

The Daily Astorian.
 ASTORIA, OREGON:
 FRIDAY.....AUGUST 10, 1883

—The Bozburyshire went up stream yesterday morning.

—W. T. Burney, a prominent lawyer of East Portland, is in the city.

—The Cosby took an unusually large number of passengers to Ilwaco yesterday.

—Gov. Newell returned from Ocean Park yesterday and started for the eastern part of the territory.

—The Northern Pacific express company has been organized with central offices in San Francisco and Portland.

—The present term of the circuit court will not last beyond the 28th inst., and may end before that date.

—Will C. King will deliver a lecture on temperance in the Upper Astoria church at eight o'clock this evening.

—A large whale fifty feet in length, partly decomposed, floated to the strand with the morning tide of yesterday, landing at Ocean park.

—The A. B. Field will leave for Tillamook at six o'clock to-morrow morning. Hereafter she will make weekly trips, leaving Astoria every Monday.

—Mrs. Chas. Olsen with her three children is reported in a destitute condition in Portland. Her husband is said to be "in the saloon business" in this city.

—The Columbia arrived in yesterday morning. Passengers report a very rough trip. A child was born in the steerage on Wednesday night, but it lived only six hours.

—The captains of the Harry Morse and Corsica will soon have acquired all the rights of state citizenship. Capt. Reynolds of the Highland Light is one of us, and we may run him for office next June.

—What a lively time would ensue if all the state laws and municipal ordinances were enforced, or an attempt made to enforce some of them that are now dormant. No charge for the suggestion.

—The Washingtonian Packing company has been organized: Samuel Benn is president; Jasper Gibson secretary; the cannery is situated at Cosmopolis, Chehalis Co., W. T. Work will begin about the 25th inst.

—The social party given by the Pt. Adams Packing company last Wednesday night was an occasion of enjoyment to the large number present. All who were there are unanimous in their praise of the way in which the programme was carried out.

—Dr. Wm. L. Newell, and Mr. Walford Ludlam, two gentlemen from Willville, New Jersey, are visiting our city of lumber and salmon canneries. They express great surprise at our go-ahead system and enterprise generally. They are on their way to Puget Sound.

—The dedication of the Odd Fellows Temple next Tuesday will be a most elaborate affair. Five hundred cards of invitations have been issued, besides a special invitation sent to every lodge in Oregon and Washington. The hall is the largest and is said to be the finest on the coast.

—Richard B. Belgrave, the advance agent of the "Spanish Students" was in the city yesterday. His company has of late been playing in San Francisco, and will be in Astoria about the 21st inst. Their instruments were not burned in the late San Francisco fire as stated in the papers at the time.

—In a wrestling match at Portland last Wednesday night between Donald Dinnie of San Francisco and D. A. McMillan of Bodie, the man from the mountains was declared the victor. Fifteen hundred people witnessed the tussle, and Manager Stechhan is happy in the knowledge that his "unknown" beat the champion.

—It is said that the largest tract of wild and unknown land in the United States lies west of the Olympic range of mountains. It is from 20 to 60 miles wide and 100 miles long. It extends from Cape Flattery on the north to Gray's harbor on the south. The native forests are unbroken, and contains the best timber in the United States.

—At the O. R. & N. dock three "occasional" vessels are discharging on barges so as to go inland; the Coyote is taking on a cargo of submerged water pipe; workmen are busy building a roadway north from Water street to the new entrance which will be 410 feet east of the old one; and from appearances the beach opposite to the south will soon be covered with houses.

—The London fish exhibition is resulting in high praise of the American exhibit. Even the stately English magazines are complimentary. MacMillan for August, says: "In the excellence and finish of their apparatus and implements, in the size of the vessels employed, in the extent of the water fished over and in the value of the fish taken, our kindred on the other side of the Atlantic already stand at the head of this industry."

Woman Suffrage.
 The pretty little church of the Methodist denomination was filled to overflowing last evening, the occasion being a demonstration in favor of woman suffrage, a measure of political advancement that is of unusual prominence in our state and which finds many staunch supporters among all thinking men and women.

The exercises began by music on the violin and an anthem by the choir, when Mrs. Dunaway briefly reviewed the present condition of the movement and introduced ex-Chief Justice Dennison, who in a most convincing and logical manner took the Declaration of Independence for his text and demonstrated that taxation without representation was as unjust now as when our forefathers protested against it a century ago, and that women should have opportunity to help make the laws that govern them. Again and again the gentleman applauded and when he said that as Oregon was the last of the states to accede to negro suffrage she should be the first to concede woman suffrage, he was interrupted by long continued commendation, of the heartiest nature.

He was followed by little Edith Conn, a prodigy of ability who as usual acquitted herself with great credit and to the intense satisfaction of the audience by a recital "Before and after Marriage." Mrs. Dunaway then called upon J. F. Niles, of Portland, who in an extemporaneous address so set forth the advantages and benefits of woman suffrage as to indicate him as a valuable ally in the movement.

Mrs. Dunaway followed in a review of the motives that prompted her to first take up the work, and after taking up a collection and some more music the meeting adjourned. Owing to the great number of people unable to attend by reason of the crowd last evening it was decided to hold to-night's meeting at Liberty Hall, at eight o'clock, when the gentlemen who were announced to speak last evening and who were unavoidably detained will doubtless be in attendance.

Court Proceedings.
 Wakeman vs Shively; demurrer sustained; time given to answer.

 Taylor vs McCann; demurrer overruled; answer to-day.
 Jacob Sture was naturalized.

Svensk Gudstjant
 In the Y. M. C. A. hall this evening at 7:30 o'clock, by G. Liljerth, pastor.

—It is a singular fact that a great deal of what we eat comes by way of California. Astoria is a good customer for San Francisco. The arrival of the steamer is as much of an event to the housekeeper as to the business man. The possibility of getting some "fresh" fruit or vegetables impels a speedy visit to the stores where they are sold, only to find, that the rule of first comes first served holds good in this instance, and that all that is choice has been immediately purchased. Butter, cheese, eggs, cabbage, potatoes, fruits of all kinds, come from below, and that too, to a country unequalled for natural facilities in the matter of dairy products and vegetables. There are a good many hundred thousand dollars sent to San Francisco every year for things that might just as well be produced at home.

Waiter or Waitress Wanted
 At Frank Fabre's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon in Odd Fellows building opposite THE ASTORIAN office. None but first-class with good character need apply.

—Special meeting of Astoria Council No. 96, A. L. of H., on Saturday, August 11, 1883, at 8 o'clock P. M.
 By order of C. C.
 R. V. MONTETH, Sec'y.

—Rogers Bros. plated ware and West-enthal cutlery at Jordan & Bozorth's new store.

—Averill's mixed paints, the best in use, for sale at J. W. Conn's drug store, opposite Occident Hotel.

—The finest flavored Ice Cream at Frank Fabre's, Odd Fellows building.

Nothing builds up shattered constitutions so quickly as Brown's Iron Bitters.

Poetry Translated into Prose.
 Ella Whosler sings:
 "On the white throat of the useless passion,
 That scorched my soul with its burning breath,
 I gathered my fingers in murderous fashion,
 And drew them close in a grip of death."
 And she says farther on, "I meant to strangle it, then and there." Now, that was right. If "a useless passion" should come around scorching our soul—in July, too—we should think it was about time for the governor to call out the troops or the fire department, we wouldn't care very much which. And if we could get in on its throat, we'd throttle the thing till its mind was gone or the fire was out. Ella was right. Heroic treatment is the only thing for a useless passion. We knew a man once who kept one in his store. Not one of the white throat kind—they're the worst—but a square-necked brindle with tan marks over the eyes, and it got loose one night, rubbed off its muzzle, and got out and bit two policemen before they could wake up. But, then, this "useless passion" that the Chicago poetess tells us about had more lives than a cat, for it got out of its grave and came and "stood by her bed till the early morning," and.

"Its throat was red where my hands had held it.
 And hot as hades its burning breath;
 And I said, the moment my eyes beheld it,
 'A love like this can know no death.'"
 I did not stop to make inquiry.
 And yet just now she stood by me,
 Her figure spare, her shoulders stooping.

She only spoke one formal word
 As by she sped. I did not mind her—
 "For ah! 'twas plain what had occurred
 She'd left her pearly teeth behind her."

So strange a metamorphosis
 Can hardly fail to teach a lesson.
 The reason of it all was this:
 I saw her with her bathing dress on.

A SEASIDE METAMORPHOSIS.
 Her beauty in the gaslight's glare Sustained her boast of high connection. A moment since she passed me there With shrunken cheek and spoiled complexion.

Where'er had flown her golden hair? I did not stop to make inquiry. Although her scalp was almost bare, The tufts behind both dark and wiry.

Oh, where her radiant bloom of youth, Unrubbable by gems or shekels? Gone, gone! And all remained, forsooth, Were one lone mole and fifty freckles.

The glories of her form I see Like dreams across my mind go trooping; And yet just now she stood by me, Her figure spare, her shoulders stooping.

She only spoke one formal word As by she sped. I did not mind her— "For ah! 'twas plain what had occurred She'd left her pearly teeth behind her."

So strange a metamorphosis Can hardly fail to teach a lesson. The reason of it all was this: I saw her with her bathing dress on.
