GRACE CHURCH SCHOOL.

The school room of Grace Church Parish school was the scene of a pleasant entertainment yesterday afternoon, furnished by the pupils of the school, and witnessed by a large number of visitors. The exercises were a portion of the regular school work—recitations, calisthenics, music, etc., and singing of Christmas carols; a noticeable feature was the recitation in concert of some good old maxims whose application in everyday life are of practical benefit. This portion of the entertainment closed with the apt quotation from Longfellow:
