"Come here, my dear boy," said a friend from Soap creek to the writer, I have lived in Oregon a great many years, and I know something about Webfeet, as well as the natives, and I want to give you my opinion about those skulls and bones which Dr. Hill has at his office. It is all very well to tell of their belonging to a race of giants of white faces with fine hair and toothaches, but, my so 1, I know better. Listen to a strange tale. Between a hundred and fifty and two hundred years ago, a junk of Chinese was ship-wrecked off Yaquina bay, but all reached land in salety, only to find themselves in the hands only to find themselves in the hands of a fierce and savage race of Indians whose slaves they were made. At that time pigtails were not worn by the Celestials. These slaves of rat eaters died as other people die, and their bones, man and wife together, were always buiried in mounds. These bones found by Dr. Hill are simply the bones of some of these Celestials. That accounts for the fine black hair the decayed teeth, etc. They were the decayed teeth, etc. They were buried by the Indians and put in the mounds as a symbol of their servitude. The copper beads were worn by them at the command of the In dians. These are true facts, and this secounts for the natural animosity between the Chinese and the Indians at the present day, many of whom are equainted with these traditions. I give you these ideas in order that your readers may have the version of a western Webfoot.—Albany Demo-

Norwegian Farming.

Farming in the Norwegian valleys presents some unique aspects. Grain, potatoes and turnips grow in little patches. Meadow hay is carefully cut and cured on rods or ropes sup-ported on tall poles. Every corner on which grass will grow is utilized for hay, even the little nooks among the crags, from which it is lowered to the valleys by means of ropes or wires, that nothing may be lost. The Scandinavian cows are of a peculiar na-tional breed, and not only they, but goats, and even ewes, contribute to the cheese vats. Horses are seldom larger than mere ponies. These little animals do all the farm work, for in Norway oxen are employed for tillage. Norway is sparsely settled. Emigration is taking away its more ambitious sons and daughters. But its people are intensely patriotic, and their land contains much to delight

Mr. Beecher's Substitute for Hell. "Mr. Beecher, when the dogma of a hell is knocked in the head, how are you to appeal to men in such a way as to lift them out of their boots?". "Preach retribution," answered the great thinker, in a very emphatic manner. MESSTS. SEARURY & JOHNSON, Gentlemen; -Like most of my profession, am cautious about pinning my fai h to any ew medicine or curative agent. But your BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER. has broken through the barriers and won its way to my good opinion. My attention was first called to it some eight months ago by a patient of mine Although I was well acquainted with the superior excellence of your other plaster and antisoptic dressing, made especially for the profession, the Benson s was comparatively new to me. I had heard, owever, of its merits as a remedy, in cases of Lame Back, Local Rheumatism, Neural-gia. Congestion of the Bronchial Tubes and Lungs. Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver and the like affections, and have since began to experi-ment with it personally. I find BENSON'S CAPCINE PLASTER an exceptionally clean ly plaster to use, and rapid in its action-Many tests of its qualities, made in my own family and among my patients have convinced me that there is no single article so valu able for popular use, nor so helpful in the diseases I have named. Should you desire to do so, you may use m name to that effect.
