

The Daily Astorian.
ASTORIA, OREGON:
FRIDAY, MAY 16, 1884
THE LINCOLN AND DAVIS CABINETS.

The grim reaper has been more sparing of the chief members of the confederate government than of the chief contemporary members of the Union government. Jefferson Davis is still living, while Lincoln and Johnson are both dead, but Alexander H. Stephens has joined the great majority. There were three secretaries of state under Davis—Judah P. Benjamin, who died in London last Tuesday, Robert Toombs and R. M. T. Hunter, who live, surviving Secretary Seward. There were four confederate secretaries of war. Of these, L. Pope Walker, the first, only survives, with Simon Cameron, and George W. Randolph. James A. Seddon and John C. Breckinridge sleep with Edwin M. Stanton in the city of the silent. There were two confederate secretaries of the treasury—C. G. Memminger, who still lives, and G. A. Trenholm, who has passed away with Chase and Fessenden. Davis had only one secretary of the navy, S. R. Mallory, and he and Gideon Welles have both gone to their final rest. There were three confederate attorney generals. Of these, Thomas Bragg is dead, as is Judge Bates of the Lincoln cabinet, and Thomas H. Watts and George E. Davis are still living.

There was only one confederate postmaster general, John H. Reagan, and he survives Montgomery Blair and Governor Dennison of the Lincoln cabinet, and is one of the leading members of the present house from Texas. He was in congress before the war, was in the provisional confederate congress, and was postmaster general from the organization of the Davis administration until it held its last cabinet meeting at Charlotte, after Appomattox. As soon as made eligible, he was returned to the Union congress, where he has continued until now, and is likely to remain his life time if he shall desire it.

There are five members of the confederate congress now serving in the federal congress. They are Senators Vest of Missouri, Pugh of Alabama, Garland of Arkansas, and Representatives Singleton and Barksdale of Mississippi. Vest was a confederate senator; Garland was both senator and representative, and Pugh, Barksdale and Singleton were in the confederate house.

SAYS the New York Sun: "The fact that James G. Blaine, without emerging in person from the seclusion of his study, and without remitting in any perceptible degree the closeness of his attention to literary work, has been able to invade the president's own state with these signal results is one of the most surprising features of the present situation."

THE New York Commercial Advertiser says that Conkling was offered a guaranteed income of $50,000 a year if he would join a large firm of solicitors there, to do only oratorical service in the courts. He refused, thinking, doubtless, that he had sufficient in that sum already paid him in annual retainers by a few corporations for his advice and influence.

THE New York Sun whose editor is a stickler for English pure and undefiled, alludes to a man as "the Republican mugwump of the village." As some of our readers may be a little hazy in their notions of such a character, we hasten to explain that there is no difference between a Republican mugwump and a Democratic swigwag.

On our desk is the Dynamite Monthly, a journal published in New York, and avowedly in the interest of those who believe it is right to make use of this deadly explosive in destroying the life and property of their enemies. It looks more like a shrewd advertising dodge on the part of manufacturers of giant powder than anything else.

THE Anglo-French commission, appointed to regulate the Newfoundland fisheries, has signed an agreement modifying and defining the French rights, subject to confirmation of the two countries, Newfoundland to be consulted before its final signature.

TALKING of the Cincinnati riot and the causes which led to it, the Iowa State Register says that murder is one of the safest crimes to commit in Iowa. There have been over 200 murders in that state since 1864, and not a murderer has been hanged.

THE discovery of soda mines in Wyoming territory should give that happy portion of the republic an immense immigration boom among certain classes of our population. Soda-water is one of the most seductive of beverages.

WOODEN sailing vessels are being rapidly superseded by iron steam craft for even coastwise trade in Great Britain. Higher freight is considered to be more than compensated by speedier and more certain voyages.

BOB TOOMBS says he is ready to die. If Robert is not afraid to die, the fact is encouraging to a good many timid souls.

ANOTHER BOLD PENSION SCHEME.

Pension schemes follow each other so rapidly that it is almost impossible to keep up with them. The last one is, however, so comprehensive that it is impossible to believe room can be found anywhere for another short of paying pensions to every man who enlisted, wanted to enlist or ought to have enlisted.

It directs the secretary of the interior to place upon the pension rolls the names of all soldiers or sailors or mariners who served two months or longer continuously in any confederate prison, providing they are now suffering from disability, either general or specific. Besides being placed on the pension rolls they are also to receive two dollars for each day of imprisonment as a gratuity. The list is further augmented by placing upon it the names of the widows of soldiers and sailors who served two months in prison and have since died.

The third and last new class created consists of all soldiers, sailors or marines who have served six months in any war in which the United States have been engaged and who are found, upon examination by a board of pension surgeons, to be so disabled as to interfere with the performance of manual labor. It is further provided that all who have served in any war and have reached the age of sixty-two years shall be placed on the roll, provided they are compelled to earn a living by manual labor. The strict rules of evidence heretofore enforced are now thrown down and that of a secondary character declared competent.

The bill has been reported favorably from the house committee on invalid pensions. Instead of protecting the government that body is simply engaged in a scheme to draw from the treasury all the money for which any possible excuse can be found. It is surely time that some northern man of position and ability should be found to speak out plainly on this question. The pension laws need restriction, not enlargement, unless the resources of the entire country are to be mortgaged for generations simply to pay pensions never earned. Demagogism has had its run in the matter of pensions; business ought now to have a chance.

Two substantial victories were gained by the opposite sex last week. One was in England and the second was in Philadelphia. In the land of our so-called cousins across the water, who treated us one hundred years ago in a very uncivil manner, and who write and talk about us now as if we were the poor relatives of the family, the University of Oxford decided to admit women to some of its degree examinations. On Saturday last a judge in Philadelphia admitted at the end of a long battle a woman to practice at its bar. We are glad of this, because every step in the advancement of woman is a step in the advancement of man.

The editor of the Portage Progress makes this announcement: "I support my reputation by publishing a newspaper, and my family by sawing wood."

VILLARD, Keene, Grant—journalist, gambler, warrior—Wall street treats them all alike; entices them, and then breaks their hearts.

DEPRESSION in the English ship-building trades has thrown fully 20,000 men out of employment.

THE king of Abyssinia refuses to permit Egyptian troops to enter the Soudan from his dominions.

THE Republican candidate for president—the man that can carry New York.
