ADVERTISEMENTS.

AROUND THE CITY.

Any one robbed last night?

The Highland Light came down yesterday to finish.

The few E. Germans that are out report an average run so far.

The Chas. Cotsworth which has been repairing at Portland is about finished.

The Democratic county convention will be held in the court-house in this city tomorrow afternoon.

The spring opening of new bonnets and millinery at Mrs. A. B. Jewett's takes place to-day and to-morrow.

The Columbia brought a large lot of freight and passengers yesterday.

The WEEKLY ASTORIAN, in strapped wrappers, ready for mailing, published this morning; full of news and house happenings, price ten cents.

The county court was in session yesterday, and the following judges of election will be appointed and voting places designated for the coming contest in June.

Clark Loughrey arrested a runaway youth on the Columbia yesterday morning.

County Commissioners.

At the County Commissioners session yesterday the following claims were allowed:

- P. H. Fox, $70.18; R. H. Spedden, freight on safe, $39.80; R. H. Spedden, fees in criminal cases, $233.00; M. C. Crosby, heater, etc., for jail, $58.23; Moser & Co., $30.75; E. J. Taylor, $47.20; Moser & Wright, $14; Geo. Flavel, $18; Surprenant & Ferguson, $8; Gleason, $10; Astoria Gas Co., $26.68; C. W. Fulton, $20; A. L. Fulton, $5; E. P. Stevens & Co., $10; Carl Adler, $40.45; W. D. Baker, $10; McIntosh Bros., $48.75; Aug. C. Kinsey, $5; St. Mary's hospital, $698.21; E. E. Franklin, $108; C. L. Parker, $22.25; W. Case, $12.50; L. K. Smith, $12.50; Carnahan & Co., $4; S. Kinsey, $45; W. E. Dement, $3.90; S. K. Stanley, $30; Tim Corcoran, $25; George Gregg, $27.

Another Burglar.

When Joe Finschower went down to open the New York Novelty Store yesterday morning he found the usual order of things reversed, some one having been there before him, and by the back door.

A pane of glass had been cut out of the door in the rear of the store some time during the previous night, the lamp which burns in the rear extinguished and between $100 and $150 worth of watches, chains, rings, charms, etc., stolen.

Some gold chains and local jewelry, as well as the stolen articles, and a pair of glasses, gold pens, etc., were in convenient reach, but the thief or thieves seemed content to fill their pockets with the first thing that came to hand.

This is the fifth attempt of the kind in a few weeks and the first in which any thing of value was lost.

It is believed that the burglar or burglars have all along adopted the same tactics. They appear to be amateurs in the business as they only go after drawers and show cases, making no effort to get into safes or treasure boxes, and contenting themselves with what they can catch up and skip off with; it would appear to be the same gang that have worked the town so far.

The police force seem to be ignorant of what is going on until after it happens, and are probably as much surprised as any one else on learning the news of the morning. This thing is getting monotonous and should be stopped. A splendid way to stop it is to keep a sharp lookout and make "a horrible example" of the first one caught.

ANOTHER RAILROAD PROJECT.

To Build a Railroad from Astoria to Forest Grove.

There is no topic that will arouse the interest of an Astorian quicker than the matter of a railroad to talk of the salmon run, or the road to Clatsop, or fast mail service or a street railway always insures a hearing, but none of these matters elicits the attention concentered to the question of a railroad from the mouth of the Columbia to the fertile valley of the Willamette.

Last winter a gentleman arrived here with all the alleged credentials of an ambassador, and a meeting of the chamber of commerce was held to get an expression of public opinion regarding the amount of financial responsibility our citizens would guarantee to assume.

The response was prompt, and on the whole, the gentlemen who could be expected, but the question of a railroad not being in a satisfactory shape in the minds of the parties making the proposition the matter was placed in abeyance.

Last evening an ASTORIAN reporter interviewed a gentleman who claims to be able, provided all things are satisfactory, to get the requisite amount of capital to build the road, grant or no grant.

The scheme is as yet in its infancy. The ASTORIAN promised to mention no names nor go into details, but, briefly stated, the plan is as follows:

A corporation, composed of English and German stockholders is to be formed with a paid up capital of $1,000,000. This corporation is to issue no bonds, but with the capital of the company build and equip a standard gauge railroad from Astoria to Forest Grove. It is asked of Astoria that it contribute $400,000, or 10 per cent. of the capital stock of the company and donate suitable terminal facilities; this being secured, the company agrees to immediately proceed to build the road and have it finished in two years from the signing of the contract. It is represented that the amount subscribed by Astoria and the gift of the requisite terminal facilities is to be stippled as an expression on the part of this city of its feelings toward the project.

The gentleman who represents the company to be formed claims to have full information concerning the matter in all its details, and wishes to have some assurance of the character above indicated, agreeing as soon as such assurance is given him that he will immediately proceed to negotiations. The only difference between his plan and the one proposed by Mr. Negus last winter appears to be that he is perfectly regardless of any bearing the forfeiture or non forfeiture of the grant may have upon the matter.

Comment upon the matter is deferred until such time as the chamber of commerce or other representative body of citizens shall meet and consider the proposition thus briefly outlined.

Destruction of Fish.

Considerable complaint is being made by fishermen in this vicinity of the destruction of salmon by sea lions.

It is reported that fishing has been continued all night and in the morning no fish has been found in the nets, having been eaten by sea lions. Their heads and tails were found among this all. Such being the case the attention of the Fish Commissioners should be called to this fact and if possible some means adopted to destroy the fish-eating animals. They have been called to destroy a large number of salmon while in the nets by simply taking a mouthful out of each one and then seeking other and new pastures. The fishermen say that if the sea lions are not killed a serious loss will be sustained very few fish in these waters.—Vulgate Chronicle.

Concerning Kissing.

The reason kissing is so pleasant, says an oscillatory expert of scientific tendencies, is because the teeth, jawbones and lips are full of nerves, and when the lips of persons meet an electric current is generated.—Yonkers Gazette.

Yes, and it's so confounded cheap. You don't have to have a dynamo machine or a battery in the house, nor a call box, nor a button to touch to ring up the central office, and there is no patent on the thing, and the world can enjoy the electric current better than the millionaire, and it never gets out of order. If Edison had invented kissing it would cost $100 a year, like the telephone, and the extra kissing would be charged up extra, and if you didn't pay for it they would take out your kissaphone and disconnect you with the central office.—Peck's San.

STATE AND TERRITORIAL NEWS.

The name of the postoffice at Nebelum, Tillamook county, has been changed to Union Park, and the site changed four miles northeast, on route 44, 124.

The journey between Portland and the Cour d'Alene settlement is made by rail to Spokane Falls, thence by stage to Cour d'Alene City, and thence by steamer to within a mile or two of the camp.

It is stated that there are $80,000 worth of fish on hand, but not sold. It is expected that sale will shortly be made and the temporary money famine be relieved. Snohomish has grown steadily, and is a thriving, flourishing town.

Reports from the seal fisheries in the neighborhood of Cape Flattery indicate that the vessels engaged have met with very gratifying success. Up to March 23 the following catches were reported from Neak Bay: Schooner Tanager, 150, Lottie, 250; Vanderbilt, 90; City of Napa, 138; Mist, 95. Total, 693.

The O. R. and N. O. and C. and West-side Railroads have made the following report for December: The Democratic State Convention: Full fare to the Deltas and one-third returning. To obtain in the benefit of the reduction, delegates used to be sent by the Democratic State Convention. This rate will be good from the 16th to the 20th.

The number of convicts in the Oregon State Penitentiary at Salem at present there are two hundred and forty-one individuals, in duration 716 within the prison walls. Hitherto the institution has only a double police force. Reports from the prison show that the convicts are in course of construction, which will supply accommodations for forty-four additional inmates.

Gianni, the Sicilian who was to have been hanged at Vancouver for the murder of a countryman named Bisco, had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life, by Gov. Nesbit. The time for hanging him is not fixed, but the gallows had been erected, but on account of numerous petitions, were dismantled, and the piece of insanity made in behalf of the prisoner, the sentence finally grew to commutation.

Work has been resumed on the Short Line road. J. B. David is the supervisor of it and is working 2500 men. There are five miles this side of the Grand Rapids road and the other side to be finished by the Oregon Improvement company by September, 1884.

D. P. Thompson says that this work will be done on the Short Line road in the miles west of Huntington to be built, and this will also be finished. The road will cost about $700,000.

The Ellensburg Localizer says: The growing wheat looks very promising; the soil is unusually rich in moisture, and the coming harvest all but a certainty of a full one. The old crop remains mostly in the granaries unsold, the price being only 40 cents a bushel, and light demand at that.

Both the senate and house committees on military affairs are of the opinion that no additional legislation is required to aid in the settlement of the claims of the Oregon soldiers who served in the war against China. The secretary of war says that his department possesses ample authority under existing laws to adjust the claims in question, and no further legislation on the subject is, therefore, deemed necessary.

Each individual claim will be examined upon its merits, this department only requiring satisfactory evidence of service, and a receipt and proof of service. The claim of Captain Olney has been already allowed, no claim has been made in behalf of the first lieutenant.

The difficulty is simply one of expediency. The expert evidence which the eight other claimants have presented has not been deemed by the secretary of war sufficient without that of the first lieutenant. It is reasonably established that they were members of the company.

Decision in Admiralty.

The following decision has been rendered in the recent libel suit against the steamer Queen of the Pacific, by Judge R. S. Greene, at Seattle, W. T. Upon the question of the exceptions to the libel: DENIED.

These exceptions appear to me, most of them, to be well taken. It was the duty of the libellants to set forth, with convenient certainty, according to the nature and extent of their information the total salvage service, and their own respective and comparative shares thereon. In this they fail to do, for by their own showing, there were vessels and persons engaged in this service, who are referred to in the libel only in the most indefinite way, and whose contribution to the general result it is consequently impossible for the libel justly to estimate.

One steam tug and her crew, who are libellants, are named in the libel, and the work they did and the risks ran are recited. But there were other tugs and their crews, it would seem, present and assisting. What tug were they? What by name? What in power? How officered and manned, and how did the part they performed compare in hazard, difficulty and efficiency with the performance of the libellants? Perhaps it would be requiring too much of the libellants to require that they should distinguish the apportion among co-salvors the services of those co-salvors, but they ought at least to display in gross the proportion of the salvage service which should be credited to others than themselves.

The Adm. Hovark: 1 Newb., 628. Bon. Adm. $ 331, 401, 402. Denny's Sh. and Adm. $ 313, 417, 418, 419, 420. The libel is objected to in this regard, and the objection must be sustained: Article 61 alleges that the tug Canby, a small boat, whereof some of libellants were crew, were separating her from the contract by taking time to render salvage service. This allegation is excepted to as impertinent. But I think it is material as revealing a phase of the situation, the entirety of which must be taken into account in finding the merit of her conduct. Article 61, which says that a certain amount of mail matter, passenger's baggage, and treasure, were removed from the saved vessel by the efforts of some of the libellants is also objected to. It must be remembered that the steamship was named. This article is good, if only to show that she was lightened by the help of libellants; but it is also good to illustrate the merit of libellants' services. (The Emperor, 2, Ware 68.)

As to Article 7th, it has solely reference to what was done with the cargo after the ship was saved. It shows among other things, that the cargo had been delivered to the hands of the respective consignees at Portland, Oregon, and that none of it is now within this court's jurisdiction, or subject to its process. All this is irrelevant for the libel, surely in regard, and the article contradicts any idea of jurisdiction over the cargo under it. It would have been impossible to have joined a cause in rem against the ship, with a cause in personam against the consignees of cargo. (Rule 19.) The libel, 101 U. S., 384. This article, therefore, should be stricken from the libel.

I do not think that the libel parties to make the other co-salvors parties is well taken. Libellants sue "for themselves and all others entitled," and against all persons claiming for their interests" in the ship. (The Somocho, 8 Wall, 407; Benedict's Adm.; sec. 381.)

The several exceptions will be sustained or overruled to accord with the view I have expressed.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

New York bankers are giving the Arthur boom the prestige of their support. One-half of Mandalay, the capital of Burmah, a city of 90,000 people, has been burned.

Ex-Villard stockholders are trying to out-endue the Oregon Transcontinental.

Morrison's tariff bill comes up for congressional consideration next Tuesday. It is thought probable that it will be beaten.

The Paris Le Monde says that five French missionaries and thirty ecclesiastics have been massacred at Thanhon, Tonquin.

The Pennsylvania state democratic convention nominated state officers last Wednesday, and declared for S. J. Randall, for president.

The minister of justice has informed Premier Smith of British Columbia that the bill passed by the British Columbia legislature, prohibiting the immigration of Chinese to that province, is disallowed.

Chris Buckley, the Democratic "boss" of San Francisco, made a speech last Wednesday night in which he charged that many threats have been made against Americans residing there. He said that the authorities are making all exertions possible to prevent an outbreak, and have a double police force. Reports from the interior of Mexico frequently stating that Americans have been attacked and killed. The feeling against Americans is very bitter among the lower class of Mexicans, and everybody is on guard.

News is received from Cuba that Aguerro's force numbered 225 men. Of these three are either exiles or late insurgents in Cuba, or have otherwise been identified with those movements. The others are escaped slaves, four plantations in Cuba were destroyed by Aguerro. It is feared another filibustering expedition is now fitting out at Turk's Island for Cuba. These islands are under British dominion.

News from Chihuahua is to the effect that many threats have been made against Americans residing there. The authorities are making all exertions possible to prevent an outbreak, and have a double police force. Reports from the interior of Mexico frequently stating that Americans have been attacked and killed. The feeling against Americans is very bitter among the lower class of Mexicans, and everybody is on guard.

Concerning Sargent and Bismarck the New York World of the 9th says: "It seems the German court did not care a cent for Sargent's position, or for the status of the American legation, but when it came to Mrs. Sargent, an advocate of female suffrage, preaching it, they were soon forced to consider, looking fifty-nine men in the sunglasses, and Bashi Bazoons occupied the village and held it until March 30, when the rebels returned in force and drove them out, but they retained themselves." General Gordon estimates that the rebels about Khartoum numbered July 2,900.

The San Francisco Chronicle has inserted a bad piece of business on the part of J. M. Kent, deputy city and county assessor, and J. L. Dickenson, a lawyer who formerly lived in Oregon. It has been the custom of Chinese firms to hand in to the assessor's office a statement of their property, and it is to be said to their credit that they are almost uniformly honest respecting the matter. Instead of accepting the statements, however, Merrill has audaciously doubled the figure, so notified the Chinese by a singular coincidence the lawyer Dickenson always calls on the Chinese a few hours after the notification of their assessment, and offers, for a consideration, of course, to have the figures cut down to the original statement. He then goes to Merrill and easily secures the reduction. It is charged that Merrill has been playing this game successfully for a long time and that they have fleeced unsuspecting Mongols out of thousands of dollars in fees. The exposure is brought about through Ah Joo, an intelligent Chinaman, owner of a cigar factory.

BENEFITS OF OFFICE SEEKING.

When we see the change sometimes wrought in a man who wants an office, we are almost persuaded to encourage office seeking. It has been known to make a stinky man liberal, a curmudgeon affable, a morose man agreeable if not hilarious. The man who used to plod along with his eyes on the ground, lifts up his head, sees everybody, frisks the voter with confusion, shakes hands heartily, even seizing both hands gushingly. He seeks introductions to all the electors privately learns all about their families and inquires after their health and general welfare, asks how business is flourishing, interests himself in getting work for those out of employment, and, often, for the first time, takes a deep interest in public affairs.

He is an earnest partisan, he now becomes a zealous for the success of his party. Consults the leaders, gets every-where to express an opinion on this or that line of policy, on the availability of this or that candidate for such and such and such a position. He gently drows to aspiring men, that their merits have never been properly appreciated, and quietly insinuates that in certain contingencies all this will be remedied. He feels around to get the judgment of his neighbors as to his capacity and merits. He takes pains to learn what other aspirants for various places are doing; what support is promised them; what combinations they have made or would like to make; whether they are going to put money into the fight, if so, who is going to engineer the distribution. He finds who the other party are likely to run how popular they are; what headway they are making in getting delegates to the next convention. In fact, it frequently wakes up the whole mind to an awakened activity, and enlarges the boundaries of knowledge far beyond any former possessions. It thus becomes a school, a high school, a very university of instruction and education to an active party of men, the level becomes contagious, others are aroused to make the same attainments, and the whole community are set on fire to achieve the success of the party or their particular favorites. Those who take no interest in politics in political contests, are apt to grow about the too great frequency of our elections. They deprecate the stirring up of the whole country once in four years to elect a president. They would have the term made longer, to avoid and prevent this popular clamor. They do not object upon the education power of these campaigns. They do not observe the stiffening of the manners of office-seekers. They fail to see the transforming power of a lofty ambition on the hearts of men, the lavishness of opening purses and hands to win favor, delegates and votes. True, if beaten, some are soured, become sore-headed, critical, even cynical, but on the whole it gets many into the habits of better good to others, while trying to get greater good for themselves.
