Ngw Compant.—Ever since it was announced that the Gen. Miles was to be withdrawn from the Gray's harbor trade it has been felt unwise to allow the freighting business of that section to pass elsewhere. A project is now on foot to take the machinery out of the Cauby and turn her into a schooner, for at least temporary service, and to also build a steamer specially adopted for that trade. The growing business of that section fully warrants the formation of such an enterprise.

Held to Answer.—The preliminary examination of the brothers John, James and Michael Leahy, charged with the murder of John Leonard, was resumed before Justice Fox yesterday. The three brothers were each sworn and testified in relation to the matter. Argument was then made and at 2 o'clock the examination closed. John and James were held without bail to await the action of the grand jury. Michael was admitted to bail by consent of the district attorney in the sum of $2000, which was furnished, and he was released from constody. The

"Is the Velvet."

On that beautiful afternoon when earth and sea laying smiling in the soft September sunlight, and the silver streak of shining water glistened like a molten mirror in the ambient ray; on that never-to-be-forgotten afternoon, when lured to Astoria by those gorgeous but ill-advised posters that an impecunious real estate agent produced, the wit and wisdom of two continents embodied in the persons of sundry journalists representing divers journals, came on wings of fleetness from after to view Columbia's gateway; on that resplendent afternoon succeeding the day on which Astoria had been gay with garlands and festooned her brow with wreaths, so to speak, in expectation of the sundry fleetness and there is a fleetness from the latest novelties in ladies and childrens hosiery at Prael Bros."

The latest novelties in ladies and childrens hosiery at Prael Bros. can be stately stream to view Astoria as the crown and topmost diadem of their transation of high degree. There's we'd like to see Wm. M. Evarts or Jerry Coldwell beat that!

A pair of elk horns in the window astoria merchant tailor.

A pair of elk horns in the window of an Astoria merchant tailor's establishment attracted the attention of the German baron journalist, and when his letter from Astoria appeared in his widely-circulated journal in far-off Bavaria, it spoke at great length and in fitting terms of the aforesaid elk horns. Since then the lives of the merchant tailors of Astoria have been made days of care by the receipt of letters from various parts of Germany, the usual address on the envelope being "To the tailor who has the elk horns in the velvet, Astoria, Oregon, U. S. A." Rich burghers write concerning the parchase of elk horns in the velvet, Astoria, Oregon, U. Men of deep research want to know what elk horns in the velvet are; artists want to have sent to them sketches of elk horns in the velvet; mighty hunters want to know the feasibility of capturing in their native lairs the wearers of elk horns, in the velvet; men who are possessed with a yearning for foreign travel want to know the facilities for procuring employment in a country where elk horns are produced in the velvet, and fashionable modistes are desirous of ascertaining what new style of structural ornament could be produced by the inauguration of a fashion wherein sirous of ascertaining what new style of structural ornament could be produced by the inauguration of a fashion wherein costly robes for court wear could be enhanced in beauty by the introduction of elk horns in the velvet.

These several and various epistles have grieved the soul of our worthy and long suffering postmaster, but with strict impartiality he has dispensed them with an even hand, and to all who may, might, could, would or should be possible possessors of elk horns in the velvet, if they be likewise in the tailoring business these letters have come greeting.

The Dangers of St. George's Reef Leasener

Some time since the older officers of the United States coast survey were comparing notes concerning the Bearer, the first steam vessel on the Pacific, or, at least, on that part of the Pacific washing the northwest coast of America. To set the coasting of dates at cost they prove the coast of the pacific washing the northwest coast of America. To set the coast of the pacific washing the coasting of dates at cost they prove. the question of dates at rest they nature our obstrete in the way of coasters, as it is quite risky business to attempt to pass by a narrow channel through the reef near the shore. Almost all vessels have to round the reef and stand well out also, as the submerged rocks are treacherous, being at certain conditions of the tide being at certain conditions of the tide just under the water.

The Northwest Seal rock, on which the lighthouse is to be built, is eight miles from the shore and is the termination of the reef. The rock is 54 feet above the water and 150 feet between the extreme points. There is a gradual slope from the top to the water, and at all times of the year the waves come thundering in and sweep the rock so that nothing but a seel can hold on. A foundation for the house has been cut out of the highest part of the rock during the summer part of the rock during the summer months, and the laborers found it a most difficult task, as they and their tools were often washed overboard by the trewere often washed overboard by the tre-mendous breakers. The men slept on a vessel suchored off the rock.
