

The Daily Astorian.
ASTORIA, OREGON:
THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1912

227 P. F. FISHER, Rooms 29 and 31, Merchants Exchange Building, is the only authorized agent in San Francisco, and any contracts made by him will be recognized. THE DAILY and WEEKLY ASTORIAN are kept on file at his agency.

Can Such Things Be.

THE Cincinnati Commercial tells how the good people of that city are bamboozled by the political dealers who run the political game. According to that journal the first thing needed is a gang composed of members of both parties.
The gang constitute a ring.
The ringsters are especially zealous.
They are furious partisans, foremost and loudest in party work. The time comes for holding the primaries. The ring has possession of some of the offices and wants some more. Actually it makes no difference to the ring from which political side of the organization the officers are chosen.
In any event the spoils are equitably divided.

We will say C. is a strong Democrat and wants the great office of the occasion—that is, the office where there is the greatest opportunity for converting the earnings of the many to the profit of the few. C. being a voracious Democrat, wants the proper Republican nominated to run against him.
Now, B. is a Republican ringster, and he and C. maintain relations of the closest confidence.
They are, indeed, as thick as two thieves. We will say the Republican primaries and convention come on first. C., having things fixed in his own party, so far as possible, is deeply concerned as to B. Now B. is not actually a candidate for the office, but, under a ring understanding, he runs to help C., and is to be paid for his expenses in carrying the Republican convention. Naturally, on the day before and the day of the Republican primaries, C., though a good Democrat, noted for being red hot on the smallest provocation, is one of the most attractive of our citizens.
If B. is nominated by the Republicans through the servants of the organizations in the several wards, C. is subject to congratulation.
He will proceed to use the same crowd to obtain the Democratic nomination. With such an arrangement, whichever way the election goes the ringsters win. They have a hen on two eggs. One is sure to hatch. Perhaps after the nominations are made, with the adjustment that C., the Democrat, is to be elected, and B., the Republican, compensated for his trouble, the people will rise in their night and smother the slate. In that case B. is the office-holder and C. is paid for his trouble; and the office used for the base purposes of the same persons; and this sort of thing is usually styled a reformation.

As invention for walking the water was recently tried on the Delaware river. The invention consists of two miniature scows, made of cedar, square at the end, and slightly bevelled on the under side for a short distance from each end. They were fitted with supports for each arm, which also answered the purpose of assisting in preserving an equilibrium.
They were also fitted with brass rods, which were used as propellers, and to one was attached a short rudder, with a cord reaching to the hand of the pedestrian, by which the course could be in a measure regulated. These shoes or floats were each seven feet in length and fourteen inches wide and one was attached to each foot.
When the adjustments were made the man stepped into the water, and started on his journey. On account of the strong tide running at the time, very slow progress was made by him, but finally he succeeded in accomplishing the feat.
The apparatus used by him is the invention of Professor Rowland, of San Francisco, who claims that he succeeded in walking across the bay at that place, a distance of three miles.

THE Minneapolis Tribune contrasts the financial result of different kinds of "strikes," in the following remark: "John L. Sullivan made more money in fifteen minutes Monday night by striking than the Brotherhood of Telegraphers made in three weeks by the same operation."
