CHANCE FOR INVESTMENT.

No state in the union is in such need of manufactories as Oregon. This has been urged by the press of the state for years and a few enterprising men of means have expressed a willingness to invest in the erection of works which could not fail to prove remunerative to stockholders if properly managed. Portland is a wealthy city considering its proportions, and the chief portions of its wealth is in the hands of a small number of capitalists. They own land and town property which they generally hold at prices which practically precludes the possibility of its sale, and will continue to do so until manufactories are created which will employ labor both skilled and unskilled. These men cannot handle one-fourth of their means and make it remunerative. They are positively "land poor." Nor will their land increase in value until they do something to supply employment for the laboring population flocking into our state. Men from all parts of the union and from Europe come expecting to better their circumstances, and when they arrive find it impossible to procure labor at any price. This is true in this city to-day. It was the policy of Mr. Villard to advertise Oregon and Washington Territory in order to increase business for the various lines of railroad over which he had supervision. The wisdom of so doing was regarded as a great mistake by men more prudent than himself, but the work was done, and the result is upon the people of the state. A laboring, but in the present condition of affairs, a non-producing class are rushing here to meet with disappointment, which will not fail to eventually mitigate against the interests of the commonwealth. Capitalists of Portland have it in their power to change this order of things by simply investing their surplus money judiciously in the erection of manufactories for the creation of various articles now imported from the East and paid for in coin which should be spent at home. It is an easy matter to give advice in such matters as that under consideration, but in this instance the opinion of the most practical and enterprising men in the state is voiced. There are a number of the wealthiest men in the city who would be in better circumstances if they were to divert half the value of the real estate in their possession into a half dozen manufacturing enterprises that could be made profitable investments in a short time. Oregon has no need of an increase in population unless persons who come can find lucrative labor to perform.—Portland Sunday Mercury.

The Indians are the richest landholders in the United States. We have 230,066 of them, exclusive of the Alaska Indians, holding 151,397,768 acres of land. Some of the tribes hold 3,000 acres per Indian. The average is about one square mile to each Indian, while a white man is not allowed to pre-empt more than 160 acres of public land.

One of Albany's citizens has received a letter, stating that five shiploads of railroad iron and 1,000 Chinamen are expected to arrive at any time at Yaquina Bay.

Donnell, the millionaire California cattle dealer who died last week, was getting ready to start a newspaper to push him into politics. He was mighty lucky to die when he did.

COULDN'T AFFORD IT.

Made Honest by Business Principles. A Druggist Tells the Square Truth.

"Now, my friend, let's be perfectly frank and candid about this little matter," the druggist said, placing both elbows on his plated show-case and looking his customer fairly in the eye. You have a lame back and want a plaster to put on it. You don't know me, and, judging of human nature as it runs in business, you are afraid I'll humbug you in some way. You may think it an odd statement, but I can't afford to cheat you. Even it did I haven't the means.

"That's curious. (Oh, my back! I'll take a chair I guess.) Don't you keep plasters?"

"Oh, yes, one or two kinds. Once I had shelves full of them—every sort that were ever invented to gull the ignorant and make money for imitators. But I sifted 'em out one by one, and now sell principally. They always give satisfaction, and in the end it pays me to sell them in preference to all others."

"Haven't you Allcock's?

"Yes, but my customers and myself prefer Benson's Capcine—which are quick as electricity, safe as government bonds and sure as the law of gravitation. The doctors order them, and what is more to the point, I have never heard a word of complaint from any one who has used them. You can go elsewhere—if your back will bear you out in the operation—and get another and a cheaper plaster, but—"

"Don't talk to me about the money," broke in the comfort-seeking stranger, with some heat. "What's ten or fifteen cents to getting rid of this confounded—oh, Lordy!—this vain and laneness? Let me have one of Benson's Capcine. That's the real article, is it? with the word CAPCINE cut in the body of the plaster.

"You'll be around in a week, straight and strong," added the diplomatic druggist, throwing the money in his cash drawer.
