

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:
SUNDAY.....SEPTEMBER 2, 1883

-The State left out at noon yesterday.

-Chas. F. Williamson has been appointed notary public for this county.

-Ye fines in ye police court for ye month of August amount to $882 50, coin of ye realm.

-The through train with salmon from the Columbia river will leave Portland to-morrow afternoon.

-Charles A. Burchardt, a prominent Portland merchant, died in this city last Friday, aged 53 years.

-The annual meeting of Astoria Engine Co No One will be at half-past seven, to-morrow evening.

-There was no fire alarm yesterday, the matter being postponed till this morning by general consent.

-The regular monthly meeting of the vestry of Grace church will be held on Monday (to-morrow) evening at 8 P. M.

-The Sunday school of the Baptist church is changed from two o'clock to half-past twelve. The new order begins to-day.

-Rev. B. S. McLafferty, of the Baptist church, will deliver a lecture to-night to young people: subject, "Temptation."

-The weather being too thick and the passenger list too thin, has caused the withdrawal of the Lurline from her excursion route.

-W. W. Parker, county assessor, gives notice that the time for the completion of the county assessment roll has been extended.

-The Whoomer Reville has a standing notice at the head of its columns that "Hatched, Matched and Dispatched notices are published gratis."

-The fires of last week filled the air with smoke to such an extent that in whatever direction the wind blew, the dark blue haze hung over the city.

-Rev. J. McCormac will conduct divine service in the Methodist church at 11 A. M., and on board the ship St. Lucia, lying at Flavel's dock at 4 P. M.

-The Miles leaves for Gray's harbor with a big load of freight this morning. The new steamer Gov. Newell, goes over in charge of Capt. Whitcomb, to-morrow or Tuesday.

-Grace church parish school will open to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock. The Rector hopes to see a large number of children, but desires respectfully to remind the parents that the terms are $2 a month strictly in advance.

-By the separation of the Northern Pacific into two divisions, making Helena the dividing line, the eastern division will comprise 1646 miles and the western division 1235 miles. The latter includes the lines of the Oregon Railway and Navigation company and the Oregon and California railroad.

-The Oregon and California railroad company has presented the Albany fire department with two silver trumpets in recognition of its services in saving property at the burning of the bridge near that city in June. The company has shown proper judgment and won't lose anything by it. There is a good deal of human nature about firemen, and they like, as everybody else does, to be appreciated.

-Among other features of the Seattle reception to Villard and party will be a barbecue. The bill of fare will consist of five oxen, ten sheep, 500 bushels of clams, 2,800 loaves of bread, 150 pounds of coffee, 100 gallons of milk, ten cases of biscuit, two barrels of crushed sugar, twenty dozen bottles of Worcestershire sauce, etc. There will be twenty waiters. A steam engine will be placed to turn the spit. The food is expected to be enough for 10,000 people.

Card of Thanks.
The Astoria Box and Lumber Mill Co., extend their sincere thanks to the Astoria Fire Department for their prompt and well directed services at the burning of the factory last night. We have special reasons to be grateful because of the distance and the faithfulness with which the department worked.

To Arrive on Tuesday.

A San Francisco dispatch reports that considerable rivalry exists among those who have purchased tickets for passage to Portland on steamers sailing to-day and bets are made that the Oregon will cross the Columbia river bar in advance of the Queen of the Pacific. George W. Weidler offers to wager two baskets of champagne on the above proposition, but found no takers. A number of private bets have been made. The Queen of the Pacific on her arrival in Portland will temporarily be taken off the route to do duty for the guests of the Northern Pacific railroad.

A number of prominent musicians have been engaged to assist the Portland orchestral union in a concert to be given in honor of the laying of the last rail.

To-day witnesses the largest departure of passengers for Portland that has yet occurred in one day. The passenger lists of the steamers Oregon and Queen of the Pacific, both of which sail to-day at the usual hour, are complete, and a number of persons had to be satisfied with accommodations in the saloon. A majority of those going north on these steamers are attracted by the festivities in honor of the completion of the Northern Pacific.

Among those who have received invitations to attend, and who take their departure to-day, are the following: Ex-Governor George C. Perkins, Ex-Congressman Horace Davis, Gen. W. H. L. Barnes, Gen. L. H. Allen, W. T. Coleman, R. D. Rideout and Oliver Eldridge.

Reputating the Growler.

ASTORIA, Sept. 1, 1883.
ED. ASTORIAN:

Please allow me to say that whenever any person hereafter has any growling to do in regard to the way he is individually treated at a fire, whether he belongs to Rescue Engine company or not, he will oblige Rescue Engine company by using his own name, and not the name of the company. I do not know whether the growler is a lunch fiend or not, or whether he belongs to the department for the sake of getting something to eat, but if he does he has got into the wrong crowd, in Rescue No. 2. We carry no free lunch banner on our steamer, nor answer to the call of duty for pilfer. Our motto is "To the Rescue," and to save the lives and property of our fellow citizens from destruction by fire, and our aim the public good. And to Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hanthorn and to Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and others who kindly furnished us with refreshments after our long run and fatiguing labor, allow me in the name of the company to return to you our sincere thanks; and should you ever need us call, and Rescue will always respond.

FRANK L. PARKER.
Foreman Rescue Engine Co. No. 2.

Pacific County Items.

As high as 250 sacks of oysters are being shipped daily from Ilwaco. Several loads have been taken from Oysterville by L. A. Loomis' stage line. Present indications are that the oyster trade will be extensive this season.

The price of logs on the bay has advanced from $5 to $6 per 1,000 feet. This will doubtless be appreciated by the loggers; the price heretofore has been rather low to derive any considerable margin on the business, as the price of provisions, feed and labor are exceedingly high.

The Northern Pacific has a man in the field appraising and selecting lands in this and Chehalis county. G. L. Palmer and party of four men came over from Gray's harbor Sunday on their way to North river, where they will do some work. They will work south as fast as possible until they reach the Columbia river, so they time this fall. So soon as the land is surveyed by Mr. Palmer he makes a report as to its character and sends it to the railroad land office, where it is offered for sale at prices ranging from $2.50 to $6 per acre.

-During the recent session of the county commissioners, L. A. Loomis, acting for the Ilwaco Steam Navigation company, introduced a petition before that body, asking for a right of way from Ilwaco to head of navigation on Shoalwater bay, for the purpose, as set forth in the petition, of constructing a tramway across the portage, to be used in transporting passengers and freight from Ilwaco to the bay and making connection with steamer for this and other points. The commissioners laid the matter over until the next regular session. This more is calculated to arouse the interest of all who have the welfare of this county at heart, and will doubtless receive the encouragement it properly deserves. Everyone knows that the present communication is inadequate, especially in the summer season, and it is proper time steps were taken, like the above, to facilitate matters.

Politics and the Pulpit.

A church in Connecticut has accepted a donation of a lot of land for a parsonage on conditions imposed by the donor that the minister must not preach "Casuarium, politics, Garfieldism, or glorification or denunciation of any living or dead person, nothing but the pure scriptural facts of Christ and his crucifixion." Some persons who had contributed money towards building a parsonage sensibly objected to tying up their donation by any such restriction and the giver of the land said he would make good any subscriptions which were lost for this reason.

The local paper thinks it is easy to look forward a dozen years and see how sick that church will be of its bargain. In the first place, no preacher with any respect for his manhood or his calling can submit to any such restriction on what he must say as these conditions impose. It tickles the ears of a great many thoughtless people to say that a minister shouldn't preach politics, but if he means to tell his people the truth, he can't preach "Christ and his crucifixion" for long in these days without running against the current of politics. And if the preacher is a true man, with a particle of grit in him, he will not hesitate to say his say when a vital question of national honor is submitted to the people's decision. His station as a preacher cannot absolve him from a duty which every one will agree would rest upon him were he in any other vocation. Whatever "Casuarium" or "Garfieldism" may be, we are unable to say. Perhaps Christ himself was guilty of preaching the former when he said, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's." But then he didn't have a parsonage to live in.

But that church, when it finds a pastor, will also find itself given up to hunting for heresies in his sermons. He will be far more of a diplomatist than most preachers if he keeps his discourse clear from all expressions which could be considered as trenching on the forbidden subjects. Like the boy who throws stones at the street lanterns to see how little he can miss them, the clergyman will find himself making experiments with his hearers to see how much politics he can preach to them without their knowing it. But should he, like the greatest preacher of Christ that ever lived, reason earnestly with his congregation of "righteousness, temperance and judgment to come," he would be sure to raise the ire of some sensitive soul, who would not be at a loss for arguments to show that he had violated all the conditions by which he held his pulpit. The church cannot fail to be doomed to no end of internal trouble arising from the attempt to muzzle its preacher.

The fact is, while the primary purpose and chief mission of the church is spiritual, it cannot ignore the every-day current of human life and be successful. This donor of an acre of land wants nothing preached-in the most literal sense-except "Christ and his crucifixion." But Christ himself never preached any such doctrine, and what is more he never practiced it. His greatest sermon was full of every-day-life-of maxims which were directly applicable to the common duties of his hearers. The pulpit of to-day can have no better model.

The Causes of Blushing.

The physiology of blushing has long presented a difficult problem to solve. Many unsatisfactory explanations have been given of the causes of that interesting phenomenon. The Medical Journal lately received an inquiry as to the measures to be taken for the cure of a chronic tendency to blush, and one of its correspondents takes the matter up in a very practical way. Among other causes of blushing, he gives prominence to the "wearing of thick underclothing, and especially to thick socks." He adds that long sleeved woolen socks or jerseys are often the cause of blushing, and, in fact, warm clothing in general. He does not fail to remark that the blusher must choose in this matter between the risk of rheumatism and the annoyance of blushing. As collateral evidence in support of his views, he says: "An aunt of mine had habitually a red nose from this cause alone, which disappeared when she took to thinner stockings."

Regarding the matter from a social standpoint, the writer says: "The best plan of a habitual blusher is to laugh and be very gushing, as, for instance, on meeting an acquaintance in the street, when he colors up, and he will then feel more at ease than if he looks sheepish and reserved."

An obvious cause of blushing is over-sensitiveness and self-consciousness, which will wear away as the person becomes used to society and strengthens his character by adopting wise principles of thought and action. The physiological explanation of blushing given by the writer just given is that it is due to paralysis of the sympathetic circles of nerves surrounding the arteries, which, not contracting properly, allow a freer flow of blood to the surface.

Their Little Game.

The office of the Milwaukee Journal is next door to an undertaker's establishment, just as THE ASTORIAN is, and there is usually a coffin box or two on the sidewalk waiting to be used. It is related that a man came to the Journal office to have a fuss with the editor over something that had been said in the paper, and he was pretty mad when he accosted the general business manager, Mike Kraus. He spoke of desiring blood, and expressed a desire to gallop all over the editor, and offered to chew a few reporters. Mr. Kraus stood in the door, and pointing to the box on the sidewalk he said: "How would that fit you? It may be a little short, but we have larger ones, and calling the undertaker, who was on the sidewalk, Kraus said: "Measure this man, please." The undertaker took out a tape-line, and came forward, and the man with the hot box, who was being measured for a cold box, began to feel small. Just then the editor, Neiman, came down stairs, and Mike said: "See here, Neiman, here is a man in a hurry to whip somebody, and I don't know but you will have to let me have that coffin that was made for the South side man, who was going to come in this afternoon to whip us. He can wait." Neiman looked at the man who wanted to fight and said to Mike: "No, you must make one for this man. The South side man will be here at 4 o'clock, and I make it a point never to disappoint a man." "Say," says Neiman, turning to the man who had come for a fight, "Couldn't you get along without a fight till Saturday? We are a little crowded now," and Neiman rested his cane on the coffin box. The man said, come to think of it, he didn't want to fight, anyhow, but he did think that article in the paper was confounded mean. "Of course," says Neiman. "Of course," says Kraus, and the mad man walked down street, and the undertaker went in his store and the editor and undertaker looked at each other and went to work as though nothing had happened.
