

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1883

Buckeyes and Hawkeys.

The result of Tuesday's election in Ohio is as yet undetermined, though it is believed that Judge Hoadley, the Democratic candidate for governor, is elected by a small majority, and that the Democrats carry a majority of the legislature. This last is in even greater dispute than the gubernatorial returns; upon the political complexion of the newly elected legislature depends whether Senator Pendleton's successor in the U. S. Senate shall be Democratic or Republican.

Ohio has all along been considered a Republican state, giving Garfield 34,227 majority three years ago. The election this year turned on what may be called local issues, at the bottom of which lay the question of prohibition. The real question in Ohio last Tuesday was not whether Hoadley or Foraker should be elected governor, but whether saloons should or should not be taxed. Republicans championed the provision of license, and a temporary defeat will probably nerve the prohibition leaders to a renewed effort.

In Iowa the Republicans carry the works by a majority vastly reduced from the Garfield majority of 78,126, in 1880.

In the Hawkeye state, also, the question of prohibition was the most prominent feature of the campaign, and the Republican majority will be generally accepted as furnishing figures indicating the popular feeling in Iowa as regards that movement.

ARRANGEMENTS are being made by Mr. Blackfan, chief of the foreign postal service at Washington, to admit the Australian colonies into the international postal union. When this is accomplished, the whole world, practically, will be in the union, and a uniform rate of 5 cents will pay for a letter to any place on the globe with the exception of Batavia. The Australian colonies have been kept out of this long because they could not very well adopt so cheap a rate and pay the subsidies they are to receive.

The Panama canal company are pushing work with a labor force of six thousand laborers, most of whom are negroes from the West Indies. Six dredges are also being used to good advantage in loading cars, which are hauled to a dumping ground some twelve miles distant from the canal. The capital is furnished to a large extent by Americans and English.

The Washington territorial legislature is about to pass a law making it impossible for quack doctors to practice medicine in the territory. It is a good idea. Another law should be passed compelling physicians to practice under their own names. Seattle would lose one practitioner should such a law prevail.

The fact that Geo. D. Robinson is Republican candidate for governor of Massachusetts, against bold Ben Butler, the Democratic standard bearer, impels the belief in the minds of many that George D. Robinson is not the man to beat Governor B.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Washington Capital says: "A Wall street broker friend of mine says his firm are borrowing all the money they want at two per cent a year and charging customers six per cent a year for the use of it. 'We cleared $15,000 on interest alone in August,' he says. 'When our customers order us to buy certain shares of stock for them they put up ten per cent as the total investment, and that makes us responsible for ninety per cent. If the stock is left idle on our hands for any length of time we charge interest on that ninety per cent. So, you see, if the market is dull, the profit lies in the interest; if it is lively, it is in the commission: In either case we come out ahead.'"

THE Oregonian makes a good point in calling attention to the prevailing folly of agricultural production, viz: raising wheat and nothing but wheat. No market in the world is so subject to fluctuation and violent competition as the wheat market. Concentration on one crop and purchase of all things else, will, in the end impoverish the country that adopts such a suicidal course.

LATE European advices are to the effect that Germany is scheming to embroil France in another war and is doing all it can to exasperate its Gallic neighbors. The French press express the utmost confidence in the condition of the country, and think that France is fully prepared to go to war. This opinion is not shared by journals outside of France, some of the latter asserting that another Franco-German war would be Sedan and Metz over again.

A SLOOP with eleven Chinamen aboard, from British Columbia was captured Saturday by the Custom inspector at Port Townsend, W. T. The Chinese acknowledge having paid $15 ahead for their passage.

THE Nord Deutsche Zeitung says that nihilist proclamations have been issued solemnly sentencing the Czar to death because he has failed to grant liberty to the people.
