

The Daily Astorian. ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1883. STEERAGE passengers are now carried from England to New York for $18 each.

The Illinois supreme court has decided that a contract made on Sunday is just as binding as if entered into on any other day.

The Parrell fund in Ireland has risen to over $90,000; in Chicago it is within a small fraction of $7,000; in Massachusetts it has reached nearly $3,000; so that not counting Australia and districts in the United States and Canada not reported, the testimonial to the Irish leader is over $100,000. It will be raised to $150,000.

Prof. Huxley, in an address at the international fisheries exhibition, pointed out that an acre of good fishing ground will yield more food in a week than an acre of the best land will yield in a year. Still more striking was the moving "mountain of cod," 120 to 130 feet in height, which for two months in every year moves westward and southward past the Norwegian coast. Every square mile of this colossal column of fish contains 120,000,000, consuming every week, when on short rations, no fewer than 840,000,000 of herring. The whole catch of the Norwegian fisheries never exceeds in a year more than half a square mile of this "cod mountain," and one week's supply of the herrings needed to keep that area of cod from starving.

American mothers have acquired some reputation for skill and energy in conjugal management in behalf of their daughters, says a writer in Chamber's Journal. A Parisian newspaper some time ago recorded an exceedingly clever bit of match-making, executed by an American lady of this order in brilliant style. Her eldest daughter had sailed from New York with some friends for a tour of Europe, and after "doing" the continent had returned to the French capital for several months of rest and pleasure. Attractive and clever, she had many suitors, some more, some less desirable. She could not marry them all, so she adroitly reduced the number to two—the best of the lot, of course. Then she wrote home to her mamma, explaining the exact situation of affairs, adding that they were both so handsome, agreeable, well connected and rich that she could not decide between them, and closed with the question, "What shall I do?" Ten days later she received a cablegram from mamma: "I sail to-morrow; hold both till I come." The next transatlantic steamer brought Mrs. Blank with her second daughter, just turned eighteen, and fresh from school. On her arrival the old lady at once took the helm of affairs, and steered so deftly through the dangerous waters that in a few weeks she had reached port with all colors flying. To drop metaphor, she attended the wedding of her two daughters at the American chapel on the same morning.
