Street Superintendent's Notice. THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC IS called to the following extract from Or-dinance No 204:

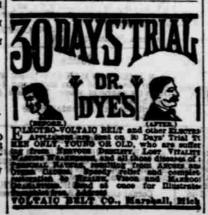

A case to the following extract from Ordinance No 204:

Sac. 4.—No person shall place or cause to be placed on any crosswalk, sidewalk or street, any article or thing whatsoever which shall obstruct such street or sidewalk, for a 1 ager period than four hours, except as provided in section 3 of this ordinance: provided, that this section shall not apply to merchandise while in the actual course of receipt or delivery, and further provided that wood for fuel may be allowed to be piled and remain in the street in such manner as to cause the least obstruction to public travel not to exceed fortycight hours for each cord thereof, and not to exceed tor days in the aggregate, without a permit from the Superintendent of Streets, approved by the committee on streets and public ways, which said permit shall specify the length of time.

SEC. 5.—No person shall throw into or deposit upon any public street, highway or grounds, or upon any private premises, or anywhere, except such places as may be designated by the Super-intendent of Streets, any glass, metal. broken ware, dirt, rubbish, garbage, or fith, and no person shall carry upon any sidewalk, exposed so as to be offen sive to pedestrians, any rubbish, garbage or fith.

THOS LOGAN

THOS. LOGAN. Street Supt. Astoria, Feb. 6, 1884.

A Burglar's Chat.

"Never kill a man save in self-deherer kill a man save in sell-de-fense; get caught rather than drop a man," was the prudent motio of a celebrated cracksman. "It is only the tyro or the bungler who flourishes the revolver and quickly appeals to the bludgeon."

"What is the prime quality in your

"Nerve-nothing else."
"What is the best method?" "Boldness. Many a job have I done right before the eyes of peo-ple; done it just as though it was the regular thing, and I was just where I ought to be. I have had my pal taking things out of a house when pai taking things out of a house when a couple of cops were walking by, and I stood with a pencil in my hand keeping tally of the things. They thought it was all right, as I looked right at them. I tell you a fellow wants to keep perfectly cool, and know what he is doing, and what he is going to do every time." is going to do, every time."

"The right kind of men are some how lacking. They are either too timid or too rough. It wants a fine man, a real Damascus blade, to do a man, a real Damascus blade, to do a neat job. There are plenty of opportunities if there were only the men to fill them. But I was speaking of chances. The people are asleep; you are awake. They are timid; you are perfectly cool. You know just what to do. You know just what they'll do if they wake up. They don't how many are in the house, nor where you are. Most people are cowards in the night, with a bugbear and the reality of a burglar in the house—and they have spent all the years of and they have spent all the years their lives in working up a dreadful fellow in their imaginations—in such a plight, and a man's house is like foreign land to him, and he is a per-fect stranger to the situation in his own home.—Boston Herald.

Worry is the great American dis-ease. Our people have seen rail splitters and canal boys become presidents. Here nothing is to great for anyone's aspiration. Boys in cabins look out of dingy windows and see palaces. Push, pluck, and stick-to-it-iveness will reach across some few years, and hand them the keys to the palace. Before a youth is out of his short clothes he wants an ermine. He rushes into business life with the flerceness of Job's war horse. He assumes risks, he speculates on almost futile chances. There is no peace, no rest, no content. They all go storming on. Competition is fierce; the phantoms of failure are ever plucking at their heels. On their onward course to the beckoning god on Fame's misty, toil worn mount they stumble across and around wrecks, failures.
