

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

WEDNESDAY, JULY 11, 1888

Walla Walla county claims 11,000 population.

Eggs are down again, and are "only" forty cents a dozen.

The barkentine Portland brought 60,000 brick to Capt. Flavel.

The run of Frazer river salmon has begun. So far it is light.

H. G. Strove was re-elected mayor of Seattle last Monday.

E. A. Thomas, aged 29, suicided at Walla Walla by taking morphine last Monday.

Prof. Gilbert, of the Oregon coast and geodetic survey, arrived on the Oregon yesterday.

Even the worm will turn when bitten upon. You're probably noticed this when eating cherries.

Capt. Nelson, one of the founders of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, is up this way on a visit.

The kiln of brick which the unfortunate Henry Plath had all ready on Youngs river, has been successfully burned.

J. C. Wyndham's claim to distinction is that he lives in Yamhill county, and is the oldest printer in Oregon.

At the Walla Walla city election last Monday, high license was made the issue in the fight; its advocates were beaten.

Mrs. McCarny gave a voluptuous dinner to her numerous friends, with all kinds of sweet meats of which the Hon. J. Denver heartily partook.

John Muir will be given a complimentary dinner by the citizens of Portland on the 19th inst. He leaves for St. Paul, Minn., on the 23d.

The Oregon arrived in at 12:30 yesterday, and after lying off awaiting the departure of the Wide West swung into the dock at 1:10 P. M.

Five of the escaped Salem convicts are still at large, and are making for the foot hills of the Santiam, plundering unprotected houses as they go.

Miss Carol Cronse late with the Whims party arrived on the Wide West yesterday, and left for the weather beach where she will stay for a few days for the benefit of her health.

Its a pity that Portland can't have a first class hotel; any one of our three Astoria hotels are better than the best they've got, the only thing first class about those of the metropolis is the price they charge.

If our city council appoint an investigation committee they may find several places in the city where coal oil is piled up in a quantity that would occasion horrible results should Astoria be visited by another fire.

Col. Jas. Taylor will be the first Astorian to make the through trip across the continent via the Northern Pacific Railway. He left Duluth "the zenith city of the unsalted seas," last Monday, having bought a ticket to Astoria.

The total white male population, twenty years and over, in the United States in 1880 was 11,343,005. Of these 460,000 were Odd Fellows in good standing in their lodges, or a little over one in twenty-four of the adult male white population.

The trustees of Beaver Lodge No. 35, I. O. O. F., have decided upon Tuesday, August 14th, as the date for the dedication of the new lodge room. It is the intention to make it a memorable day in the history of Odd Fellowship. Further particulars as to the programme, etc., will be announced as formulated.

At an adjourned meeting of Rescue No. 2, held on Monday evening, W. L. McCrosskey, Fred W. Prael, P. Butler, W. H. Wood, Wm. Logan, H. W. Bergman, A. L. Fulton and Ed. Halleck, were elected members of the company. F. P. Hicks was nominated for the position of chief engineer of the Astoria Fire Department; the election comes off on August 14th.

Under date of June 27, 1888, U. S. Fish Commissioner S. F. Baird, writes to M. C. George: "In compliance with your request, I have sent Livingston Stone, the officer in charge of the McCloud river station, to make a thorough exploration of the Columbia river, with a view of determining at what points hatcheries can best be established for the purpose of increasing the supply in the Columbia river."

The salmon market continues to present the same anomalous figures that have characterized the present season as being different from any other in the history of the business. Up to last night there have been sent to San Francisco 86,687 cases, some on sale, some sold, some for storage; three foreign bound vessels have been loaded, having on board 117,878 cases, of which a large proportion goes on consignment.

Governor Newell

Gov. Newell of Washington Territory is in the city, and leaves this morning on the Miles to Gray's harbor and the Quinalt reservation. He has just come down from east of the mountains and reports a splendid crop; he says the wheat will go forty bushels to the acre and the wheat and grain crop around Walla Walla and that whole country is something prodigious. Gov. Newell comes pretty near our ideal of an official. He is worth a million dollars a year to the territory that is so fortunate as to have him for its chief executive. With great experience, possessed of unusual information, and gifted with unusual powers of expression, a man of the most indefatigable industry, this gentleman traverses the entire extent of the magnificent territory to the north of us, noting, observing everything and publishing the result of his information. He is a potent force with voice and pen and is doing a great work in the development of the territory. And the theme is worthy of the man. The territory possesses so many elements of greatness, its natural wealth and resources are so limitless, that they can scarcely be exaggerated, but the discriminating observation of the governor enables him in his tour through the country to select the salient points, and so place them as to insure a correct statement of facts as they exist.

Pacific Coast Fisheries.

We have on the Pacific coast quite a bonanza in the sea, which is now beginning to be worked. In the Pacific states and territories—California, Oregon, Washington and Alaska—the average number of men employed about fisheries is 16,745, of whom 7,910 are Esquimaux, Aleuts and Indians, and 4,000 Chinese. There are 11,555 fishermen and 5,195 shrimen and factory hands. The number of hands employed in California is 3,036; in Oregon, 6,385; in Washington territory, 745; in Alaska, 6,130. The boats and vessels employed are valued at $583,145; apparatus and outfits, $455,238; value of buildings and apparatus of manufacture, $960,000; total amount of capital employed, $2,747,383. The fresh fish taken out last year was valued at $3,749,310; crabs and shrimps, $66,358; oysters and mussels, $701,250; whale oil, $80,150; fish oil (sal), $23,300; whalebone, $122,000; seal fish, $10,000; seal skins, $1,540,912; sea otter skins, $178,850; eggs of sea birds, $1,500; sea-weed, $200; salt, $302,000. The total annual value of the sea products of the Pacific coast is, therefore, $9,548,277.

The General Verdict.

The citizens of Astoria adopted the right course in their treatment of the lawless element of that city. A vigilance committee is never justifiable except in grave emergencies, such as occurred in San Francisco in early days and in Seattle last year; but we fancy that any one reading the account of the looting of property by the Astoria mob during the recent fire would place the Oregon city in the same category. Certainly the tactics of the people seem to have been effective and the lesson cannot fail to be a wholesome one to the thieves and cut-throats who tried to run the town.

Portland's Problem.

To-day the saloon tax is due again, but up to yesterday only one license had been issued. None of the fines imposed for the violation of the liquor license ordinance during the last three months have been paid, and the city is out $12,750. Next the ordinance is modified at the next meeting of the council the city will have a similar experience during the current quarter. It is time that a little reason should be shown in the matter.

Courtright & Hawkins minstrels who were billed for here June 16th, but who were unavoidably detained by the non-arrival of the Oregon, will appear at Occidental Hall next Friday. The troupe can be given commendation as being first class; the performers are all good, and they will no doubt have a crowded house. The box sheet is now open at the New York Novelty store.

In Judge Fox's court yesterday, appeared John Hooper, charged with stealing $100 from Hugh Hughes. The evidence was deemed by the judge sufficient to warrant his being held to await the action of the grand jury. Jack Leonard, who was arrested on a charge of larceny of a trunk on the day of the fire, was allowed to go, two of the police officers testifying that he had reported to them that the trunk was in his possession. Six or eight more remain to be disposed of.

A bunch of keys was lost yesterday for which a reward will be paid upon return to this office.

There will be a special meeting of Council No. 985, A. L. of H., at eight o'clock on Saturday evening the 14th inst. By order of C. C. R. V. MONTRETT.

Bill Nye on Spring

Spring, gentle, touchful, tuneful, breezy, soft, cheerful spring is here. It has not been here more than twenty minutes, and my articles stand where I can reach them in case it should change its mind. The hoboblink sits on the basswood vines and the thrush in the gooseberry tree is melodious as a hired man. The robin is building his nest, or rather her nest, I should say perhaps, in the boughs of the old willow that last summer was busted by thunder—I beg your pardon—by lightning, I should say. Strawberries are like a bald headed man's brow—they come high, but we can't get along without them.

I never was more tickled to greet gentle spring than I am now. It stirs up my drug soaked remains and warms the genial current of life considerably. I frolicked around in the grass this afternoon and filled my pockets full of 1,000-legged worms and other little mementoes of the season. The little bare-foot boy now comes forth and walks with a cautious tread at first, like a blind horse; but toward the golden autumn the backs of his feet will look like a warty toad, and there will be big cracks in them and one toe will be wrapped up in part of a bedquilt and he will show it with pride to crowded houses.

Last night I lay awake for several hours thinking, when the loud and violent concussion of a revolver shot near West Main street and Cascade avenue rent the sable robe of night. I rose and lit the gas to see if I had been hit. Then I examined my pockets to see if I had been robbed of my lead pencil and season pass. I found that I had not.—Boomerang.

Seattle Comment.

The Seattle papers take the Astoria fire as a text, and editorially say a great deal that can with equal truth be said here. The Post-Intelligencer says:

Every alarm of fire painfully reminds our business men that they are surrounded by dangers hardly less than those of a volcano or powder magazine, and that in prompt action only is there protection. Wider streets, abundant water and more fire-proof buildings are the imperative needs of this rapidly growing city.

The Herald: Property of far greater value than Astoria possesses and so situated as to be an easy prey to the flames, is to-day practically at the mercy of fire in Seattle. Several of the cisterns built for the use of the fire department are covered up and unfit for use. The suction of the steamers is not long enough to take water from the bay at the slips and wharves.

The Price of Fish.

This season is regulated by each canner separately, in a few years fish will be sold by the pound and piece; it will be far better for all concerned. The price of clothing is also regulated according to the general demands of the consumers. M. D. Kant, the Boss Merchant Tailor and Clothier seems to leave all the rest of the merchants in the shade by his clothing sales, and that for three reasons:
1st. Finest and best stock.
2d. Grand assortment.
3d. Lowest bed-rock prices. All can be suited here.
