

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1883.

Nothing succeeds like success. The Columbia sails for San Francisco to-day.

School in district No. one begins again in Liberty hall next Monday.

There will be a special auction sale at E. C. Holsen's at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The schooner Chas. Hansen, eight days from San Francisco, arrived yesterday, to load lumber at Westport.

Matters are reported quiet on the Willamette. One hundred and fifty railroad laborers were laid off at Alhambra on the 1st.

Owing to Frank Elbertson's broken being out of repair he will not be able to furnish his customers baked beans to-morrow.

Catharine Kinsel, aged 48, while temporarily insane, committed suicide last Wednesday at Mt. Tabor, by cutting her throat with a razor.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Mrs. Bryce. Any of our lady readers wanting fashionably made dresses will find the latest patterns at Mrs. Bryce's.

The editor of the Philadelphia Record is building 800 houses in that city; the houses average in cost $5200 each. The Record sells for twelve cents a week.

In Odd Fellows hall last year there were 1228 visits made daily to the sick members in the United States, $5,157 were paid out every day for purposes of relief, and fourteen brethren were buried decently and in order, by kindly hands, every twenty-four hours.

Joe Grismer, Miss Phoebe Davies, and a first-class company from the Baldwin theater San Francisco, open at Occidental hall next Monday evening, the 5th inst., in the popular play of "Chiapa." Reserved seats for sale at the New York Novelty Store.

The secretary of state has received from the Geographical Society of France a very handsome gold medal, intended as a testimonial to Lieut. F. A. Schwatka, in recognition of his services in a successful expedition to King William's land in 1879 and 1880.

The Oregonian says that the Columbia salmon packers import fishing boats from San Francisco every season. It omits to mention that these imported boats were carried from Astoria to San Francisco at the close of the previous season for their owners' use in fishing on the Sacramento.

A gentleman recently returned from the Gray's harbor country says one has no idea how that country is filling up. The proposed withdrawal of the Miles is not relished by the people of Montesano and elsewhere who are at a loss for transportation facilities. Here is an opening for enterprising Astorians.

A messenger report from the fire at Quinn's cannery last Thursday afternoon is to the effect that steam had been up during the day for the purpose of sawing wood, and it is supposed in that way the fire originated. At sundown last evening the ruins were still smoking. The building is reported to have been fully insured.

Few benevolent organizations can show a more substantial record than that of the Knights of Pythias. The progress of the order in Oregon and Washington Territory is typical of its success elsewhere. Last year there were 11 lodges; this year there are 24, with a membership of 1,026. During the year ending June 30th, 1883, $2,665 had been expended in relief; of this sum $263 was expended by Astor Lodge No. 6, of this city.

November 13th is the anniversary of the establishment of the Grand Lodge of A. O. U. W. in 1877, and is a date of which this society may well feel proud. In the brief space of six years it has grown in California from ten small lodges and 385 members to 226 lodges with 15,800 members, paying out over a quarter of a million dollars annually in that jurisdiction to the heirs of the deceased brethren, thus practically aiding and caring for the widow and orphan.

At the time the Queen of the Pacific went ashore on Clatsop Spit the soldiers at the fort rendered valuable assistance. Among them was Rudolph Pfeiffer, who lost the end joints of two of his right hand fingers. Last week, says the Vancouver Independent, Goodall, Perkins & Co., the owners of the Queen, sent Pfeiffer a check for $100, also a check for $50 to be divided up among the remainder of the soldiers in the crew. This action of the firm above mentioned is creditable, as being a partial reward and as an incentive to further good action in time of danger.

The box sheet for sale of seats for the Grismer troupe is now open at the New York Novelty store.

Furnished or unfurnished front rooms at Mr. Campbell's, over the Gem saloon.

From Alaska

On the Idaho which left Kinney's dock yesterday morning, came from Alaska 2500 cases of salmon from Chilcat and Cape Fox canning companies, consigned to the Astoria Packing Co. There were 800 additional cases for the Northwestern Trading company and a miscellaneous assortment of salt salmon, and furs, including the skins of the fox, marten, bear, sea otter, and mountain goat. Among minor curiosities, an Alaskan helmet in M. J. Kinney's office is noteworthy. It was brought down on the Idaho and shows marks of conflict. It is made of wood and leather, with a fierce front and in battle is useful to ward off the blows of clubs or knives. These helmets are used by the Chilcat Indians, who are the Sioux Indians of Alaska, warlike and powerful, compelling tribute from other tribes and terrorizing their weaker neighbors. Over the Stick Indians, who live further north toward the Yukon, the Chilcat Indians have such influence that a mere threat will keep the cowardly Sticks from the hunting and fishing grounds for an entire season. The Stick Indians are described as being among the most miserable and degraded of any beings wearing the semblance of humanity.

A Linn County Firm Attached.

PORTLAND, Nov. 2.—Black, Porter & Co., dealers in general merchandise at Halsey, Linn county, have been attached. The liabilities are estimated at eighty thousand dollars, of which $45,000 is due in Portland, $25,000 in San Francisco, and $10,000 in local debts. The firm has been in business over ten years and has always had high commercial standing, their nominal assets amounting to $100,000.

The failure is reported to have been caused by the prevailing stringency of the money market, and want of confidence on the part of San Francisco merchants. The report having reached Portland that the merchants of the bay city intended attaching the firm, the Portland creditors got in ahead of them. It is thought the firm will pay one hundred cents on the dollar.

There has been a marked decrease in the movement of freight northward from San Francisco since the opening of the Northern Pacific, and agencies which formerly did a lucrative business in handling Eastern goods in transit, complain of dull times. While Eastern freight has almost wholly ceased, the local trade with the Columbia river, is reported to be growing less. Steamers which before the completion of the railroad refused freight two days before sailing are now rarely filled.

It seems likely that there will be trouble about the charter of the bark Bonland Hill. She arrived here about 10 o'clock on Wednesday, and that evening the captain reported to Messrs. Taylor, Young & Co., agents for the charterers, that she was ready to receive cargo. It seems that the bark got aground on her way up the river, and it is now claimed by the charterers that she needs a survey and that she is not ready to receive cargo until such survey has been made. It is also claimed that the ship had not discharged enough ballast to be ready to receive cargo at the time the captain made his report. The captain and agent claim that the bark is in good condition, and will have a Lloyd's survey made to-day in order to establish that fact. It is probable that the misunderstanding will result in a lawsuit.—Oregonian 2.

The Puget Mill company have on their stocks at Port Ludlow, W. T., the hull of the largest barkentine yet built on the Pacific coast, a vessel of 700,000 feet lumber carrying capacity. She is all planked and the men are now planing her off, and in a month or six weeks she will be ready for sea. The same company are preparing for the construction of a tow-boat at the same place, to follow the barkentine. The steamer will be one of the largest tugboats in the world, and will certainly be one of the most powerful. Her length of keel will be 146 feet, her breadth of beam 26, and her depth of hold 15 feet. She will have compound engines of 24 and 48 inches diameter each, and 38 inches stroke. Her engines will be of the same make and size as those of the steamship Victoria, while her boilers will be steel. It is intended she will be fast, while her power will be greater than that of any two boats now on the Sound combined.

Use Dismitt's Cough Balsam. Richardson & Co., St. Louis, one of the largest wholesale drug firms in the United States, writes: "We have handled Dismitt's Cough Balsam in our trade for the past sixteen years and have bought as much as one hundred gross at a time, and from our knowledge of its merits believe it to have given perfect satisfaction to our customers." At W. E. Dement & Co.'s.

Fragrant Coffee to cheer and comfort, at Frank Fabre's, at his old stand.

Roseco Dixon's new eating house is now open. Everything has been fitted up in first-class style, and his well known reputation as a caterer assures all who like good things to eat, that at his place they can be accommodated.

Imprisoned by a Bear.

Last Tuesday a gentleman who had been engaged in hunting for sometime past met with an adventure so thrilling that he became for some time dazed. He was hunting about Skamokawa, in Wahiakum county, when a deer sprang up and started to run down a canyon. Being a good shot, the hunter soon rolled it over, and proceeded to skin the same. He had progressed but little when a large bear came rushing toward him. Again he leveled his rifle and sent a bullet crashing through the thick hide of Bruin. Instead of killing the bear it only enraged him, and after a moment's delay, more furiously than ever he renewed the mad rush for the hunter. Seeing that his only hope for safety lay in flight, the hunter at once dropped his gun and ran along the hill until a friendly cave was discovered, and in this he took refuge. The bear was unable to follow into the black hole, but obstinately took a position at the entrance, which for two days and nights he maintained. Occasionally the hunter would emerge from his hiding place and look over, expecting the animal had taken his departure, but each time he returned disappointed. With the imprisonment came hunger and thirst, and finally the loss of reason. After forty-eight hours of waiting the bear finally left, and the hunter slipped noiselessly from the cave, and rushed as fast as he could to an adjacent logging camp, where he was taken charge of, and with good treatment gained his reason and related his wonderful adventure. Search was then made for the bear, but nothing could be found of him, although the mouth of the cave was trampled hard where he had paced back and forth doing sentinel duty waiting for his victim.

Not this "Highland Light."

ASTORIA, Nov. 2, 1883.

EDITOR ASTORIAN: In your issue of to-day my attention was drawn to a statement made by Joshua B. Webster in the Bulletin, viz: That the ship Highland Light, now at Astoria, is an old friend of his, he having seen her at St. George, loading lumber, twenty-eight years ago.

Mr. Joshua B. Webster, whoever he is, ought to have a chromo presented to him for his truthfulness. The ship Highland Light now at Kinney's dock, Astoria, was built in the year 1874, and was launched sometime in October of the same year, so that she is just nine years old, and Mr. Webster must be mistaken in his assertion.

He is also mistaken about the barkentine rig, and seems to know as much about that subject as he did about the Highland Light.

Yours respectfully, WILLIAM GREGORY, 1st Officer ship Highland Light. Upon reference to the paper in which the article in yesterday's ASTORIAN was originally published, it is ascertained that no mention is made of the Highland Light being at Astoria. The writer probably refers to the old ship Highland Light which was lost twelve or fourteen years ago. Captain Reynolds states that his vessel is of the fourteen-year class, having five years to run from the 15th of this month.

Newspapers.

One of our exchanges, in discussing the value and stability of newspapers, says: A successful newspaper is not like a mushroom which comes up in a night and vanishes in a day; it is rather typified by the solid and enduring oak which grows slowly but surely, taking deep root and spreading its branches no faster than its foundation will warrant. The wrecks of mushroom journalism are numbered by thousands; the successes are comparatively rare, and generally well deserved. Hundreds of newspapers are started by a class of adventurers who have everything to gain and nothing to lose, and not meeting with the success they expect, after a short trial, let their papers die, and go to infect themselves upon another community in a similar manner. Having neither the ability or the perseverance to build up a paper of character or standing, they are forced to go to the wall. Such people imagine that a few fonts of type constitute a newspaper, and those who control such a paper control the universe. The facts are that such communities where they exist. They vary exact for a short time in tricks of begging or blackmailing, but their standing is soon known. A newspaper is simply a business concern, with both private and public functions, and like every other legitimate enterprise, must and will stand on its own merits, no matter what exceptional efforts are made to give it a transient notoriety. A newspaper boom is of all the booms the most deceptive and ephemeral, the money spent in working it up being in most cases thrown away, unless there is substantial worth and a solid foundation for the enterprise boomed, with a legitimate market for its extension. If it is not given to all men to become journalists, the general public is the best possible judge of what it requires and prizes in a newspaper, and from this judgment there is no appeal. The growth of successful news journals has generally kept pace with the progress of their various localities, and has not largely exceeded it, this progress unless in exceptional cases.
