24th inst.

At 7 o'clock in the morning the inauguration of the magnificent ceremonies attendant upon the coronation was announced by the ringing of hundreds of bells and by the thunder of artillery. Even at that early hour the streets were thronged with people, visitors from abroad and from other parts of the empire crowding the residents, and all striving to find eligible places from which to obtain a view of the procession and a portion of the ceremony.

During the entire night there was unusual activity on the streets, for not only were people there whose anxiety concerning the interest in the coronation kept them awake, but strong guards of soldiers patrolled all parts of the city, giving the streets a very martial appearance. Great bodies of soldiers, shortly before 6 o'clock, were stationed along the route of the procession, four miles in length, and occupied the streets on either side, keeping the people on the walks. All unreserved spaces in the streets were speedily filled by eager sight-seers, while the windows, doorways and house-tops were let out at fabulous prices to visitors.

Those dignitaries of the realm who were to take part in the actual ceremony assembled, according to the pre-arranged programme, at the cathedral of the Holy Assumption, within the walls of the Kremlin. These functionaries entered the magnificent building at just 7:30 a. m. At about 8 there followed in order prices of foreign governments, nobility of Russia and other states of Europe, and special and regular embassadors of foreign countries residing in Russia. The utmost care was exercised to prevent the admission of any unauthorized or improper persons, each man as he appeared at the entrance being made to exhibit a carefully prepared ticket, which was subjected to the closest scrutiny. This form was observed at the wall of the Kremlin and at the doors of the cathedral, at the request of General Von Schwinitz, ambassador from Germany. Eighty members, comprising diplomatic corps, assembled at his mansion and were conveyed thence to the Kremlin in superbly equipped coaches, and richly gilded as to the harness and coats of arms. The remainder of the diplomatic body, consisting of attaches of various legations, were assigned positions in the tribune just outside the cathedral proper, but inside the inclosure of the Kremlin.

When the white walls of that wondrous place closed on all of the crowd that could be admitted a choir of boys chanted a te dem, and amidst profound silence outside the church, as well as in it the clergy, accompanied by acolytes bearing a cross and ewer of holy water, proceeded to receive the czar. This vision of royalty, who was in the midst of the brilliant cortege, took a place at the right hand of the throne. When the imperial procession started it was made known to those inside the cathedral by renewed ringing of bells, by sonorous music from scores of bands, and by the shouts of those outside.

As the royal pair appeared at the doors of the palace the immense multitude immediately uncovered their heads and burst into loud acclamations. Even women were there, and the enthusiasm was spontaneous and hearty. At the head of the royal procession, which now entered the Kremlin, was the master of ceremonies, flanked by heralds richly clad and mounted upon pure white horses. It was of immense length, and comprised deputies from Asiatic states of the empire, students of universities, clergy, judges, nobility and prelates from every section of the empire.

The solemn ceremonies were witnessed by only a few hundred persons, so small is the beautiful but most sacred church in Russia. Among the favored ones were the members of the imperial family, the royal and princely guests, the chiefs of special embassies and their ladies, two Russian artists and three Russian and five foreign correspondents. It is the first time in the history of the coronations that representatives of the foreign press have been permitted to witness the ceremony. It is an innovation entirely due to the action of his majesty the czar himself. The papers represented were the New York Herald, London Times, Paris Figaro, The Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, and the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna.

Feminine Fancies.
A Michigan woman describes her absconding husband as of a "fried-pork complexion." "I like your new hat very much," he said. "Its chief; there's a sort of abandon—" "There isn't any sort of a band on it," she said putting. "It's a real ostrich leather."
"What is a woman?" asks an exchange. It is—well, we suppose she is a combination of dynamite and mule, for she looks as innocent as a mule and talks like dynamite when she is mad.
With great composure a bride at a church wedding the other day took a hairpin from her head and fastened her glove button during the ceremony. The ruffian passion is strong in the sex.
An exchange tells of a young lady losing the sole of her slipper while enjoying the intoxicating whirl of the waltz. "Of what profit was it to her if she had gained the whole whirl if she thereby lost her sole!"—Whitcomb Times.
They were speaking of a young lady who sings beautifully, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test short weight, alum or phosphate powder. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall-st. N. Y.

Although but little noise is being made, work on the Oregon Pacific railway tunnels between Yaquina and Corvallis is steadily progressing. Tunnels 1 and 2 are about completed. On number 3, at the west end three gangs are employed and the work continued night and day. From this end the tunnel has penetrated the mountain 225 feet. On the east end the tunnel is in 100 feet, a total distance of 325 feet, and more than one half through the obstruction. As soon as the tunnel is through it is expected that the work of building the line will be vigorously prosecuted, as most of the material for the building is within reach.—Vidette.

Uncle Aaron Payne, in Yamhill county died on the 18th inst., and was in his 94th year. He was in the war of 1812, and was in Hull's command at the time of the surrender, but made his escape with a few others. He afterwards was in the Black Hawk war and wounded during the same and carried a bullet in his body the rest of his life. He came to Oregon in 1847, and has resided continuously in this state ever since.

A woman, the more curious she is about her face is commonly more careless about her house.

The East Oregonian illustrates the prodigality of the government by stating that the orchard on the Indian reservation, which cost the government $10,000, consists of one apple tree and a few willows and the grist mill which cost $4,000 is now valued at $2,000.

MOTHERS, READ.
GENES—About nine years ago I had a child two years old and almost dead. The doctor I had attending her could not tell what ailed her. I asked him if he did not think it was worms. He said no. However, this did not satisfy me, as I felt convinced in my own mind that she had. I obtained a bottle of Dr. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE (Gegenmittel) I gave her a teaspoonful in the morning and another at night after which she passed seventy-two worms and was well child. From that time she has been healthy and in my family. The health of my children remained so good that I had neglected watching their actions until about three weeks ago, when two of them presented the same sickly appearance. I then gave them a few doses of Dr. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE between four of my children, their ages being as follows: Alice, 8 years; Clara, 6 years; Emma, 4 years; John, 1 year. Now comes the result: Alice and Emma came out right, but John passed five or six worms, and John passed six worms. The result was so gratifying that I spent two days in showing on exhibition my stock of worms to my friends. Yours truly, JOHN G. HERRICK.

The genuine DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE is manufactured only by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. I bear the signatures of C. McLANE and Fleming Bros. It is never made in St. Louis or Wheeling. Be sure you get the genuine. Price, 25 cents a bottle.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11th, 1883.
DEAR SIR:
For general convenience, we have sent a supply of No. 30, 12-ply Genuine Scotch Salmon Net Twine, to the care of A. M. JOHNSON & CO., Astoria, which will be sold at low enough figures to make it an object for all net menders to use it for repairs, in place of the more costly No. 40, 12-ply.
Fishermen who have heretofore used this grade of twine for repairs, claim that the durability of the patch is equal to the balance of the net, after the latter has had a few weeks use. We think it will be money in your pocket to try it. For prices and samples apply to A. M. JOHNSON & CO., Astoria.

King of the Blood
Is not a "cure all," it is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of the blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many diseases, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood, such as Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Gout, Scrofula, Stiff Joints, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, etc.
King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, impurity of the blood, the most genuine and efficient in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See leading Dispensaries, etc., in pamphlet. Treatise on Diseases of the Blood, wrapped around each bottle. D. J. SIMMONS, SON & Co., Props, Buffalo, N. Y.
