THOSE WOMEN FOLK. How Hard-Beaded Men Estimate So mehings which They Don't Understand.

Anybody who has led a domestic life knows how common such things as the backache, and pains in the chest, are among the women who do the work. Often-and perhaps generally—the distresses are borne without much complaint. The women get about, and the machinery of the house goes on. Beyond this, those coarse-grained animals whom New England women call "the men folks," seldom look. So long as their wives or daughters are not netually in bed, under the doctor's care, the average thickskinned husband and father gives the subject no attention. At the same time, the poor shold drudges - who deserve a bett -creep around, broom or utenzils in hand, up stairs down stairs and out-of-doors, doing hat woman's work, which is "nover done." Losses of loved wives and fair girls-losses whose suddenness and unexpectedness astonish those wooden-puted husbands and fathers-fall, seemingly out of a clear sky, and form the logical sequel to the story of neglect. Now, you men who stand at the heads of ten thousand such homes, allow us to drop a word in your receptive years. If these women of yours are worth having, they are worth saving. That backache-that pain in the chest! What are they but indications of some organic trouble of the kidneys, the heart, or the lungs? End it at once by the application Best of WINES AND LIQUORS. TER.
