

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1889

The News carrier is not est.

Seattle asks for a "fog whistle."

Prof. Peters of Clinton, N. Y. has found a new asteroid. Some people prefer a horse.

The stockholders of the Occident Packing Company hold their regular meeting to-day.

The Kate and Anna is being fixed up to take the place of the Ona in the Yaquina trade.

A train load of canned corn from Portland, Maine, arrived at Portland, Oregon, yesterday.

Walter S. Moss' Boston Operatic Minstrels will play at Occidental Hall next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

From experience Seattle has learned the necessity of a registration law, and has introduced an act in the legislature now in session, to that intent.

There will be two eclipses this month, one of the moon on the 15th, and one of the sun on the 30th. This is exclusive of Healy's eclipse in Ohio on the 9th.

Yesterday was about as near perfect as weather ever gets to be. The air was clear and soft as velvet, the sun shone warm, and the water sparkled in its light.

J. C. Trullinger, proprietor West Shore Mills, advertises to make boxes for cannerymen next season, and is prepared to enter into a contract for any number required.

Some land in London was recently sold at the rate of $3,300,000 an acre. We have always said that there might be a place found where real estate was higher than in Astoria, and lo! it is London.

The new schoolhouse presents a fine appearance; the tasteful manner in which it is being painted elicits universal commendation. A four-dial clock would look well in the central tower of the building.

In the matter of the writ of habeas corpus in the case of Mamie Adams, who was arrested on the State last Tuesday, Judge McGuire, yesterday morning directed that she be remanded to the custody of the chief of Police, until her parents arrived here to reclaim her.

The British bark Scottish Prince, Mowat master, from Melbourne, and Afton, 62 days from Brisbane, arrived yesterday. The Garfield came in to load at Knappa; the Harry Morse came down, and the Tam O'Shanter went up stream. The Western Belle is ready for sea.

The latest from the Cairnmore is that the vessel is broken in two, the water washing through her, and nothing of any consequence saved except rigging and ship furniture. Telegrams relating to legalities and illegals have been flying back and forth for two or three days, concerning the vessel, her owners, buyers, salvors, wreckers and claimants, and the probable result of the business will be a court of inquiry.

The Astorian a few days ago contained an account of a coal find near Knappa, and the attention of practical men with money being attracted, the preliminary steps were taken in Astoria to form a joint stock company, to open up the mine and work it. But as sometimes happens those who were the most interested demanded such terms as made it impossible to proceed, and the result is—nothing. The moral is obvious.

The San Francisco papers to hand give a fuller account of the late railroad conference than anything received here so far. It transpires that the Northern Pacific didn't get all it claimed as far as Astoria is concerned; special exemption being made in relation to this place, the Central and Southern Pacific keeping the right to ship canned salmon from here at the same rates as the Northern Pacific. But that is of secondary consideration, as the managers have agreed not to allow the public the benefit resulting from competition, or in other words, whatever benefit usually does result from business competition shall be pocketed by the railroad companies and not by the public.

Wheeler & Robb have taken charge of the Daily News route. Persons failing to receive their papers promptly will confer a favor by leaving their address at their office, as the route books of the former agent are missing.

New Millinery At Mrs. Malcolm's. Will have a fall opening in a few days.

A Little One Sided.

Four years ago 163,487 voters said in California that they were opposed to Chinese immigration, and when the Chinese restriction act was passed over President Arthur's veto nearly everyone on the coast was glad of it, and felt as though it was a good thing that those yellow fellows who live on rats and rice should be made stay at home. And they were right. But it has had the effect, unforeseen at the time, of making the whilom meek Mongolian who had been fortunate enough to be here, "stuck up." He knows his worth, and demands it. Ask him to do a job of work, and secure from competition he calmly sets his price, and gets it. Time was when a Chinaman could be got to carry a pile of wood or restore a white shirt to its pristine purity, or put a room to rights, but now he is as independent as a white girl. It requires considerable coaxing and blandishment to induce the coy creatures to work; if what they are pleased to consider their "feelings" should be hurt, they will quit. Especially is this so in regard to laundry work. No matter if the napkins and table cloths come home in ribbons, shirts with spots on the bosoms, and cuffs missing, one must be careful to conceal his emotion or the Chinaman who has us at his mercy will go on a strike, and we know of nothing more piggish than a Chinaman on a strike unless it be two Chinamen on the same lay out. This exclusion business seems to be a sort of boomerang, as far as Astoria is concerned.

Don't Do It

It is with pleasure we read in the Sound papers and that sprightly journal, the Chehalis Vindicator, of the many advantages of natural resources and geographical location that are possessed by the pleasant places where our journalistic brethren publish their enterprising newspapers; and the fact that any territory, more especially that portion of it immediately near Astoria is so richly favored, is to us a cause of unalloyed delight. But the pleasure that our friends occasion is not wholly unmixt with regretful surprise, when we find misleading and unfavorable reference to the Columbia river, more especially this side of that noble stream. In all kindness we would ask, is it requisite to attempt to belittle any portion of this country in an endeavor to talk up another portion of it? Is it necessary in setting forth the advantages of a locality to further disqualify it by disparaging statements relative to other places? It would seem to us as though we all have a splendid country to live in and for, and that all parts of it enjoy a common prosperity. While such petty spirit might be excused in small sections, it is out of place in such a boundless area of natural wealth and resources as this, and should be tabooed. Praise your own, but don't run down your neighbor's property.

The charge of robbery pending against the sailor boarding house runner Edward Mordant, who choked and beat a sailor to get $3 out of him, and afterwards fled to Sacramento, where he was arrested, was dismissed yesterday in the police court, but was immediately re-arrested for battery.

M. H. E. Levy states that salmon are now being caught in large numbers. One of his Indian crews caught 2,318 large fish at one haul of the seine yesterday afternoon. It has only been during the past three days that salmon came in from the deep water, so that they could be taken. It is more than likely the packers from this time on to the close of the season will have more fish than they can care for.

Albert Baker, who resides on his farm about three miles from Ilwaco, had an encounter with a bear last Saturday, in which he came near losing his life. He shot the bear five times Friday evening, about dark, but not succeeding in killing him, the animal hid in the bush. Next morning Mr. Baker, with the aid of his dog, tracked the bear and shot him about the jaw. Bruin then showed fight, knocking Mr. Baker down and scratching him up considerably. Amos Embree went to the rescue, and with his rifle dispatched the infuriated animal.

Moss' Minstrels. This mirth provoking troupe opens at the New Market theater to-night in a new and attractive programme, which has received high commendation from the eastern press. An old favorite in Portland, Miss Bessie Louise King, will appear in conjunction with the company in an entirely new repertoire of songs. The minstrels would have opened before this at the New Market theatre were it not for other companies being previously engaged. A good show and a full house are confidently expected.

Notice. During my absence in San Francisco my brother, Carl Wagner, will conduct my business and attend to it in all its details. MAX WAGNER.

Which the Same Applies to Astoria.

Discussing domestic matters the Standard says: "The good wife, who can, in Portland, set out good substantial breakfasts, luncheons and dinners for a family of four or five for thirty days, for any less sum than $40, is entitled to the admiration of her husband and neighbors. The first is assured of perhaps $25 more each month with which to pay rent, and possibly $25 additional for clothing, etc.; the second are proud of her economy. If she does it, she must be in a constant war with those from whom she buys, or on the alert for bargains of those who do business from market wagons rather than shops or stores. The market men and grocers here pile on the prices unconsciously, else they are compelled to make these high charges in order to gratify wholesale dealers. Whatever may be the relative cost of sugar, coffee and other standard articles, meat and vegetables, fruits, fish and many other minor things cost much more here than they should. It is certainly all out of kilter when a mechanic getting $90 per month has to pay about $40 per month for the mere feeding of his family of four. Without an exception the papers of this Pacific Northwest are continually saying that we of this state can raise more vegetables, fruit and the like to the acre than any section of country on the American continent. We possibly can, but the prices asked for these things show that we don't do it, and the manifest of every steamer shows that California is feeding Oregon and Washington territory. The fact that a mechanic getting $90 per month and is compelled to spend nearly half of it for mere food for his small family, indicates the total cost per month. Add $25 for rent, water, light, wood and other incidental and unavoidable expenses, and the result shows that no amount of prudence can keep the expenses of such a family down to less than the income. When it is the rule rather than the exception that men cannot get in this land of plenty more than enough to scantily provide the bare necessities of existence, it is certain that something is wrong. There will have to be a settling down of rent rates and the prices of produce and provisions, or an advance in wages. One of the two things is inevitable—and this winter too.

The New Postage Stamps.

The American letter writer has for so many years had his patriotic sympathies harrowed and his reverence for the father of his country sorely tried by the painful caricature of George Washington, with its swollen jaw, brutal features, and drooping neck swathed in an untidy dinner napkin, on the three-cent postage stamp, that the 1st of October, with its reduction of letter postage and new issue of stamps, brought a double relief.

The new stamps are ready for issue. In the new two-cent stamp it is to be seen that the aching molar has been pulled, and the facial swelling has subsided, while the head and face bear some resemblance to the portrait in the refinement of the lines and expression of the features. There is an improvement in the arrangement of the hair and queue.

The head now rests in an oval medallion on a heraldic shield. The lettering shows more sharply and distinctly than in the present stamps; at the top, the legend, "United States Postage," and below the medallion, "Two Cents," standing out clearly on groundwork darker than the body of the stamp; while the color, a pale carmine red ink, in which oxide of iron is a powerful component, sufficiently distinguishes the denomination without blurring the design.

The double rate, or four-cent stamp is of a green color, and bears the head of the Hero of New Orleans, somewhat less unkempt and frightful than other government caricatures of the grand old Democrat. If Andrew Jackson actually resembled his postage stamps, he needed neither military skill nor equipment; he had only to go forth and look upon his foe "and the red field was won." The process of printing these stamps differs essentially from that of England and continental nations who continue to make their plates directly from the original die, and to print from raised designs on blocks like types. The American Bank Note company's process is, however, to cut the original die on soft steel in sunken lines, and from this, being hardened, a roll of raised transfers like type are obtained, and from these, in turn, are produced plates of two hundred steel copies of the original die, in sunken lines, from which the stamps are finally printed.
