MUSSTS, SEVEURY & JOHNSON, Gentlemen: - Like most of my profession, I am cautious about pinning my fai h to any new medicine or curative agent. But your BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER, has broken through the barriers and won its way to my good opinion. My attention was first called to it some eight months ago by a entient of mine Although I was well acquainted with the superior excellence of your other plaster and antiseptic dressing, made especially for the profession, the Penson's was comparatively new to me. I had heard. however, of its merit- as a remedy, in cases of Lame Back, Local Cheumatism, Neuralgia. Congestion of the Bronchisl Tubes and Lungs, Dyspensia, Torold Liver and the like affections, and have since begun to experiment with it personally. I find BENSON'S CAPCINE PLAST Ran exceptionally cleanly plaster to use, and rapid in its action-Many tosts of its qualities, m de in my own family and among my patients have convinced me that there is no single article so valu able for popular use, nor so helpful in the discases I have named.

Should you desire to do so, you may use my name to that effect. Vers traly yours.

SAVED BY AN ALBATROSS.

A singular story has been related to us by the master of the bark Gladsat this season when the total in the read at the season when the total and the acceptance of the uring Humar Humar and Erystem (2° south and 2° cast, a sentiated a Testures S. I. Room, or From the Story of the St bout was lowered, manned by the chief officer and four men. A search for the unfortunate man was made, but owing to the roughness of the sea he could not be discovered; but the boat steered to the spot where he was last seen.

Here they found him floating, but exhausted, clinging for dear life to the legs and wings of a huge alba-tross. The bird had swooped down upon the man while the latter was struggling with the waves, and at-tempted to peck him with its power-ful beak. Twice the bird attacked its prey unsuccessfully, being beaten off by the desperate sailor, battling with two enemies—the water and the albatross—both greedy and insatiable. For the third time the huge white form of the bird hovered over the seaman, preparatory to a final swoop. The bird, eager for its meal, fanned its victim with its widespread wings, Suddenly a thought occurred to him that the huge form so close to his face might become his involuntary rescuer. Quick as thought he reached up and seized the bird, which he proeded to strangle with all his might. The huge creature struggled with wings and paddles to free itself. In the contest the sailor was beaten black and blue and cruelly lacerated, but he held his own, and slowly the bird quivored and died The carcass floated lightly on the waves, its feathers forming a comfortable support until he was rescued .- Sydney Telegraph.

The Wild Men of Jahore.

A correspondent of the New Or-leans Times-Democrat writing from Jahore, China, says: The orang-outangs, or "wild men," are found on the peninsula, and so are the orang-utans, or "men of the woods." I am aware that Webster and Wordester make these words synonymous, but I am forced to believe that both the great lexicographers have made a false statement in this regard, as the etymology of the Ma-layan terms which I have given would go to prove. Certain it is that what are popularly called orang-utans here, riving in the immediate vicinity of Jahore, are humans. Though of a grade inferior to the Malnys, and generally living apart from the latter, they get their living for the most

It has not escaped notice, of course, that while the house has fooled away nearly four months in idle and tiresome talk, the senate has been steadily discussing and passing important bills, and would be ready for adjournment to-morrow if the same in dustry and good sense had prevailed at the other end of the capitol. As it is, the session will probably be prolonged until August or September solely because the majority of the house obstructs and prevents legislation by a ceaseless flow of gab.
