

The Daily Astorian. ASTORIA, OREGON: THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1883

THE Massachusetts almshouse, at Bridgewater, was burned last Sunday. The 600 inmates were safely removed.

For the week ending July 7th there were 1,050 deaths in the city of New York. Of that number 673 were under five years of age.

A MARLBORO, S. C., jury has decided that Jamaica Ginger is an intoxicating beverage, and fined a man $200 for selling it without a license.

A NEW town has been laid out at the point where the Oregon Short Line railroad is expected to enter Oregon. It is to be called Ontario.

The cholera is devastating Egypt. There were ninety-six deaths from cholera at Damietta, forty-eight at Mansurah, one at Alexandria, six at Samanud and six at Shirben on Sunday. On Saturday the number of deaths were seventy-eight at Damietta, sixty-four at Mansurah, nine at Samanud, nine at Shirben and one at Alexandria.

"To be dishonorably discharged from the service, to be confined at hard labor in a penitentiary for eighteen months and to have the facts respecting his crime and its punishment published in the newspapers of Iowa, the state from which he was appointed to the army," is the sentence of Paymaster Wasson, who stole thousands of dollars of public money in order that he might pay "debts of honor" contracted at the gaming table.

GOVERNOR BUTLER'S methods of securing political success remind the Tribune of those of the man who made money in real estate business. His plan was to purchase a house or piece of property in a respectable locality and then announce that he was about to devote it to some disreputable or disagreeable purpose, whereupon the people living in the vicinity would purchase the property of him at a high valuation to get rid of the nuisance. He made money, but he was not popular. Governor Butler thinks that if he can make himself a nuisance to the respectable people of Massachusetts his political success is assured.

At Washington it is thought that a call for $15,000,000 more of outstanding 3 1/2 per cent. bonds may be looked for by the 15th inst., or as soon as Secretary Folger returns, unless he is persuaded out of it by the bankers while he is in New York. The banking interest is very much opposed to calls, and is very desirous of putting off the step as far as possible. It is thought by the treasury officials, however, that there is no other way to avoid the further redemption of these bonds subject to call, because money is piling up in the vaults, and current demands on the government for ordinary expenses are not enough to disburse the receipts. At the rate the year has started in it would not take two months to make a money stringency by locking up the surplus in the sub-treasury in New York.
