OREGON AND WASHINGTON WHEAT.

Every shipper, miller and ship broker has his pencil out figuring the probable surplus of Oregon and Washington. The former place it at from 180,000 to 220,000 tons; the latter goes higher, claiming a surplus of 250,000 tons. Millers pencil more from amusement than otherwise, being more concerned about the yield at points from which their milling wheat is drawn. A month ago you could place the surplus at 300,000 tons and not be accused of wild guessing. Now it is conceded on all sides that the yield will be reduced one-fifth to one-third by absence of rain. The most conservative and experienced Oregon operators call it one-third or 200,000 tons. This is conceded on present appearance of crops in the valley. Should these turn out better, as interior merchants this week say they have reason to hope for, a difference of 10,000 to 20,000 tons may result. Harvest in the valley, without a rain, will begin by August, with a rain, later, when a better understanding may be arrived at. Placing the entire probable surplus at 230,000 tons we need a registered tonnage of 146,666. We have in port available for wheat 16,196; loading for this port, 5,045; on the way to arrive this year, 52,893, or a total of 74,134 tons register, which leaves a shortage at this writing of 75,532 tons. It must be remembered that this shortage is given on a probable surplus of 220,000 tons. Should the surplus be 200,000 tons, as exporters figure it, the shortage will be 57,532 tons, not a very great shortage when it is known that we have seven months to secure it in after all tonnage in sight is loaded. We do not consider that California will draw any of our tonnage nor is it probable that much of it will be drawn elsewhere. If such should be the case it is a matter of record that we have always drawn more than we have lost. In previous years no accurate statement of tonnage on the way could be arrived at, but this year there is every reason to believe that not half a dozen vessels headed this way are not listed, and it will not do to allow any figure for this non-listed tonnage. How much of our tonnage is chartered to be loaded this calendar year? This is a difficult question, but we unhesitatingly say two-thirds. This is not all held by shippers, as foreign and home speculators stepped in two and three months ago, taking considerable. The most of these vessels have been taken at 62s 6d and 65s, and those held by speculators will be open for re-charter; and as the outlook now appears, they have little room for a profit on their investment. The freight market this week is in a mixed condition. The opposite forces being at war, it is difficult to get a correct quotation. About ten days ago we reported a 1,000-ton iron vessel taken at 65s for orders. She was a little premature, but is today confirmed. She is for November cancelling. Possibly iron could be had for less, but as exporters are holding back little is offering at any price. No one appears to think rates can materially advance during the calendar year, except should the foreign grain markets establish a healthy advance.

To the farmer it is a matter of interest to know the probable price of wheat. The stock of old wheat on this coast is very small. In the United States and Canada, the New York produce exchange, a good authority, places it at double that of last year. Beer-boom reports stocks of wheat and flour in Great Britain as large. A Portland operator, at present traveling abroad, writes that storage room at London and Liverpool is scarce, the stocks of wheat and flour being heavy. Imports into U. K. for last week were 1,970,000 centals. Crops throughout the United States promise well. The foreign markets are low with no prospect of early improvement. Freights from this coast are not high, nor yet are they low. From present appearances our market must open at about $1.45@1.50. There is less room for speculation apparent this season than for years; so it would appear that any advance on opening prices will be slow.—Oregonian.

The Escaped Convicts.

SALEM, July 2.—Three of the escaped prisoners were brought in this afternoon. Beauchamp dead, Reinhardt in a dying condition, and Mansfield with a slight flesh wound. They were captured last night on the Narrow Gauge railroad, a short distance east of Woodburn. The circumstances of their capture are as follows: They were coming down the track when they were discovered by D. W. Gibson, W. E. Price, M. V. Kays and Peter Heater of Stayton and J. K. Buff, of Silverton, who have been on their trail since Monday night, and who were waiting for them in a deep cut.

As they approached, Kays ordered them to halt, which command they answered by turning to escape, when Kays and Gibson fired, dropping Beauchamp in his tracks. Buff and Heater then fired at the two others, who made their escape from this party and reached the house of Watt Townsend, some two miles away and gave themselves up to that man. Reinhardt was found to be badly shot in the left breast, the whole portion of that part of his body being literally filled with buckshot, and Mansfield was shot in the leg.

Beauchamp's body was brought to the prison about 9 o'clock this morning by the first party and turned over to the authorities, and an hour later Reinhardt and Mansfield were brought in by Townsend.

There are but four of the convicts now out: Glenn, Eldridge, Disrow and Bradshaw, and it is thought that two of them took supper last night at the Woodburn hotel.—News.

Fixing the Date.

That the time of Christ's crucifixion may be approximately demonstrated by astronomical calculation, after paying due regard to the historical data which we possess, is asserted by Judge Joseph P. Bradley of the supreme court of the United States. The cardinal conditions required are, first, that the time must be brought within the Procuratorship of Pontus Pilate; secondly, it must be after the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius, and after the 30th year of Christ's age; thirdly, it must occur on 15th of the Jewish month Nisan (or Abib), on the sixth day of the week, or Friday. After a close and extended calculation, his honor reaches this conclusion: "There were only three years from A. D. 27 to A. D. 35 inclusive, in which the 1st of Nisan, and consequently the 15th of Nisan, happened on Friday, and there were A. D. 27, 30, and 33, the last of which is very doubtful. But the crucifixion could not have happened before A. D. 28, and probably not later than A. D. 31. Therefore, the year 30 is the only one which satisfies all the conditions of the problem. It does not satisfy them, because it gives opportunity for Jesus to teach publicly for about three years and to attend three Passovers during his ministry, or four, according as it commenced before or after April 3, A. D. 27. Now, since A. D. 30, the 1st of Nisan fell on Friday, the 24th of March, the 15th fell on Friday the 7th of April, which was the day of the crucifixion."

"I happen to know of a great many cases of rheumatism, sprains, etc., in which St. Jacobs Oil proved itself a never-failing panacea," said Mr. Wm. A. Davidson, of Cincinnati, Ohio. "I severely sprained my ankle while searching for geological specimens, and suffered severely until I tried St. Jacobs Oil. It cured me, leaving me in a mood to extol the Great German Remedy."

Two and Two are Four.

MARYSVILLE Cal., July 12.—Yesterday Denis Haggerty and Henry Dowling, two hold-ups, met James Linn and a Swede, three miles from town. Shooting Linn and beating the Swede with a club, they then robbed them of a few dollars. Last evening Haggerty and Dowling were arrested and locked up, and afterward taken from the jail and hanged by the citizens. Linn and the Swede will die.

The San Francisco Occident says: "A few years ago women had only three legitimate occupations—to sew, to teach and to keep house. But now they do almost everything except going to congress. Some people don't like this crowding of women into all kinds of industrial pursuits. But how can they help it? Women must live, and men are too inefficient to earn enough to support self and wife, hence avoid matrimony, whining that they cannot afford it, the women serve them right in competing with them for work and wages. Every true man ought to try to get a true woman to join him in building up a home. It is for that God made them male and female. We are old-fashioned enough to regard marriage as the divine rule, though there are and should be exceptions. There are both men and women who ought not to marry. But the men, at least, ought to be able to give some good and valid reason for not obeying the law of God in this matter. The case of the woman is different—she must wait until somebody asks her. And she is a silly woman if she says yes just because she is asked. We are glad that so many of our young women are seeking positions which make them independent—glad that they do not think it necessary to marry to get a living. They will not refuse when the right wooer comes, though they have learned to take care of themselves until he comes or for life if he don't come at all."

SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER.

Pain in the right side, under edge of ribs, increasing on pressure; sometimes the pain is on the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder and is sometimes taken for Rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternating with laxity; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight dry cough is sometimes attendant. The patient complains of weakness and debility; he is easily startled; his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low, and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it.

If you have any of the above symptoms, you can certainly be cured by the use of the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

When you buy McLANE'S PILLS, insist on having DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, made by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

DEAR SIR: For general convenience, we have sent a supply of No. 30, 12-ply Genuine Scotch Salmon Net Twine, to the care of A. M. JOHNSON & CO., Astoria, which will be sold at low enough figures to make it an object for all net menders to use it for repairs, in place of the more costly No. 40, 12-ply.

Fishermen who have heretofore used this grade of twine for repairs, claim that the durability of the patch is equal to the balance of the net, after the latter has had a few weeks use. We think it will be money in your pocket to try it. For prices and samples apply to A. M. JOHNSON & CO., Astoria.
