

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1884. ISSUED EVERY MORNING. (Monday excepted.) J. F. HALLORAN & COMPANY, PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

KNAPPA NOTES.

KNAPPA, Oregon, May 22, 1884. Ed. ASTORIAN.—Spring has come with its beauty and fullness and robbed the surrounding country with an abundant wealth of buds and blossoms, and summer near at hand to mature the promise of plenty.

Many complain of hard times, but we do not see much occasion for complaint, for although money is not so plenty as in former years, labor brings the reward of food and clothing.

The general health of the place is exceptionally good, although a few cases of green cutthroat and gonorrhoea fever have been reported. The moral sentiment is somewhat improved, aside from an occasional growl from some jealous Mephistopheles correspondent, who seems to delight in mud flinging.

Quon Vic's birthday. The A. B. Field is off for Gray's harbor this morning. Read Holden's auction sales advertised for this meeting.

Chasing Relief Post No. 3 will be organized this evening. Assistant Surgeon G. F. Wilson has been assigned to temporary duty at Fort Canby.

The first excursion of the season on the Clara Parker to droic to Young's river flats; see adv. Attention is directed to the announcement of J. G. Ross regarding his candidacy for octorner.

Fish are coming in well. "High boat" at one of the canneries yesterday had 72 fair sized salmon. At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, resolutions of respect regarding the late P. C. Peterson were adopted.

Everyone enjoyed themselves at the Knights hall given by the members of Pacific Lodge No. 17, last evening. The bill near Latham's is being graded, greatly to the benefit of travel over that part of the upper town road.

The Albion dry dock is reported to be a failure. Young's bay was said to be the proper place to locate a structure of that kind. The Oregon Pottery Company has incorporated in Portland. The earth used in making tile, drain pipe, etc., will be got principally from Fort Clatsop.

C. A. Hanson having been elected to the office of ruling elder in the Presbyterian church, will be ordained in connection with the morning service to-morrow. The Jesse Jamison will take about 25,000 cases of salmon to London; the Chas. Cotesworth and Eskdale will go on board to finish with salmon for Liverpool.

BANG—went a gun from midstream at nine o'clock last evening, and "There is the Star," was the first exclamation. It was the steamship Idaho, from northern waters, arriving in an unusually quick time.

Iron covers to the fire traps are the latest improvement in the department. It is thought by some that a removal to the corner instead of the middle of the street would not greatly interfere with their usefulness.

The deep sea fishing company lately organized, which had such a disastrous experience some time ago, has had a new surf boat built and yesterday began operations again near the Seaside. The Sunset telephone company are stringing poles eastward from the central office. It would be no harm to do a little stringing westward. Those wires give a little too much molian harp business to be pleasant.

Indian George brought in a cub bear from Young's bay yesterday; at Thomas & Knowl's meat house is a sea lion captured on the bar, and in front of Bergman & Berry's are numbers of sea bass in all their native strength and graceful beauty.

Friday, the 30th inst., being the National memorial day, military duties will be suspended at all posts and stations in this department, in order to enable all persons in the military service who may so desire to participate in a due and proper observance of the patriotic occasion.

The Astoria gaslight company now supplies the motive power that runs off the Daily and Weekly Astorian. When the Astoria electric light company gets its plant into operation, the Astorian will be up with the times and have ready an electric motor. In the meantime, if you want to see a marvel of mechanical ingenuity, call around.

The evolutions of the Knights in full uniform at Occident hall last evening was witnessed by a large gathering, who testified by their plaudits their appreciation of the skillful execution of the drill. Several hrs there has been a more numerous attendance and entertainment and the arrangements in every respect were all that could be desired.

The Sumner R. Mead goes to sea to-day, and south by west the captain shapes her course, while the mate will boss the sailors and the sailors clew the rail, and the breeze will push the wall way to mighty force. And the stanchions will be hoisted up and spread before the breeze, and the bilge be tightly bolted to the wheel, while the clamps, and cords, and lockers, and the frames and hanging knees are all snugly stowed away within the keel; while the ent-head gently crows as it sniffs the morning wind, and the dolphin-striker many a dolphin struck, and the bob-sky gently bobs as to windward it inclines, while the lazy jacks are loafing at the truck.

Correct—Every Word of It. The talk of money being tight, and hard times would quickly cease were it made the popular rule to pay on demand all debts possible to be paid. The big loads cannot be lifted so easily, and in pinching times like these there is excuse for their non-payment; but this is not the case with the little debts owed by people having the money in their pockets to pay them. When money becomes a little "tight" people are too apt to turn off their creditors with a falsehood. The debt is not paid, the debtor is none the more comfortable, while the creditor is distressed and subjected to the inconvenience of calling again. By the time a hundred or a thousand dollars have put into practice this system of fraud and falsehood, the cry of hard times is heard, a cry that will not have been heard had the other and better practice been followed of paying to the utmost ability of each individual debtor.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

GENERAL NEWS.

Ben Butler has accepted the nomination for the anti-monopoly organization for president. It is expected that the president within a few days will make proclamation of the ratification of the treaty entered into between the United States and Mexico.

The first of eight refrigerator cars designed for bringing salmon from the Columbia River, arrived here Monday. With the car was an attendant, who kept the temperature about twenty degrees above zero. The salmon were delivered at the car at a cost of 5 cents a pound, and the freight charges across the continent was about seven cents. They retail in this city at about twenty cents a pound.

The enterprise will be remunerative. The fish were packed in boxes with crushed ice over and under them. Six or seven salmon were in each box; 100 boxes made a car load. The car was pulled to St. Paul on a passenger train, and thence by freight to New York. Arrangements are making to send cars the entire distance on passenger schedule, reducing the time from nine to seven days.

Ferdinand Ward, of the firm of Grant & Ward, was arrested Thursday in New York. Ward is held in $30,000 bail, the amount fixed in order for his arrest. After spending the day in confinement, he found $30,000 bail, to be taken to the Ludlow street jail and lodged in a cell there. He refuses to see any one. Gen. C. S. Grant states that the rumors that he had been arrested in New York, and that he had been arrested, were wholly without foundation. His son had gone to Morrison, N. J., where he lives, and would be at his office at the usual hour. Both his sons, the general said, were in town, and intended to remain here. They had no money to make a trip to Canada, even if they wanted to get there. He was very indignant that the report had been circulated, or that credence should have been given it. He is almost completely broken down by the disclosures which have been made since the failure. The report will shorten his life many years. He converses freely with his intimate friends upon his troubles. He seeks seclusion as much as possible and fears that he has lost the energy and confidence of the country at large. The general is so sensitive that he shuns newspapers; therefore he has still to learn of the magnitude of the collapse and the almost unparalleled extent of Ward's fraudulent operations.

Under the present system electric lamps or gas burners are fixtures, and cannot be moved from place to place. The electric girls, on the contrary, are movable. One girl can be used in one room as much light as a large sized drawing room chandelier, and she can be moved from one room to another, leading the way to supper, and placed wherever she can do the most good. There can be no comparison between a beautifully designed and chaste executed electric girl and a massive chandelier that constantly threatens to fall on somebody's head; and every householder of aesthetic instincts will be glad to exchange his chandeliers for girls.

An inexpensive electric girl with one or two candle power will be of great use when a person desires to go from one room to another in a dark house. Instead of having to carry a candle in his hand and incur the risk of dropping it or of having it blown out by a draught of air, the happy possessor of an electric girl can turn her on and send her before him to light the way. The student who is now troubled by the flicker of his gas light, in his inability to move the electric light from one part of his desk to another, can be made perfectly happy by an electric girl with a ground glass shade, who will take any position that the student may desire in order that the light on his book or paper. No one who becomes accustomed to such a girl will think of returning to old fashioned methods of lighting.

The new company propose to furnish the new light at a little less than the charge made by the Edison and Brush companies, and promise that in a short time they will be able to furnish a light than gas. Their plant already comprises 2,500 girls, and but electric boys at 4 footmen will be at the command of the public as soon as certain experiments as to the possibility of enabling electric boys to give a steady light are completed.

Mr. Gilbert Cole, Wayne, Wayne Co., Mich., says he has used the wonderful pain-reliever, St. Jacobs Oil, and can truthfully say, it cured him of rheumatism.

ELECTRIC GIRLS.

The introduction of illuminated ballet girls has greatly added to the attractions of the spectacular stage. Girls with electric lights on their foreheads and batteries concealed in the recesses of their clothing first made their appearance a year ago, but as yet the use of illuminated girls has not spread beyond the stage. There is, however, a great future awaiting the grand idea of incandescent girls, and there is reason to believe that in a very short time private houses will be lighted by girls instead of stationary electric lights.

The formation of the Electric Girl Lighting Company is an event second in importance only to the invention of electric lights. This company proposes to supply girls of fifty candle power each in quantities to suit householders. The girls are to be fed and clothed by the company, and customers will, of course, be permitted to select at the company's warehouse whatever style of girls may please their fancy.

A very beautiful design for a front hall girl will soon be on exhibition. The present system of lighting the front hall of a dwelling house has the disadvantage that the light—whether it be a gas light or an electric light—must be kept burning all the evening, and that a servant must be employed to answer the bell. Thus there is a double expense—the cost of the light and the cost of the servant. The Electric Girl Lighting Company will furnish a beautiful girl of fifty or a hundred candle power, who will be on duty from dusk till midnight—or as much later as may be desired. This girl will remain seated in the hall until some one rings the front door bell. She will then turn on her electric light, open the door, admit the visitor, and light him into the reception room. One girl thus employed performs the duties of lighting the front hall and answering the bell, and her annual cost is much less than that of a servant and a gas light. If, however, the householder should desire to keep the electric girl constantly burning and to employ another servant to answer the bell, there can be no doubt that the electric girl, posing in a picturesque attitude, will add much to the decorum of the house.

Under the present system electric lamps or gas burners are fixtures, and cannot be moved from place to place. The electric girls, on the contrary, are movable. One girl can be used in one room as much light as a large sized drawing room chandelier, and she can be moved from one room to another, leading the way to supper, and placed wherever she can do the most good. There can be no comparison between a beautifully designed and chaste executed electric girl and a massive chandelier that constantly threatens to fall on somebody's head; and every householder of aesthetic instincts will be glad to exchange his chandeliers for girls.

THE ASTORIA LAND GRANT.

In the house of representatives on the 22d, among other bills the bill forfeiting the Oregon Central land grant was passed upon the house for consideration. The Oregon Central measure proved successful, consideration of the sinking fund bill being voted down—yeas 76; nays 129; and the other propositions without division. Cobb opposed the bill, on the ground that it proposed to forfeit a portion of the grant which had been earned by the road.

George took the same view as Cobb, and made an argument in support of the bill. In the course of his remarks he referred to the decision of the supreme court of Oregon, with regard to the grant to the Oregon Central, and asserted that the Oregon Central to which the decision referred was not the Oregon Central to which the bill related, intimating at the same time that Cobb was misleading the house.

This aroused Cobb, and he declared that he had in his possession a letter showing George to be a railroad attorney. Geo. got entered a vigorous denial to this declaration, and defied Cobb to produce the letter.

Cobb said that when the gentleman accused him of attempting to mislead the house he was mistaken in his man. He thought by some that a removal to the corner instead of the middle of the street would not greatly interfere with their usefulness.
