

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1883

THE News asks what has become of the project for establishing a reform school in this state. The need of such an institution is apparent.

HARPER'S Weekly says: "The Democratic party seeks power simply to seize the spoils. Turn the rascals out," means only, give us rascals a chance."

VILLARD is getting even with that part of Wall street that has been cinching him and his friends for the past three weeks. All the N. P. stocks are on the rise.

FRANCE may lose all her friends in Europe, but she will be kindly remembered by the people of the United States, for the aid she gave the Colonies in their struggle against British tyranny, in 1776.

At Colusa, Cal., last Wednesday, in the case of the murderer of Dr. Glenn, the California wheat king, the jury brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree, and fixed the penalty at imprisonment for life.

Six gangs of laborers are now at work cutting the horse-shoe grade at the Blue Mountain station. By causing the road to form a large circle on a steady up-grade, the O. R. & N. Co. hope to find their way out of the Dry creek canyon. Work on this end of the Walla Walla and Pendleton road will be pushed ahead rapidly.

We learn from sources to be relied upon that the twenty-five miles of grade under contract by Mr. Bennett is nearly finished. There are about 300 men at work on the Columbia river bridge, and the work is progressing rapidly. The bridge is expected to be completed by the first of April. Cars may be running on the twenty-five miles this side within two months.

In six consecutive presidential election and twelve gubernatorial elections since 1855, Ohio has gone Republican by majorities ranging from 100,000 downward. In that time the Democrats have elected two governors, Ailen and Bishop, the first in 1873 and the latter in 1877. The state has not gone Democratic in two successive state elections till last year and this.

THE El Paso Times says: The main trouble of the Boundary Commission, which has just finished its labors, was in finding the United States monuments and determining whether they were in proper position. The natives had put many of them to queer uses. In one place a monument had been used in constructing a chimney, against which nestled an adobe house.

In a conversation with a gentleman well posted with the manœuvres of the O. R. & N. Co., we learned that the road is literally lined with workmen between Centerville and Blue Mountain station, and that the road-bed is under contract to be completed within six weeks from date. The road is being pushed to completion by the New York office, and it is supposed has considerable to do with the Oregon Short Line compact.

Suits have been brought in New York to enjoin the N. P. R. R. Co. from issuing the proposed second mortgage bonds. The ground taken is that the original act of incorporation prohibits the company from making any mortgage or issuing any construction bonds without the consent of congress. Congress gave its consent in 1870, that the company might issue construction bonds and secure them by mortgage. Under that consent Jay Cooke's mortgage was made, which was subsequently foreclosed. The position assumed by the plaintiffs is that the authority of congress, once exercised, was exhausted and could not be repeated.

YESTERDAYS San Francisco Chronicle says: Among the arrivals by the steamer Granada from Panama is Moses Wasserman, head store-keeper for the Panama Canal company. In an interview he stated that there are now 8000 men employed on the canal, and he said that on December 1, when the rainy season would be over, 6000 Jamaican laborers would arrive, when the real work of excavating an interoceanic passageway would be commenced under the direction of Mr. Dinger, chief engineer, who will be due at Colon on November 15. Every inch of ground on the isthmus has been surveyed, examined and measured. All estimates have been made, contracts concluded and means provided for insuring a grand success. Those on the ground implicitly believe that the canal will be finished by 1889, the date assigned by De Lesseps.

The twelfth district of the United States life saving service comprises the Pacific coast. The stations are located at Neah bay, Washington Territory, on the Indian reservation; Shoalwater bay, Washington Territory, near light-house boat landing; Cape Hancock, Washington Territory, Baker's bay; Cape Argo, Oregon, Coos bay, near lighthouse; Humboldt bay, California, near lighthouse; Bolinas bay, California; Golden Gate park, California, on the beach in Golden Gate park, San Francisco; Point Conception, California—not built in 1882. During the season of 1881-82 there were seven disasters, involving total loss of vessels; value of the vessels, $315,000; value of the cargoes, $52,375; total value of property, $367,375; number of persons on board, 91—all saved; number of shipwrecked passengers succored at stations, 32; number of days succor afforded, 43; value of property saved, $1070; value of property lost, $366,305.
