PRISON DISCIPLINE IN MONTENEGRO.

In the principal street, that which you enter in coming from Cattaro, you find on the right hand, first, the powder magazine, an insignificant-looking square building, second, the prison. At first sight you suspect your guide is imposing on you. The prison has no windows and the door is a permanent aperture, without means of closing it. The prison system is as odd as the prison. A malefactor is ordered to lodge himself in the abode of culprits, and he goes there. He has no special guards—the community watches over him. He receives no food, but the government gives him three half-pence a day to purchase all necessaries. Under the circumstances it can be imagined that unless succored by his family, he can scarcely live luxuriously. Unaccompanied by any guard the prisoners go daily to water the Prince's garden and take his horses out to exercise. They gallop about for a couple of hours, and then, having put the beasts in their stables, return to their uncomfortable quarters. A condemned person does not on that account by any means, forfeit his claims to public confidence. One example will suffice. A short time before the declaration of war a commercial house in Trieste notified the Prince that a cargo of ammunition had arrived at Cattaro, but could not be delivered until its price, 90,000 francs, had been paid. The steamer should leave in three hours after the receipt of the dispatch, and, under ordinary circumstances, six hours at least are required for the journey to Cattaro. Unless redeemed at the time, there would be a delay of many days in delivering the cargo.

The authorities bethought themselves of a heinous criminal, an individual with chained ankles, and who, for the crime of murder, was undergoing an exceptional punishment. In order to prove an alibi, he had traversed an extraordinary distance after his crime, and in an incredible short time. The idea struck the authorities that this man might be useful under the circumstances. Among these mountains a man on foot moves much more quickly than on horseback.

"Can you carry these 90,000 francs to Cattaro in three hours?" was asked the man. "Certainly," he replied. He started; the sum was duly delivered, and having brought back the receipt the man returned to his unbarred prison. In another country it is more than probable that under the circumstances the prisoner and the money would both have disappeared. But in Montenegro the case is different. Love of country is the predominant passion, albeit that the country is not worth much. It is so small the criminal cannot hope to escape detection; and he cannot endure the idea of perpetual ostracism. Sometimes the Montenegrin goes abroad for five or six years, but it is only that he may return later on to display his splendid wardrobe, the fruit of his toils in foreign countries—in Albania, in Herzegovina, even in Austria.—Tinsley's Magazine.

Minneapolis is reported to ship annually, beyond her local consumption, 1,650,870 barrels of flour. "These," said the Tribune's statistician, "if piled one above the other, end to end, would reach 780 miles. The flour would make 595,255,000 loaves of bread, the size of baker's loaves. These piled in a pyramid, would make, roughly calculated, a square pyramid with a base 300 feet square and with a height of nearly 1,000 feet."

Capt. Barry, of Kingston, Can., owner of several lake vessels and himself sailing master of one, says: "I, too, have been cured of rheumatism by St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy; and I know of several others beside myself who have been cured of that dreadful ailment in the same manner; it is known upon the water just as well as on the land, and is considered an invaluable remedy."

The Real Worth of the Vacation.

The superior man is the man who makes the best use of his natural forces; the inferior person is the one who uses up his vitality in the shortest space of time. This may be a slow way of approaching a great principle, but it is perhaps the most sure method of showing the way to that conservative and rational living which has characterized the wisest people and those who have used life to the best advantage. There is vast advantage in keeping an equilibrium of forces. This is as true of society and persons as it is of mechanics and natural forces. The vacation is the time when nature repairs the waste tissues. It seems like idleness to be loitering around listlessly by the seashore or at the country farm or by the mountain side, but it is just that seeming torpor of the faculties, on the part of the brain workers, which does most to recruit wasted energies, and is the best use to which the swiftly fleeting hours of vacation can be put. There is nothing like the extreme of rest to balance the extremes of strain to which bright persons are subjecting themselves in daily life. It can only be met in all of us by such a return to nature that her thousand ministrations to the minds and hearts of men may not be thwarted by our own indiscretion. The great thing is to maintain an equable life, to keep the nerves steady, to hold ourselves in check, and, if vacation can be used in such a way that professional and business people and busy brain workers can find rest for themselves in July and August, the whole community gains by this renewal of the chief forces of life. This is what a wisely-used vacation means for those who are now taking it. It means a mind and body in good repair on the first day of September.—Boston Herald.

Every few years during the earlier part of Queen Victoria's reign an attempt at a sensation was made by asserting that George IV. was lawfully married to Mrs. Fitzherbert and that a descendant of the two was still alive to lay rightful claim to the throne of Great Britain. Queen Victoria still reigns, however, and no substantial proof of the heir was ever produced to disturb the occupant. It is therefore a little startling to read that the late General Ord was the grandson of George IV. and Mrs. Fitzherbert. His father, raised in the Roman Catholic faith, which of itself would have debarred him from the throne, was educated in France, and was afterward brought by his tutor to Georgetown, District of Columbia, when he became a professor in the college. He served as a captain during the war of 1812. To avoid unpleasant notoriety he assumed the name of his tutor—Ord; and thus it happened that the late distinguished General Ord had a greater right to be sovereign of Great Britain than Victoria herself—provided this romance is true.

The activity and versatility of M. de Lesseps was never more distinctly seen by the world than now. He is a type of the keenest life of the time and he will undoubtedly be one of the most famous men of our age when the nineteenth century shall have rolled by into history and other people are given the amusement of discussing our doings and trying. No other nation could have gratified him as we gratify him. Despotism in the past have alone commanded anything like the amount of men and capital which the co-operative speculation of to-day controls, and Xerxes or a Titus would have lost all patience with DeLesseps long before he dug a canal. When he has flooded Sahara, cut North and South America asunder, and completed his second Suez canal, he will have done more in the altering of the world's face than any other man who ever lived.

Up to 1834, there were 223 offenses which were capital by the laws of England, and 187 laws for inflicting the death penalty has been passed since the accession of Charles II. In the seven years from 1819 to 1825 there were 579 executions, and less than one-fifth of them were for murder. For minor offenses there were the pillory, flogging at the cart's tail and the stocks. Men stood in the pillory for an hour or more, usually on three successive market days, to be jeered at by the crowd. Eaton, the publisher of Tom Payne's Age of Reason, was punished that way in 1812, and the pillory was not given up till 1832.

She leaned her head upon his shoulder and said, in her most insinuating tones: "Charley, dear, I've heard so much about dudes I want you to get me one." Charley smiled at her innocence, but resolved to humor it. "Would you prefer a French dude?" he asked. "I think not," she answered, squirming coyly. "How would a German dude suit?" "I don't think it would suit at all; I don't understand German." "Well, what shall it be, then?" "It was her turn to smile as she said, with an arch look: "A Yankee dude'll do."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the manufacture of low test short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall-st., N. Y.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure all." It is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of the blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Lymphemia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Scallings, &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, impurity of the blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet. "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle. D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

A LETTER FROM GERMANY.

SEAGEN, January 9, 1882.

Very esteemed sir:

The praise your Liver Pills have called forth here is wonderful. After taking one and a half boxes of your genuine SEAGEN'S LIVER PILLS, I have completely recovered from my four years' suffering. All who know me wonder how I, who for so many years, had no appetite, and could not sleep for backache, stitch in my side, and general stomach complaints, could have recovered.

An old lady in our city, who has suffered for many years from kidney disease, and the doctors had given her up, took two of your pills, and got more relief than she has from all the doctors. Yours truly,
J. VON DER BERG.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine is never sugar-coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression: McLANE'S LIVER PILLS. The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signature of C. McLANE and Fleming Bros. on the wrappers. Trust upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLANE spelled differently, but of same pronunciation.

If your stockkeeper does not have the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, send us 25 cents, and we will send you a box by mail, and a set of our advertising cards.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11th, 1883.

DEAR SIRS:

For general convenience, we have sent a supply of No. 30, 12-ply Genuine Scotch Salmon Net Twine, to the care of A. M. JOHNSON & CO., Astoria, which will be sold at low enough figures to make it an object for all net menders to use it for repairs, in place of the more costly No. 40, 12-ply.

Fishermen who have heretofore used this grade of twine for repairs, claim that the durability of the patch is equal to the balance of the net, after the latter has had a few weeks use. We think it will be money in your pocket to try it.

NEVILLE & CO.

Pacific Net and Twine Co.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 11th, 1883.

DEAR SIRS:

For general convenience, we have sent a supply of No. 30, 12-ply Genuine Scotch Salmon Net Twine, to the care of A. M. JOHNSON & CO., Astoria, which will be sold at low enough figures to make it an object for all net menders to use it for repairs, in place of the more costly No. 40, 12-ply.

Fishermen who have heretofore used this grade of twine for repairs, claim that the durability of the patch is equal to the balance of the net, after the latter has had a few weeks use. We think it will be money in your pocket to try it.

For prices and samples apply to
