better illustration than comes from Augusta, Ga. An effort has been made there to erect a statue to the Itching and memory of Alexander H. Stephens, the ablest man whom the state ever produced. Although the sum needed was small, yet the amount collected thus far has been less than $400. The dead statesman not only worked un-tiringly for his state. but he distri-buted a large amount in charity. He had been very poor in his youth and owed his education to the generosity of a neighbor—a debt which he repaid with the first money that he ever earned. Impressed with the value which this aid had been to him, he early adopted the plan of helping young men of ability to acquire a collegiate training, and for many years before his death it was his custom to have no less than ten of these beneficiaries at various schools and colleges in Georgia. These youths have gone out into the world and many have made fortunes; yet when a demand is made for a small sum to set up a monument to the man who helped to make them what they are, they selfishly refuse. Perhaps it would have been better for the world if the dead statesman had left them to hoe eotton or rive shingles in their native state. This is a flagrant case of in-gratitude, but it serves to give point San Franciscisan—himself a liberal benefactor of the needy. When any one attacked him in print with special virulence, he was wont to turn to his secretary and say: "By the way, have I ever helped this fellow?"

All in the Meat.

A Wolf having fallen a victim to the Tiger, set up a loud Lamenting and begged hard for his Life. He made such a fuss over it that Tiger finally released him and bade him go his road. The Wolf was hardly a stone's throw away when he met Rabbit and pounced upon her. "Spare my Life, as the Tiger just now spared yours!" cried the Rabbit. "Not this evening!" was the calm reply, "'Tis true that the Tiger spared my life, but while he doesn't care a cent for Wolf meat, I am extremely fond of Rabbit!

Some interesting experiments have recently been made with dynamite. It is now elaimed that this medium of destruction can be fired from an ordinary cannon and not explode before leaving the piece. The dynamite is encased in a brass projectile, which bursts when the missile renches its destination. A twenty-pound charge would annihilate a small army, if it can be used as claimed.

Mrs. Phoebe Rice, 1208 Madison street, a sister of Hon. H. Clay Sex-ton, Chief St. Louis Fire Depart, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, had been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for seven years; the mus-cles of her hands and limbs were contracted and she used crutches. By a single application of St. Jacobs Oil she was benefitted instantaneously, and finally completely cured.
