

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1883

The Result.

TUESDAY'S election results in the defeat of Butler and Butlerism in Massachusetts, and the election of a Republican by 10,087 majority; in the triumph of the Democracy in Virginia, and the deserved defeat of "boss" Mahone; in a reversal of the Democratic majority in New York of 193,000 to a figure just large enough to swear by. In New York, as in Massachusetts, the legislature is Republican, insuring a United States senator. In Minnesota the Republican state ticket has 16,000 majority; in New Jersey the Democrats have 5000 majority; in Pennsylvania the Republicans are ahead, and in Maryland the Democratic majority is as usual. Connecticut goes Republican; Mississippi is solidly Democratic. Everyone is satisfied, and even Butler telegraphs his delight at getting such a large vote.

SOME wise man once said "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." The remark continues to be quoted because it cannot be improved. A due regard for municipal safety also suggests a certain amount of vigilance. There is a quiet movement at present to form a little combination that may result to Astoria's great injury, in placing in the mayor's chair a man who would be only a cat's paw for an unprincipled vagabond. During the past two years Astoria has been fortunate in the matter of municipal officers. The placing in power of a man with no interests in the city and whose instinct and education alike lead him to affiliate with those who would suck the blood of the city, would be of lasting injury to this community. It would be one of the cases where the tail would wag the dog, and the dog would steal what he was set to guard. Should the issue come between midnight murder and public weal, the result must be a victory for the right, and for the material interests that center in our prosperous city.

An official account of the operations of the French army in Tonquin has just been issued by the home government and gives a very favorable view of the situation in the east. The position of the French, it is said, has materially improved. They now hold all the strategic points in the Red river delta, and only await reinforcements to complete the pacification of the country. There can be very little doubt that the actual condition of affairs in the east is much graver than the official report would lead one to believe. Very little light is thrown on the matter by the dispatches which are received from the scene of trouble from time to time, but the opinion gains ground that the delay in which the negotiations between the French and the Chinese governments has resulted has gone far to weaken the French position.

REFERRING to the life-saving stations on this coast the New York Maritime Register says: "Here are two thousand miles of sea coast, a large part of it dangerous, with but a handful of stations scattered at great intervals along it. Six new stations are proposed for this coast, but they have not yet been established. That this should be done without further delay is manifest. Commerce and navigation along these shores are increasing rapidly, and it will not be long before six additional stations will be insufficient to insure adequate service on the coast. More stations and efficient service at each station are certainly needed on the Pacific coast—facts which the superintendent of the service and the secretary of the treasury should remember in making out their plans for this season's work."

THE present session of the Washington Territory legislature is not a very brilliant one. The legislators seem at a loss how to spend their time.

THE Rev. Thos. Green of Chicago says the devil is running all the newspapers. This is rough on the religious publications.

THE New York Republican state committee are credited with having spent $1,000,000 in the campaign just closed.

Old and New Immigration.

THE matter of immigration is an important one in our national life. The overflow of Europe, we represent many creeds and nationalities. In the early times those who emigrated crossed the Atlantic in search of civil and religious liberty; each pioneer had a purpose, each pioneer a high resolve; the Puritans to New England, the English Catholics to Maryland, the French Huguenots to South Carolina. These handfuls of earnest men and women made their impress and exercised most potent influence. Their ideas were fervent, their hopes were full of lofty aspirations. In them lived the spirit of the zealot, the martyr, the reformer, and the enthusiast. But increasing wealth and the changes that effect succeeding generations are notably influencing the new immigration. The humanitarian; the seeker after truth; the zealous lover of liberty, that now come to this country are lost in the throng of those who are impelled by motives of thrift and gain, and who come solely to better their condition. This is but natural; its effect attracts attention. A Sacramento paper of recent date says that the only native American merchant in that city was closed out by the sheriff last week. This is illustrative. Socially, politically, religiously, mechanically, industrially, commercially, and intellectually, the United States is in the hands of men who have accepted it as a heritage, and who will transmit it to a succeeding generation that will doubtless view their existing order of things with as much surprise as many of the present day.

An ex-Confederate surgeon relates in the Cleveland Leader that once during the war, while a terrible thunder storm was raging, "Stonewall" Jackson ordered Gen. Mahone to take his men and charge the Union forces. Then, tired out, Jackson lay down under a tree and fell asleep. Soon he was aroused by one of Mahone's aids, who said: "General, I am sent by General Mahone for orders. He says the rain has wet the ammunition of his troops, and wants to know whether he shall return." Replied Jackson: "Ask General Mahone if the same rain which God sends to wet his ammunition will not wet that of the enemy. Tell him to charge them with cold steel."

THE New York Sun cries "fraud," and says those wicked Republicans bought votes. The delicate question arises whose votes were bought. It isn't possible that they were Democratic ones.

VANDERBILT has been giving his ideas about Wall street "bears." He says "it is cheap to be a bear," and they haven't money enough to be anything else."

WITH what earnestness and unquenchable blue bloods of Boston will eat their Thanksgiving dinners, now that Butler is overthrown!

THE CENTURY.

FOR 1884. The programme for the fourteenth year of this magazine, and the third under the new name, is if anything more interesting and popular than ever. With every season THE CENTURY shows a decided gain in circulation. The new volume begins with November, and, when possible, subscriptions should begin with that issue. The following are some of the features of the coming year: "A New Novel by George W. Cable, author of 'Old Creole Days,' etc., entitled 'Dr. Sevier,' a story of New Orleans life, the time being the eve of the late civil war. "Life in the Thirteen Colonies," by EDWARD EGLESTON, separate illustrated papers on subjects connected with the early history of this country. Three Stories by Henry James, of varying lengths, to appear in the Christian League. The New Astronomy, untechnical articles by Prof. S. P. LANGLEY, describing the most interesting of recent discoveries in the sun and stars. A Novellette by H. H. Boyesen, author of 'Gunsler,' etc. A vivid and sparkling story. The New Era in American Architecture, a series of papers descriptive of the best works of American architects in the Public Buildings, City and Country Houses, etc. To be published in illustrated form. A Novellette by Robert Grant, author of 'Confessions of a Frivolous Girl,' etc., entitled 'An Average Man,'—a story of New York. The Broad-winners, one of the most remarkable novels of the day, to be completed in January. 'Christianity and Wealth,' with other essays, by the author of 'The Christian League of Connecticut,' etc., on the application of Christian morals to the present phases of modern life. Casting about the Gulf of St. Lawrence, a series of entertaining articles profusely illustrated. Scenes from the Novellists, HAWTHORNE, GEORGE ELIOT, and CARLE, with authentic drawings. On the Track of Ulysses, the record of a yacht cruise in the Mediterranean, identifying the route of Ulysses on his return from the Trojan war. 'Starfield in England,' extracts from his private journal kept during a trip in Europe in 1867. The Silvered Spectacles," by ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON, author of 'New Arabian Nights.' There will be papers on outdoor England, by JOHN BURROUGHS and others, a beautiful illustrated series on Dante, a number of papers by the eminent French novelist, ALPHONSE DAUDET, articles on art and archaeology, by CHARLES DUDLEY WARREN and others, short stories by the leading writers, essays on timely subjects, etc., etc. Subscription price, $4.00 a year; single numbers sold everywhere, at 35 cents each. All dealers receive subscriptions, or remittances may be made direct to the publishers by postal or express order, registered letter, bank check or draft. SPECIAL OFFERS. To enable subscribers to begin with the first volume under THE CENTURY name, we make the following special offers: New subscribers beginning with November, 1883, may obtain the magazine one year from date, and the twenty-four previous numbers, for $4.00. Regular price for the three years, $12.00. Or, if preferred, a subscription and the twenty-four previous numbers, for $4.00. REGULAR VOLUMES will be furnished for $10.00. Regular price, $12.
