About 2400 feet of 4 inch pipe is still needed to finish the Astoria Water com-pany's work of laying pipe through the city streets. It was sent for some time ago and is expected here about February 1st.

A. W. Berry, Phil. Johnson and Archie Pease were yesterday summoned as wit-nesses in the salvage case of Henry Ol-sen vs the American bark C. D. Bryant, which comes off at Portland next Tresday.

D. P. Thompson says the report in reference to the appointment of Capt. Luther as superintendent of the Astoria water works is wholly unauthorized. It is probable that when the works are com-pleted J. W. Welch will have charge.

Matters along the docks have been quiet since New Year's, the heavy weather

VILLARD'S VANISHED FORTUNE.

that Took Wings and Flew Away. From New York comes the news that e resignation of Villard was positively esented yesterday to the meeting of the orthern Pacific stockholders. There is growing feeling of sympathy for Vilrd. Many of those who lost heavily by s management still maintain their bef in his management. From several thoritative sources, says the World, anomative sources, says the borne, are enabled to state what Villard's indition is, financially and physically, viewed by those who take the most nerous view of his acts. It is said by enerous view of his acts. It is said by nese that Villard is a poor man; that he fortune he created in so short a time as crumbled to dust; that he does not ven own the house in which he lives, and that the $500,000 he settled on his ife has disappeared also. Villard, they by is an honest man, and has not created fortune out of his friends, and that his reat losses, coupled with the great fall e has had in public estimation, have ompletely shattered him. He is actually used at his position, and is far from his ormer self. Villard, they say, as an er-lanation of his fall, is a visionary man, nd his enthusiasm ran away with his adgment. This is the favorable view of illard, and it is unnecessary to say there llard, and it is unnecessary to say there a darker construction of his character d financial career. Villard himself sintains that he has lost his all. annains that he has lost his all. The Herald says: We print an inter-ew with a friend of Henry Villard con-raing the relation of that gentleman to a Northern Pacific and its kindred cor-rations, and concerning Villard's alth and private fortune, which will be ad with creat interest and we helice with great interest, and, we believe th great synapathy. The fact that the reporter was referred Villard to this gentleman for an au-oritative statement gives the report an r of truthfulness. Following are pasges from the interview: Villard is ruined in his private for

"Villard is ruined in his private for-ime. He has not as much money to his ime to-day as you have. All has gone help the great enterprises he has been the head of. There can be ho question his conscientionsness or integrity, or he has voluntarily sacrificed is private means to support the North-n Pacific. He has nothing left—abso-tely nothing. His stocks, bonds, two sidences, all are involved in the wreck' e has surved nothing. He never was so ch as reported. He was not worth $10,-00,000. Five was nearer the figure."

000,000. Five was nearer the figure." "Did the conversation with Billings take place, as reported?" "Yes. Last Sunday Billings called to see Villard. Billings, you know, had quarreled with Villard, and there was some ill felling between them. When Billings called and found him sick in bed, and learned that Villard had im-poverished himself in his efforts to sup-port the company. Billings expressed en-tire belief in Villard's integrity, and there was a scene of reconciliation bethere was a scene of reconciliation be-tween the two. When the rascals in Wall street made their combined attack on the street, Villard was straining every nerve to preserve the company's credit, and began to sacrifice his own money. To make matters worse he was away from the city, and had to do business by telegraph. A certain banking firm was in difficulty, and would have failed if he had not come to its rescue by raising money on bonds and property belonging to him. So he has gone on, giving his quiet since New Year's, the heavy weather interfering with outside work. The Oakworth went down to baranchorage vesterday, The Oban Bay cleared with 57,-792 bus, wheat for Queenstown, worth $56,993. The Idaho arrived down yesterday afternoon and goes out to-day. The de-layed Oregon arrived in about four P. M., preceded by the Willamette. The Co-Isyn Montay. The Oregon was to sail to-morrow. sense of honor that I have known him, many a time, to put his hand into his own pocket and purchase stock to save them from depreciation. I suppose he has lost $1,000,000 in this way." "Has Villard resigned the presidency?" "His resignation is in the hands of the directors."

An Ilwaco subscriber to THE ASTORIAN writes in approval of our suggestion that Astoria's streets be numbered, etc., but wants to know "how are you going to number them, so as to make it legible?" Sure enough ! How would it do to put a little mirror on each corner and put with ornamental soap work the name of the street upon its polished surface?

In the circuit court yesterday in the case wherein Wm. Beasley said Mrs. Badollet for damages alleged to have been sustained by a defective sidewalk in been sustained by a defective sidewalk in front of defendant's premises, Judge Ben-nett dismissed the case without having it go to the jury, his decision virtually be-ing that individual members of the com-munity are not responsible for that class of damages alleged to have been sus-tained by the plaintiff.

ing turned out. Over $3,000 worth of new and improved machinery is now being put in place; he has lately built a large extension to his mill, put up a dry-ing room, inid in a large stock of mate-rial and guarantees satisfaction in all kinds of woodwork. Particular atten-tion is paid to fine doors and finishing.

SUBMARINE EXPERIENCE.- For some time the tank in which sets the gas holder of the Astoria Gaslight Company, has not given satisfaction. Yesterday George Moon, the foreman at the works, who had previously sent for a diving suit, arrayed himself therein and made a plunge in sixteen feet of water. The ticklish part of the business was to come up just in the right spot, and under the huge meter which holds the gas. The ich was gnecessfully accommissed, the job was successfully accomplished, the leak located and attended to, and among other proficiencies Moon has demonstrat-ed his ability to work with ten feet of water over his head.
