

ASTORIA, OREGON:
FRIDAY, MAY 23, 1884.
ISSUED EVERY MORNING.

THINGS AS THEY OCCUR.

The Alpha is off for Tillamook with merchandise.
Singer Hermann will deliver an address...

A 100-ton scow will be sold cheap at E. C. Holden's auction rooms to-morrow morning.

W. B. Ross goes to Oysterville next week to organize a lodge of A. O. U. W. at that place.

Cushing Post No. 14, G. A. R., propose giving a grand ball at Occidental hall on the evening of July 4th.

The A. B. Field left for Tillamook yesterday. She is advertised to go to Gray's harbor to-morrow.

Candidates are circulating around the county inquiring about the health of their friends and fellow citizens.

The county clerk was busy yesterday dispatching poll books and election papers to the different precincts.

The next meeting of the Grand Lodge of Oregon, I. O. O. F., will be at Salem on the third Tuesday in May, 1884.

Alex. McBeth announces himself as an independent candidate for sheriff of Clatsop county at the ensuing election.

The Weekly Astorian, in stamped wrappers, ready for mailing, published this morning. Full of news and home happenings; price ten cents.

Pacific Lodge No. 17, K. of P., will have a ball at Occidental hall this evening. The preparations are complete and a splendid time is anticipated.

Fires are reported in the woods here and there. Too much care cannot be exercised to prevent their spreading, especially in the vicinity of town.

There's a heap of talent going to waste. It's a pity to see so many able-bodied men and women who have an opportunity to define their position.

The visiting members of the Grand Lodge and Grand Encampment return to their homes this morning with many memories of their visit to our seaside city.

Cushing Relief Post, No. 3, will be organized with twenty charter members to-morrow evening. This corps, which is an adjunct to the relief work...

The A. E. Field, which is advertised to start for Gray's harbor to-morrow, will have a big lot of freight and passengers. Trade and traffic northward is constantly increasing.

The good ship Somers R. Mead, of which Capt. A. J. Mead is in command, has cleared with 52,782 bushels wheat, worth $15,920, and an alleged crew. The staves and stripes were hoisted in the shoulder of the sail.

There was a $3,000 fire at Seattle on the 21st. "Fully insured."
The Standard thinks that its libel suit will give it $25,000 worth of advertising.

Patrick O'Donnell, a Portland longshoreman died in a fit of apoplexy while at work on the Mount Washington last Wednesday.

W. D. Hare, ex-collector of this port was nominated for state senator by the Washington county republicans last Wednesday.

Gen. O. D. Greene, assistant adjutant general of the department of the Columbia, will relinquish the duties of that office on the 28th inst., and leave for his new station at Washington, D. C.

Al. Stream's medal has finally been heard from. It is in the hands of the secretary of state at Washington. It will soon be three years since he saved the crew of the Lammerlaw, probably in the course of three years more the medal will have reached its owner.

At the term of the state circuit court just closed, Reynolds, says the Oregonian, there were three boys sentenced to the penitentiary. William Rider, who had scarcely passed out of his "teens," was sentenced for the crime of larceny from a dwelling; a boy named McClintz, 12 or 14 years of age, got a sentence for falsifying money under false pretenses, both getting one year in the penitentiary.

Chief Justice Greene, in his charge to the Pierce county, W. T., grand jury on Monday, paid a high tribute to the intelligence, capacity and conscientiousness of women as grand and petit jurors in the third judicial district of the territory during the past six months. He has often felt, like Judge Wiggam of the fifth district, "too much hampered by scrupulous jurymen."

Another Kind of Cramp.
"Where you ever troubled with writer's cramp?" asked the statesman of the grocerman, who was busy posting up his books; "fingers clench around the pen, you know, and won't seem to let go."

"No," responded the grocerman, regarding the statesman with a broad grin. "but I have been considerably troubled by fingers clenching around my raisins and crackers and seeming not to let go." And then the statesman seemed to recollect that he had forgotten to call in on the way down and inquire after a letter from his wife's aunt, and as he went out the door there was a far-away expression on his face, and he never could tire looking at it.

Congress is discussing the Chinese bill. The Canadian Pacific will not push extension of the road this season.

A few more eastern failures are reported, and an uneasy feeling is still prevalent in Wall Street.

The veteran Hannibal Hamlin says he is not a candidate for first or second place on the presidential ticket.

Endicott has resigned the presidency of the Oregon Transcontinental, Elsieh Smith succeeds him. Smith has had twenty years of railroad experience; was builder of the Burlington and Southwestern railroad; he also built sixty miles of railroad in Mexico, which afterwards was sold to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, and is a man of considerable wealth.

Arrangements have been concluded between the Union Pacific and Northern Pacific routes for an interchange of freight and passenger traffic at non-competitive points. The agreement will run from June 1. Rates from Missouri river points will be equal to those made from St. Paul, the division being made on the basis of service by each road.

The present time traffic has all gone by way of the Central Pacific to San Francisco, and the "Yankee" steamer, "Freight," is assigned to Portland from Omaha and Kansas City will now go by all rail route, via the Union Pacific, Utah Northern, Northern Pacific and Oregon Railway and Navigation company's lines.

A Sermon at Sailors' Snug Harbor.
An interesting piece of the June Century is an engraving of St. Gaudens' statue of Robert Richard Rendell, the founder of "Sailors' Snug Harbor," on Staten Island; and Franklin H. North contributes a lively anecdotal paper on the harbor, from which we quote a typical sermon of the Snug Harbor preacher: "Chaplain Jones, already mentioned, presides at the little church in the grounds of the harbor. He is a sailor himself, having served before the mast many years, and knows how to talk to those who 'follow the sea.' When a man had to run away from his English home and shipboard aboard an East Indiaman. He is about sixty-five now, and many years ago took the sea to study theology. As soon as he was qualified, he went among the sailors of the great lakes, and afterward opened a Bethel in St. Louis. Then he returned hither and became the pastor of the 'Sailors' Snug Harbor.'"

"Here is the substance of a sermon from the text: 'Let us go that line,' which is given in substance. 'I once stood on the wharf watching a brig get ready for sea,' began the Rev. Mr. Jones. 'The top's a-top, the coxswain were loosed, the jib hoisted from the boom, and the halyards were stretched out ready to run up. Just at this moment the pilot sprang from the wharf to the quarter-deck, inquiring of the pilot, 'So you are in command, 'Are you all ready?'"

"'All ready, sir,'" said the officer. Then came the command: "Stand by to run up that jib!"—Hands by the head-brace!—Cast-lead, and stand by aft; there to let go that stern-line!—Let go!—Man the top's-a-top!—Run 'em up, boys—run 'em up!—Does the jib take?—Haal over that starboard sheet!"

"She says off fine—there she goes—and—Hillo! hillo! What's the matter? What's the matter? Starboard the head sheet—hoist the pilot." "What holds her? Is there anything foul at there? Why, look at that stern line! Heave it off the timber-head! Heave it off that tern!" "It's foul ashore sir," says one of the crew.

"Then cut it, cut it! D'ye hear? Never mind the hawser! Cut it before she loses her way!" By this time there was a taut strain on the hawser. A seaman drew his sheath-knife across the strands, which soon parted, the brig forged ahead, the sails were run up to the breeze, and the brig flew filled away.

"So, too, when I see men who have immortal souls to save bound to the world by the cords, the hawsers of their sin, then I think of that scene, and feel like crying out: 'Gather in your breast-lines and haul out from the shores of destruction. Fly, as Lot from the guilty Sodom! Oh, let go that stern-line!'"

Tracheus Ica.
Mr. Jeremiah Coleman, Norwich, N. Y., sustained a severe injury by a fall on the ice. He says he thanks God for St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-reliever, which cured him.

WHAT do you think that JEFF OF THE CHOP HOUSE gives you a meal for nothing and a glass of something to drink? "Not much," but he gives a better meal and more of it than any place in town for 25 cents. He buys by the wholesale and pays cash. "That settles it."

The Popular Approval.
Of the new famous Syrup of Figs as the most efficacious and agreeable preparation ever offered to the world as a cure for Habitual Constipation. Bileousness, Indigestion and kindred ills, has been won by the wise plan pursued by the California Fig Syrup company.
