As a counterpart of the recent story in the "Drawer" of Harper's Magazine, of the man who always threw the dice with the aces up, there is an anecdote of a St. Louis "roper" who got hold of a "sucker" and ran him into a faro bank, which, by extraordinary luck, he cleaned out and closed up. They took the money from him and kieked him out. A few weeks after another "roper" brought in the same fellow, and once more he broke the bank. Then they tied him in a suck and threw him into the river. In about a year he came in again, and, after breaking the bank, they recognized him once more as the old "sucker," when the dealer said: "Ain't you the same sucker we sewed "Ain't you the same sucker we sewed". they recognized him once more as the old "sucker," when the dealer said: "Ain't you the same sucker we sewed in a bag and dumped into the river a year ago?" "I am the man," said he "Well, we will not make any raistake this time," replied the dealer; "we will kill you right here to make sure of it. But we will give you just one chance for your life." A barrel of white beans was procured from a neighboring grocery. One solitary neighboring grocery. One solitary black bean was put into the barrel, and the whole shaken up sufficiently to render it a million to one that the to render it a million to one that the black one could not be found without pouring out the contents of the bar rel, and picking the beans all over, one by one. The doomed man was then told that he must ram his arm into the barrel, and pull out that black bean the first trial, or be killed black bean the first trial, or be killed then and there. He shoved his hand deep into the beans, and immediate. then and there. He shoved his hand deep into the beans, and immediate-ly drew forth the black bean.

How-ever, he has worked right along, some-times when he felt mable to drive his pencil. The cold and overwork and matters of busines in Boston induced him last week to take a couple of days from editorial tasks, the first vacation for over two years. He went to the Hub, caught more cold, and, coming home, was obliged to succumb to the inevitable and, instead of getting out the Independent, go to bed and indulge in the gay and festive mustard plasters, paregoric, soaked feet and the other charming accompanies. iments of a fit of sickness. ### SLIGHT ODDS. A Little Story with a Large Moral One Man who Knew his Own Business.

"No. my doar," said the venerable keepe of a country store to a timid little girl whose head scarcely came up to the level of the counter. "No, my dear, we haven't any red flannel, but we have some first rate New Orleans molasses." Softly hinting that she didn't think that would answer the purpose quite as well, the child went her way in search of the article she wanted. "Have you BENSON'S CAPCINE PLAS-TERS?" asked a gentleman of a certain druggist whose name could be given were it desired. "I am troubled just new with a touch of my old friend, the lumbago, and the Benson's Plaster seems to go to the spot almost as soon as it touches the skin." "Not at present." replied the druggist, genially " but, we have lots of plusters just as good. There is Allcock's, the Capsicum and others-won't one of them do as well?" "My dear sir," retorted the gentleman with a slight show of temper, "I say nothing against those articles, but I am a business man, and always ask for precisely what I want, and for pothing else. I may enlighten you, however, when I say that sometime ago, for another disease, of which the Capeine has since cured me, I tried all those you mention, with no appreciable benefit. They are ineffi cient, every one of them, the meanest act of the proprietors of some of them being this that they make plasters with similar sound ing names to decrive the unwary into believing they are the same thing. Experience taught me the difference. I'll go to the next man in your line. Good day."

Bo on your guard against imitations. The genuine has the word CAPCINE out cleanly in the middle of the plaster. All others are impositions.
