The variance in the vote of this state during the past few years, and especially the very close contest in the presidential election of 1880, gives us much hope that, notwithstanding our present mimority, with harmony in our ranks, and a well-directed exertion of our strength, we shall carry off the palm of victory. But to insure this end it is imperative that all Democrats should contribute their undi-vided support and hearty co-operation, not only in the actual canvass but in its very initiation—the county primaries. The Death of a Great Singer.

Madame Anna Bishop died in New York city on the 19th ult. Mme Bish-op made her debut in Her Majesty's Theatre, London, in 1833, she being twenty five years old at the time. She sang Rossini's music. In front of her was a discriminating audience.

her was a discriminating audience. On the stage were Mario, Lablache, Rubina, Garcia, Grisi, Persiani, Tam-burini and Thalberg. Both before and behind the footlights she was feted and caressed for her instantane-ous victory. She had ecceived the ous victory. She had received the careful training of years to bring her to that point. Her father, Riviere, understood his treasure and spared nothing in order to fit her for her proper sphere. She was thoroughly versed in Handel, Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven before that eventful night. Her husband, Sir Henry Bishop, was professor of music in the university of Oxford, She was in a congenial circle.

The successful debutante made a triumphal first artistic tour on the continent. Jenny Lind was then in power. Mme. Bishop did not shun Sweden on that account. She went to Stockholm and captured Jenny Lind's stronghold. She sang all over Europe – a Danish ballad at Copen-hagen, the Swedish national airs at Stockholm, in Russian before the Czar's court, in German at Vienna and Berlin, in Italian at Florence, in French at Paria, and in her own native tongue in London. Then Mme. Bishop looked across the sea in 1874. A grand remarkion the sea in 1874. A grand reception awaited her. She went to Mexico and California, and still west to Ausand California, and still west to Aus-trains; thence to South America, singing in the small republics, closing at Rio Janeiro, in big Brazil. She re-turned to England and sang Rossini's "Stabat Mater" to 38,000 people in the Crystal Palace. Again she made an American tour extending over four years. At its end she went to the Sandwich Islands, and from there she sailed for Hong Kong, but was shin. sailed for Hong Kong, but was ahip-wrecked on a barren island. From this island in a boat twenty two feet long Mms. Bishop, with twenty-one other persons, set out for one of the Mariana Islands, 1,400 miles away. She left two pictures of this trip-one a painting of the crowded boat in a heavy swell, the other the arrival on the island of destination and the welcome by the inhabitants. Mme. Bishop lost all her property on that occasion

The great singer had a love for endless travel; she was moving all her life and was probably the greatest woman traveler known. She made an Asiatic tour, ending it in Australia in 1868; then back to England. In May, 1875, she sang in Steinway Hall, in New York, previous to a farewell tour around the world, in which she visit-ed South Africa. In all her travels she must have sung to millions of people. No language was too difficult for her to master. In Tartary she sang the national airs of the country. She sang to every audience in its own tongue. Her voice was a rare one. In undeviating purity of intonation and Infailing perfection of execution, Mme. Bishop has not been surpassed. Up to the last it preserved in a great degree its quality. She bore her serenty years with ease and was cheerful to the end.
