He went east as far as New York city, and visited old friends in the interior of the state and also in Michigan. The changes of a third of a century were manifest, and he was "glad to get back" to Oregon. He speaks in the most complimentary terms of the way in which the company was treated by the Northern Pacific people. He says that from the time they left Portland every attention was paid the party and that everything that a transportation company could do for the comfort and convenienc of its patrons was cheerfully supplied. of its patrons was cheerfully supplied.

What a Columbia County Man Thinks Concerning the Astoria Ballroad

The following, though not intended for publication, illustrates the feeling in the minds of many regarding the Astoria railroad:

railroad:

I inclose a clip from the Organical stating, among other facts set forth, that the O. &. C. Company proposes to complete its railroad from Forust Grove to Astoria. I ask when do they intend to complete it? Will it be two or three years, or is it to be proposed from time to time till the people of Portland can prevent its being built for all time to come? The people of the Nehnlem valley are very anxious that this road should be built ast they always expected that be built, as they always expected that Astoria would be their market place, and they are willing that the Oregon & Cali-fornia Railroad Company, or any other company should have the benefit of the land grant; the rights of the settlers to be respected; providing they will build from Astoria forty miles of the railroad in 1884, and complete the remainder of the line to Forest Grove before the first day of January, 1886, on or near the line surveyed by the Northern Pacific angin-eers in 1883.

Freight, principally salmon, is being lauled on the new O. R. & N. dock.

What has become of that project in reference to a Thanksgiving dinner?

The Clan Ferguson carries 12,943 barrels flour, worth $63,710 to "the cove of Cork.

Laigi Serra has rebuilt his popular Campi restaurant, and refitted it in the best style. See ad.

Times are reported dull in the interior of the state; a good many men are out of sunployment. Times have been livelier.

Should the Northern Pacific receive those stated by some that the Northern Pacific has already carned those lyads by building the Northern Pacific receive those. Should the Northern Pacine receive those lands and then charge the settler for making his own improvement it would be Alex. Campbell's Gem saloon has an worse then highway robbery.

If the Astoria and Forest Grove railroad could be built as I have herein stated, I think the producers of Western Oregon would be satisfied, but if the road must be delayed six or seven years longer and the needle of Astoria deem insist and the people of Astoria deem it wise to petition the next Congress to declare the land forfeited, they could get the sigma-tures of everyone in the Nehalem valley, and a large portion of the Willamette valley.

When this road is large cut it be operated with profit? I never saw the esti-mates as reported by the experts, of the timber in the Nehalem valley, but suptimber in the Nehalem valley, but sup-pose it to be about eighteen hundred mill-ion feet, at 50,000 feet per acre by sections, seven miles from the railroad. This would be about one-eighth part of the timber. The timber trade would be very large, as there is a demand for it in nearly every part of the globe. But if the road is not built we may as well let the forest fires rage and make room for grass and stock rouges.

Parties up from Camby report that on Monday morning the velocity of the wind at that point was registered 72 miles per hour. The trifling amount of damage done indicates forcibly the safety of our splendid harbor. The river has a great number of vessels in it, and at Astoria $50 would fully pay all the damage consequent on the zephyr.

The from the large cond fields in the Nehalean velley would be nearly as great as the timber. The farm produce would be very small at present. The carrying trade of the Willamette valley needs no comment. The people there seem to be far more disappointed than the people of Nehalean or Assoria. When they saw the report made to you Septemthey saw the repair made to you September 13th, by Mr. Villard and his engineers, estimating the cost of constructing the road at $50,000 per mile and terminal facilities at Astoria $730,000, they thought the line run through the Gales creek canyons, to build bridges from 50 to 90,6 for high and the high estimates. mendous rise in the river blew them from the dock and away they went bumping around carrying devastation among big and little vessels. One of Brown & McCabe's scows was sunk by the Bhotan.

Cabe's scows was sunk by the Bhotan.

Men who have knowledge of the country say there are several other places where the railroad could be built for far

Why does Portland try to prevent this Too Urrenty Uz.—One of the very recent agonies is for a young lady to decorate one of the oyster shells she picked at the farmer's expense. They tell me that it costs twenty-two cents per busies to get their wheat to tide water, and all other produce in proportion; and their merchandise and farm implements must pass through the same toll gates back to them with still higher percentage. This is why the farmers of the Willamette valley are so poor and the business men of Portland so rich. The farmer receives no profit from his farm or labor, and when a partial failure of crops comes he has no money for expenses, and he goes to Port-land and those Scotch loan companies natural gateways of commerce and turn the whole transporting trade to tide water at Astoria.

THE WATER WORKS.—A force of men

If the Astoria and Forest Grove road was completed the farmers could ship their wheat to Astoria for one-half of down West 9th from Wall to Cedar street. The main pipe runs from the reservoir across J. W. Welch's property to West 8th street, thence to Wall, and Court, following Wall to Benton, lending down that street to Chenamus, and thence to Spruce. Eastward it runs from West 8th to West 5th, connecting there with the main which is now laying from the gap above. Some difficulty is experienced in making connection at upper Astoria, owing to the fact that a part of the ground traversed can only be worked at low tide.

Returned.—Among the passengers on Was compacted the farmers contends ship their wheat to Astoria for one-haif of what they now pay, and give a handsome profit to the militoral company for unormage their grain to Astoria, where seargoing vessels could receive their full cargo for any part of the globe. But so long as they are obliged to pay a double transfer at Portland, storage, wharfage, lighterage and towage, they will mise broken and the work of constructing this railroad is commenced. They have already seeded a portion of their land to grass this fall, and if this railroad is not built soon the plains of Western Oregon will be turned into stock ranges. The lighterage and towage, they will raise less grain. They have no more faith in proposals and promises till the earth is broken and the work of constructing this railroad is commenced. They have already seeded a portion of their land to grass this fall, and if this railroad is not built soon the plains of Western Oregon will be turned into stock ranges. The people can drive cattle around the toil gates of Portland with far more profit and less labor than raising wheat to give 20 under a mortgage that cannot be re-deemed can be returned to the Scotch Loan company for a sheep ranch.

What I have written are facts and reliable reports, together with my views of the whole matter, and if it is worth anything, or any part of it, I shall feel ner, thankful if you have a word of encour-agement concerning this matter.
