

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

TUESDAY.....AUGUST 28, 1883

The Standard says that a Portland restaurant has been arrested.

They have a psychometer in Salem. His terms are two dollars a psych.

The Grisdale goes on berth here in about two weeks, to load for Liverpool. See adv.

C. Leinenweber returned on the State yesterday from the Knights Templar conclave which he attended as a member of Oregon Commandery.

The first page of the Seattle Evening Herald is an excellent advertisement of the community, and is worth ten times what it cost the advertisers as a general index to that enterprising city.

Freddie T., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Caswell, died yesterday morning. The funeral will take place from their residence at twelve o'clock to-day. The steamer Sam will leave at one o'clock p. m. for Clatsop where the body will be interred.

Col. F. J. Parker, editor and proprietor of the Walla Walla Daily Statesman arrived on yesterday's steamer, on his return from the conclave at San Francisco. He says the Bay city fairly outdid itself, and was enthusiastic over the reception the city accorded its visitors.

N. P. Johansen, of upper Astoria, is desirous to close out his stock of merchandise before he goes east. In order effectually to dispose of it and for convenience of sale, he has removed the balance of his stock to E. C. Holden's auction rooms, where it will be sold at auction on Thursday next. See ad.

The Longshoremen had a big time at Knappa last Sunday. They had engaged the Clara Parker, but she was not on hand, for which the smoke was to blame. She left Portland on Saturday evening intending to be at the dock in good season Sunday morning, but after getting to Columbia City it was impossible to proceed. The crowd at the wharf was temporarily disappointed, but the managers were equal to the occasion, and speedily engaged the Flatwood, a scow was taken in tow on each side, and one of the largest excursions that ever started from Astoria, started for Knappa. The day passed without accident. The Astoria band furnished music.

Dense smoke hung over land and sea Sunday morning, and the pungent odor of burning fir filled the air. The heat was oppressive and the sun's rays burned. From the heights above the city nothing could be seen but a gray towards the ocean by the fog. At dusk a breeze blew aside the smoke and the stars shone, but by eleven the east wind sent it back again thicker than ever, and all day yesterday the sun shone like a ball of burnished copper, and the streets and houses were filled with smoke. A gentleman, for whose opinion we have a high regard, says that this weather will continue till September 6th, that on that day rain will begin to fall and will continue falling at regular intervals till February '84.

Since our latest concerning the salmon train, A. Booth & Co. and Thomas & Knowles have each signified their intention of sending 600 cases of salmon. As 300 cases make a car load of Columbia river salmon, it will be seen that to make up a through salmon train of imposing proportions will not require even ordinary effort. There will be probably eighteen or twenty cars, and the outside will have a wealth of gorgeous imagery, depicted upon it commensurate with the value and importance of the freight the inside shall contain.

In the circuit court yesterday came up the Hill case on a writ of review. Sometime last March George Hill was arrested for having women on the floor of his saloon. He was sentenced in the police court to pay a fine of fifty dollars and forfeit his license. The matter was never settled nor is it settled now, but Judge Bennett made a ruling yesterday that has an important bearing on this much talked of case. The Judge in substance ruled that the police judge had a right under the ordinance, to fine Hill, but that he had no right to declare his license forfeited; that if that right existed it was a matter for the city council to take action in, and that the power to revoke the license could not be delegated to the police judge.

From the Walla Walla Union of the 22d we learn that the gold spike that Mr. Villard will drive on Sept. 8th, will not be allowed to remain, but "will be pulled out again." We were afraid some too enterprising paper would give publicity to that fact. In a confidential letter that Mr. Villard sent us about the 4th of July, he said as much, but suggested that nothing be said about it, and here the Walla Walla Union man goes and gives the whole thing away. We sincerely hope that no more disclosures of intention be made till after the event of the 8th prox. has taken place. Such premature announcements tend to destroy public confidence in the judgment of newspaper men.

Every one has heard that story about Joe Grimaldi, the great clown. Joe, when in London, was taken sick and consulted the leading physicians, he being an entire stranger to the faculty. After consultation the Eculepians informed Joseph that he was suffering from melancholia, and the best thing he could do would be to go to Astley's and see Grimaldi. "But I am Grimaldi," said the clown. The doctors were nonplussed. Yet though every one has heard that ancient joke illustrating how deceptive are appearances, not all know that last week an Astorian whose soul had sickened o'er the heaving wave, went to Portland for medical advice. The doctor recommended "exercise." The patient looked at him. "Have you ever been in Astoria?" he asked. "X-no," said the physician. "Well," said our ailing friend, "I live in Astoria, in the second story, and I have to pack every drop of water we use up those stairs, and you talk to me about 'exercise.'"

A first-class oyster opener was sent at Roscoe Dixon's.

The General of the Army.

Were our country to get into trouble with foreign foes a million armed men could be ready for duty, and the unassuming old man who stood on the deck of the Oregon yesterday afternoon, would be their leader. General Sherman has been seen so much and interviewed so often that it bores the old fellow to interview him. As the vessel came alongside the dock where we could get a better look at him we noticed that his age was beginning to show on him. He has the same twinkle in his eye, the same grim way of closing his jaw that he had fifteen years ago, but the essence of time is dyeing his hair white and he doesn't move so spry as he did. He had on a plain suit of black, a cloak was thrown on his shoulders and a well-worn Kosuth hat was canted over on the side of his head. He looked at the crowd and they returned the compliment. As soon as the gang plank was laid, Cushing Post No. 14, of the Grand Army of the Republic filed on board, and walking up were introduced by Capt. Merryman, the post commander. The old general's face brightened up and we doubt if any other form of reception would have given him as much genuine pleasure as did that simple little act of courtesy on the part of the Post.

The fact that the steamer only stopped for a short time precluded all possibility of an extended demonstration, and when she blew her whistle and swung seaward the general went aft and scrutinized the shore as though deciding just where he would station his headquarters in case of need. It was his last look at the Columbia in an official capacity, as on the 1st of October he will resign the position of general of the army, the highest military position in the United States, after holding it fourteen years, and turn its weighty responsibilities and heavy emoluments over to a man who was heard from on the Shenandoah a score of years ago—Phil Sheridan.

The First Waybill:

On Sunday, Aug. 26, 1883, was issued the first way bill on freight from Astoria over the Northern Pacific Railroad. It is Form 13, Waybill No. 1. The consignor is the Astoria Packing Co., the consignees are P. Duff & Son, Pittsburgh, Penn., and the freight specified in the green and purple document, which is worthy of framing, is 600 cases Columbia River salmon, and 25 cases Chilkat salmon from far-off Alaska.

The freight thus way-billed went to Portland on the Mountain Queen yesterday morning, and on the 30th with other Astoria product will start across the continent.

The following is a list of officers elected at the last regular meeting of the Longshoremen and Riggers Union held in this city on Monday, the 27th inst.: Alexander Maltman, president; William McClosky, vice president; William Edgar, treasurer, John Eyles, financial secretary; John O'Neil, recording secretary; James Kennedy, warden; William Yourg, Tyler.

The Astoria Railroad.

CORNELIUS, OR., Aug. 26, 1883. ED. ASTORIAN: The preliminary survey of the Astoria and Forest Grove Railroad is rapidly approaching completion, only about two miles remain to be located and that will be finished this week. A brief sketch of the route may be of interest. The line leaving Astoria bears up Young's River to Klaskanine and up the latter to Fish Hawk summit, having at this point an elevation of 1,260 feet, thence to the Nehalem river, elevation 450 feet, up the Nehalem 50 miles (the valley rising 4 to 5 feet per mile) to Castor creek, up Castor 2 miles to Gales creek summit, elevation 1,013 feet, then down Gales creek toward Forest Grove.

Twenty miles of the line crossing Fish Hawk summit, and 5 miles on Gales creek summit will be heavy work, the balance of the line can be easily constructed.

The manner in which this survey has been pushed through has been a credit to the O. & C. R. R. and their efficient corps of engineers and the work has been done most thoroughly.

The working hours of the party were from half-past six in the morning to about 7 at night, and then two or three hours in the camp office by lamp light, and a good deal of extra work on Sundays.

The farmers on the Nehalem are very jubilant over the prospect of a railroad and will do all in their power to hasten the completion of the line.

The mapping and final estimating is being done here, and we expect to have the work ready for delivery in Portland by the 2d of September, that will be the end of the preliminary survey, and then Astoria and Forest Grove will be watching and waiting for the final location. How long no one knows, but it is scarcely possible anything will be done until the last spike is driven on the Northern Pacific.

Ordinance No. 531.

In your issue of Aug. 26th, you refer to the arrest of the Parker House, and the refusal of F. D. Winton, city attorney, to enter complaint against the proprietors. I would like to ask why I should be any more guilty or liable to a fine under the ordinance than any one else, and why I should be fined $50 and costs, and other restaurant and saloon men only $10 and $20 for the same offense. If it was necessary for a machine shop to run to repair that steamer, it was also necessary for the men to eat. I have regular boarders working on boats, wharves, etc., that eat their meals between 12 and 5. It seems to me an act of injustice, to compel me to obey ordinances, that for private and political reasons are not enforced against others. It looks like petty spite work. My understanding of the ordinance is, that it applies to all kinds of business, while the city attorney's understanding of it seems to be that it applies only to Jeff's restaurant. Perhaps the city attorney may be able to throw some light on the subject.

Very respectfully, R. L. JEFFRY.
