Around the City.

A Merry Christmas to all.
 The Ullrich has arrived on the 10th.
 One hundred and forty new lock boxes have been put in the postoffice.
 A. Munson won the $30 baby carriage that J. Strauss raffled off last evening.
 Portland complains of the mire, and sees something in the rain to add mire.
 A. Corro's farm on the Klaskanine, embracing 157 acres of improved land, is for sale.
 The new O. H. & N. president is a Bostonian, and bears his name and his hat in the middle.
 There will be divine service this morning at the Congregational, Grace, and St. Mary's church.
 J. C. Ross, freight clerk at the O. R. & N. dock has resigned his position, his resignation to take effect Jan. 1st.
 The Christmas number of the West Shore is splendidly illustrated, and replete with interesting matter concerning the northwest.
 Villard gives a big ball at his New York residence to-night. All the Oregon Transcontinental stockholders have received invitations.
 The Germania Fire Insurance company has deposited $50,000 with the state treasurer for the privilege of doing business in the state of Oregon.
 Next Thursday and Friday evenings C. H. and Orilla Read will give an interesting entertainment at Liberty hall, and in aid of the Y. M. C. A. See adv.
 The Tillie E. Starbuck, which sailed from Clatsop last night and is so long for repairs in the Falkland Islands, was spoken on Nov. 7th on the Pacific side of Cape Horn.
 Several hundred thousand cranberries have been received at the O. R. & N. dock from Yarmouth, Maine, by Robert Chabot's cranberry farm in Pacific county.
 At the election of officers of Ocean Encampment No. 13, the following gentlemen were elected: G. P. C. W. Holt; P. W. W. B. W. J. Tuttle; J. W. Allen Fox; S. C. W. Stone; Trans. J. W. Case.
 At the regular annual meeting of the Pacific Union Packing Co., held at the company's office, last Saturday, G. G. Smith, L. D. Nelson, J. A. Carlson, L. Larson, P. J. Anderson, were elected directors for the ensuing year; G. G. Smith president and J. H. Gilstrap secretary.
 Nothing has been heard for so long from the American ship Maude M. Wells that it is feared she has gone down with all on board. She was a Thomaston, Me., built vessel of 1025 tons, Watts, master, and sailed for the coast of Africa from New York consigned to O. H. & N. on the 12th of May, 1883.
 A Seattle widow has received $12,000 from the different orders to which her husband belonged. Dear ladies, in the time of all this you can persist in talking at a high rate of speed to your husbands when important work in the skyfudge degree keeps them late at lodge? Give this matter a little serious thought.
 In the justice court yesterday appeared Chas. Stafford charged with a willful and unlawful assault upon one Henry Johnson whereby the said Johnson was injured, and contrary to the peace and dignity of the commonwealth. Defendant entered a plea of not guilty. The testimony indicating that Johnson was the original aggressor, the judge discharged the defendant and assessed the costs on the prosecuting witness.
 About 7 o'clock last evening the shrill note of a police whistle at Mr. C. Boelling's residence attracted the attention of Officer Beasley, who rushed up to find that the old gentleman had swooned and it was feared was dying. Messengers were dispatched for a physician, and for the younger members of the family who were at the Grace Church Christmas tree to the relief of all it was found that it was simply a fainting fit, and that there was no material danger. Later in the evening Mr. Boelling had quite recovered.

Stabling Affair.

At a few minutes before 1 o'clock this morning the citizens in the neighborhood of Main and Chenauns streets were startled by the sharp and clear reports of four shots fired in rapid succession. An Astorian reporter immediately started to the scene of war to ascertain the cause of such an unusual occurrence in this generally quiet neighborhood. Upon reaching the spot his sharp eyes detected the athletic form of Officer Beasley with a yet smoking revolver in his hand firing chase down Squemoqua in the direction of Benton street in hot pursuit of a prisoner who had broken from his grasp, and at whom he had fired the above-noted shots. The prisoner fell while attempting to turn the corner of the last-named street and was gathered in by the officer. The cause leading to the arrest as near as can be ascertained is as follows: A party had been cruising during the evening around the corner of Main and Concomly streets and toward 12 o'clock had stroled into the saloon in the Vincent building. The party becoming noisy and it approaching the door to close, the bartender ordered them out. They then hung around the door and espying an alley which separates the lower story of the building, bolted in and rushing against a door at the farther end broke it in. This action aroused the sleeping inmates, consisting of two men, in a room into which the door opened. One of the men jumped from his bed and inquired what was wanted, whereupon one of the marauders drew a knife and plunged it to the handle in his questioner's hip, and this he twice repeated, the last stab being given in the chest at the lower end of the sternum. By this time the party had become so noisy as to attract the attention of Officers Beasley and Stesbb, who arrived upon the scene just in time to arrest what they supposed to be three of the principals and safely lodged in jail. The man who received the stab named John Brinkman, and in addition to those given him last night has an ugly-looking one across his throat, giving him on Saturday night. The wounds are ugly and painful, but not considered dangerous.

HEAVY WEATHER.

Whom day broke yesterday morning, from over the hill came a blast from the southwest that shook buildings, played havoc with signs and gave pedestrians a lively tussle to hold their feet. With the breeze came slanting lines of heavy rain, and not until 2 in the afternoon did the storm cease. Beyond a few minor mishaps to gates, trees, etc., no damage is reported, the burned shell of the building that was such an object of lively interest one hot afternoon last July, going down in utter ruin. At the Cape the wind blew great guns; the booming of the cannon at noon sent a report of marine disaster, but on investigation it was found that the unusual firing was a salute in accordance with the proclamation published in The Astorian of Sunday. Along the water front everything that usually turns a wheel, was moved secretly, and everyone preferred the inside.

HANGED HIMSELF LAST OCTOBER.

The Mysterious Death of Anton Kleps.
 About the 15th of last September a cabinet maker named Anton Kleps, aged 35 years, came from Portland, and procured work at Chas. Heilhorn's furniture establishment. After a short time he quit and afterward went to work for Ed. Curtis. From his actions and language it was supposed that he was tired of life, and when he disappeared, about the 1st of October, it was generally thought he had made away with himself.
 Yesterday morning as Peter Patterson was looking for some Christmas trees, just beyond the cut on the southern extension of Main street and on the other side of the ridge, he found the body of a man who had evidently been hanging where found for a considerable time. From a small limb of a tree, about six feet from the ground, the body swung suspended by a small loop of hanging rope, which was caught up by a knot under the left ear of the defunct. The bones of the neck had broken, and the body had drawn down. The feet resting on the ground, thus presenting a most horrible appearance. The features were unrecognizable, the clothes were partially gone and the dried flesh hung in strips from various portions of the body. Patterson immediately notified Coroner Franklin, who held an inquest on the body where found. What served to identify the deceased most strikingly was a peculiarly constructed key which was found in his pocket, and which unlocked a chest of tools that he had left at Ed. Curtis's last September; the lock and key both being of unique construction. No doubt, it remains that it was the body of the unfortunate Kleps, who, in a fit of despondency deliberately sought out that lonely spot, some one during the first week of last October, and there hanged himself. The remains will be given decent interment to-day.

THE SUNDAY DRUGGISTS.

The Sunday Druggists express doubts regarding Mr. Paul Schulze's reported losses in Transcontinental stocks, but it is his brokers, like J. N. Dolph, some time ago. Further than this, Mr. C. H. Prescott, manager of the O. R. & N. Co., lost very heavily by investing in "Villard" so late as, in fact, that he was visited with nervous prostration, and has gone east for the benefit of his health, which we hope he may recover and likewise his lost money. Prescott is a gentleman who has many warm friends in Portland, and not one of them but what will regret to hear of his reverses. Mr. Dolph, the partner and friend of Mr. Prescott, is also known to have speculated disastrously in Transcontinental. It is currently reported on the street here that Villard closed up about $100,000, and that his friends were the principal contributors—no one being in the secret except Carl Schurz, the editor of his paper, who has just returned from journalism with $100,000, made on the deal. The resignation of Villard from all the corporations except the Northern Pacific, is said to have been brought about by influential men who made it plain to him that there was no confidence in his management—a fact that was made palpable in a most unimprobable way by the stocks making a jump skyward the moment the street closed. That Villard is not ruling as the great "I am," even in the Northern Pacific, as well as these other corporations, there is a well-founded belief, and a small story is pointed to the fact that Otis Sprague, who was of that element who lost power on account of friendship for Billings and Wright, will be promoted to the superintendent of the Northern Pacific, under Manager J. M. Buckley. Personally, Mr. Villard is a financier of unshaken growth. He has never handled railroad stocks before, and it is not surprising that such old experts, in such matters, as Billings, should look with distrust upon his management. Men who have thousands of dollars invested in the shares of a man to manage their money. What experience has Henry Villard ever had in such things? But yesterday he was a man who couldn't pay his board bill, and to-day he poses as a great railroad manager and manipulator of millions! The feeling prevails here that he will lose the presidency of the Northern Pacific railroad, and in proof of it, property has depreciated in Albion, and is booming at Tacoma. With the prospect of the control of the Northern Pacific being in the hands of such men as Billings and Wright, it is not surprising that in holding its town lots at stiff figures, it is a singular thing that Mr. Villard should cling to the Northern Pacific Railroad in preference to the Transcontinental, which he has represented as owning a controlling amount of stock in the O. R. & N. Co., the N. P., and other Villard corporations; and on a telegram to Senator Doolittle of this report, Portland capitalists were induced to buy the stock. If the Transcontinental company rules all the others, why did Villard resign? It is because the Transcontinental does nothing of the kind, and its stockholders were "thrown down," will never come to part with their shares. The people, however, have grown rich at it, has been found out, and will have to go, even if he did owe $54,000,000 worth of stock at the last election.—Sunday Welcome.

THE SIZE OF IT.

It is fervently to be hoped that the board of trade will do something to check the exportation of "steel-head" salmon eastward in refrigerator cars at this season, when no Oregonian thinks of eating such fish and even the Indians do not hanker after them to any alarming extent. The Chinook salmon, the finest of all his tribe, is taken from April to August and then is out of season by law; and it would be a pity to jeopardize the sale of this standard fish in future by allowing these worthless "steel-heads" and "dog salmon" to be exported as representative specimens of our fish products. The refrigerator cars are a great convenience and I hope to see them become a profitable investment for the "steel-head" which has been put them on the road. But I would rather see the refrigerator cars taken off the road altogether than to see the poorest fish we have in Oregon, salmon and trout, the representative product of the Oregon rivers. If the board of trade do not take notice of this procedure at their next meeting, I hope it will be done by private citizens. Write to their friends and correspondents in the Atlantic cities. This thing is now an experiment and its future success depends wholly upon getting a good send out of Oregon salmon and trout of exportation and will do us credit. But if these "steel-heads" are sent, the dealers in St. Louis and Chicago will say we have tried your Oregon salmon and they are inferior to the California salmon we have been getting by the Central Pacific for the past twelve years.
 Some people will say that the board of trade have no right to interfere in this matter—that it is none of their business. My answer is that the Portland board of trade has the right to interfere in this or any other matter in which the products of the county of Clatsop, or of Putnam, are now or may hereafter be concerned. Suppose when the wheat trade was first opened with the United Kingdom in 1868, that some person had brought up and opened all the wheat and warehouse sweepings he could find and shipped the dirty rubbish to Liverpool as "Oregon wheat," would not the board of trade have been right in taking hold of the matter and exposing the fraud? Would it not have been their bounden duty? And would it have been any worse fraud to have shipped a vessel's load of wheat and some representative Oregon wheat than it is now to ship these "steel-heads" and "haddoes" to New York as specimens of Oregon salmon? Had the first four or five shipments to the United Kingdom consisted of anything but first-class wheat, and baker's flour, the Willamette river would not be filled with foreign tonnage, nor would wheat lands in Umatilla county be worth $80 to $100 per acre. Therefore, I hope the board of trade will take some decisive measures in the premises, even if it result in the withdrawal of the refrigerator from the Northern Pacific line. We have lived forty years without them here, and can, if necessary, live forty years longer.—Tom Merry in Sunday Oregonian.

WHAT SHALL I GIVE MY HUSBAND?

What shall I give to my wife?
 Are the questions that puzzle the people And worry their peaceful life?
 Give to your husband a deer-club,
 Give to your wife a goose;
 And put some crane on the door-knob
 When the bills for both come down.

PORTLAND AND THE VILLARD STOCKS.

The losses by the depreciation in Villard stocks have been a great set back to this city; fully $6,000,000 being taken away that would otherwise have been invested here in building and other enterprises. The number of rich men (thank goodness the poor couldn't afford to buy such stocks) who have been "canceled" by the bear movement in Wall street is much larger than the public generally is aware of. A prominent banker who has facilities of knowing, says that there were very few men in Portland who had ready cash but went into Transcontinental and suffered for it, and that nearly every day he hears of some new unfortunate, who prefaces his demand for a loan with the announcement of having "quit" in Wall street. According to a New York paper headed "The Villard Villain," he will lose little or nothing on Villard securities, and confidence is entirely destroyed, not only in the stocks, but the officials who make the game—and play with head-dice.

A CHAPTER OF CHRISTMAS FEARS.

"There's a song in the air, there's a star in the sky,
 There's a mother's deep prayer and a baby's low cry;
 And the stars rain his fire while the beautiful sing,
 And the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King."
 —J. G. Holland.
 "The church bells of innumerable sects are all chiming bells to-day, ringing in sweet accordance throughout many lands and awaking a sweet joy in the heart of our common humanity."
 —Chapin.
 "The night that erst no name had worn,
 To it a happy name is given,
 For in that stable lay, new-born,
 The peaceful Prince of earth and heaven."
 —Alfred Duvallet.
 "Tis the season for kindling the fire of humanity in the hearts of men, and the usual flame of charity in the heart."
 —Washington Irving.
 "The bellies of all Christendoms,
 Now roll along
 The unbroken song
 Of peace on earth, good-will to men."
 —Longfellow.

NOTICE.

"The only time in the long calendar of the year when men and women cease, by one consent, to open their shut-up hearts freely."
 —Dickens.
 "Who taught mankind on that first Christmas day,
 What 'twas to be a man; to give, not take;
 To serve, not rule; to nourish, not devour;
 To help, not crush; if need, to die, not live?"
 —Charles Kingsley.
 "Christmas is a time in which the memory of every reasonable creature, wrong and trouble in the world around us should be active with us."
 —Dickens.
 "Then peeled the bells, more loud and deep,
 'God is not dead; nor doth he sleep;
 The Wrong shall face the Right prevail,
 With peace on earth, good-will to men'"
 —Longfellow.
 "It is good to be children sometimes, and never better than at Christmas, when his mighty Founder was a child Himself."
 —Dickens.
 "With gentle deeds, and kindly thoughts
 And loving words withal,
 Wish the happy Christmas in,
 And hear a brother's call."
 —F. Lawrence.
 "Christmas is the only holiday of the year that brings the whole human family into common communion."
 —Dickens.
 "The poor will many a care forget;
 The debtor think not of his debts,
 But as they each enjoy their cheer,
 Wish it were Christmas all the year."
 —Thomas Miller.
 "I have always thought of Christmas time as a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time."
 —Dickens.
 "This day
 Shall change all grief and quarrel into love."
 —Shakespeare.
 "Sound over all waters, reach out from all lands,
 The chorus of voices, the clapping of hands;
 Sing hymns that were sung by the stars
 And day by day in the hearts of men,
 Sing songs of the angels when Jesus was born."
 —Whittier.
 "This happy day, whose risen sun
 Shall set not through eternity,
 This holy day when Christ, the Lord,
 Took on Him our humanity."
 —Phoebus Carey.
 "Some say, that ever 'gainst that season comes
 Wherein our Savior's birth is celebrated,
 The bird of dawn singeth all night long,
 So hallowed and so gracious is the time."
 —Shakespeare.
 "As fits the holy Christmas birth,
 Be this, good friends, our carol still—
 Be peace on earth, be peace on earth,
 To men of gentle will."
 —Theocrite.
 "Rise, happy morn! rise, holy morn!
 Draw forth the cheerful day from night,
 O, Father, touch the East and light
 The light that shone when Hope was born."
 —Tennyson.
