ASTORIA, OREGON:

TUESDAY, JUNE 3, 1884

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

TO-DAY will be begun at Chicago a contest which many think will lead to Blaine, and victory for the Republican party in November. As Oregon had her say regarding state matters yesterday, we can now look over to the city by the lake. While our readers are waiting for the news, it may interest them to read what the last convention which met at Chicago on June 2, 1880, did. It was called to order by Don Cameron. George F. Hoar of Massachusetts, temporary chairman, and subsequently, on the 5th, was made permanent chairman. The first ballot was not reached until Tuesday, 8th. Total vote 755; necessary to a choice 378. First ballot, Grant received 304, Blaine 284, Sherman 93, Edmunds, 34, Windom 10, and Washburne 20. During the twenty-eight ballots of the day, Grant steadily progressed to 309 votes on the fifteenth ballot, dropping back and closing at 308 on the twenty-eighth. Blaine reached 285 on the fourteenth and closed with 278 on the twenty-eighth. Sherman had two less on the twenty-eighth than on the first. Edmunds three less, and Windom kept his ten the whole twenty-eight ballots. Washburne had five more on the twenty-eighth than on the first. Garfield had one on the second ballot, fluctuating between one and two, and wound up with the latter number on the twenty-eighth. On the third, fourth and fifth, Harrison of Indiana had one vote. Hayes received one on the tenth. On the first ballot Blaine had one from Alabama, 12 from California, Connecticut 3, Delaware 6, Illinois 10, Indiana 26, Iowa 22, Kansas 6, Kentucky 1, Louisiana 2, Maine 14, Maryland 7, Michigan 21, Mississippi 4, Nebraska 6, New Hampshire 10, New Jersey 16, New York 17, Ohio 3, Oregon 6, Pennsylvania 23, Rhode Island 8, Tennessee 6, Texas 2, Virginia 3, West Virginia 8, Wisconsin 7, Arizona 2, Dakota 1, Idaho 2, Montana 2, New Mexico 2, Utah 1, Washington 2, Wyoming 1, District of Columbia 1. Adjourned until next day. Twenty-ninth ballot was practically the same as the twenty-eighth; thirtieth same. On the thirty-first ballot Blaine lost 2, on thirty-second 6; on thirty-third gained 6; lost 1 on thirty-fourth; on the thirty-fifth Grant went to 312, Blaine fell back to 257, and Garfield went to 50; on the thirty-sixth ballot the Blaine men went to Garfield all but 42, the result being Garfield 399, Grant 306, Blaine, 42, Sherman 3, Washburne 5. The highest vote Grant received on any ballot was on the thirty-fourth, which was 312. The highest vote Blaine received was on the fourteenth, 285. The highest for Sherman was on the thirteenth, 120. Highest for Edmunds on the twelfth and thirteenth, 33. Chester A. Arthur of New York was nominated for vice president; on first ballot by 468 votes, 123 Washburne, 44 Jewell, 30 Maynard, the rest scattering.

WENDELL PHILLIPS excused, if he did not justify, the Russian nihilists because they are too closely watched to permit a regularly organized revolution. When war for human rights cannot be made wholesale the question arises, how far men are justified in making it on single persons. Here comes in the question of courage and cowardice. All nihilists freely devote their lives and all their property to the work of national regeneration as truly as our fathers "pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred honor" to maintain American independence. Our fathers could and did organize a revolutionary war. It seems impossible for patriotic Russians to do this. Does their courage and contempt of death redeem them from the charge of murder in slaying their foes? Daniel O'Connell said: "No revolution is worth one drop of human blood." He had learned wisdom from experience. Every Irish revolution had failed, but he had faith to believe that Englishmen could be persuaded to do justice to Irishmen, therefore he devoted his life to agitation. He tried hard to convince his countrymen that a discussion with arguments was better than one with sticks. If he should appear to-day in Ireland and England what would he say to the dynamiters?

MONTANA rejoices in the possession of the biggest county in the United States, which, of course means the world. It is only 36,000 square miles in extent, and is larger than the states of New Hampshire, Vermont Massachusetts, Connecticut, Delaware and Rhode Island combined. How many states shall we have in the Union a century hence, when our population will in all probability be two hundred millions? They may number a round hundred. What a paradise the country will be for the politicians. Think of it. One hundred governors, one hundred legislatures, and millions of other nice, easy places all the way down the political ladder. It must be a sad thought for our politicians that these good times are so far away.

Tax Anti-Monopolists will hold a mass meeting and ratify the nomination of General Butler. Let the fun begin.

BRACE UP. WHAT is more soul-stirring than to see a man, who, beaten upon every side, crowded into a corner, is fighting heroically to recover lost ground? Him who when his legs fail him, fights upon his knees. Him who exemplifies the old Norse maxim: "Either I will find a way or make one." It has been well said that "success consists not in never failing, but in rising every time we fall." Push on. Friends may desert, the clouds of doubt and discouragement, of sorrow and despair, may hover round about, but there is no night without its morn, no lane without a turn. The world wants men, it is bound to recognize him who knows not how to yield. Gain strength from the words of that Spartan mother, uttered when her son complained that his sword was too short, "Add a step to it," the brave woman replied. Never envy those who have not, figuratively speaking, been obliged to take in their sails to weather a squall. If you have been crippled, hasten to repair the damage and fall into line again. You are the better for the experience. Don't be troubled if some people think you are not as strong as before. Bide your time and measure swords with them.

A WESTERN statesman who has been giving his views on the presidential question says: "What we want is a broad gauge man, who can command the respect of the whole country." Mr. Blaine, he thinks, is just the man. But the trouble is that in the opinion of a great many people he is "too broad." Is there no way of cutting him down a little so that the more timid of his countrymen would not be scared out of their wits in the event of his nomination? Mr. Blaine is a wonderful man in many ways. Whoever before succeeded in managing a presidential canvass and writing a splendid history at one and the same time? Probably he can change the gauge so as to suit all parties.

MANITOBA has been given the coldest kind of a cold shoulder by the Dominion government. The railroads she clamored for will not be built, and no relief whatever granted to her. The proper thing for Manitoba to do is to come into the Union. Large numbers of her inhabitants are leaving for Montana and Dakota. This is a wise step, but it would be better for them to run up the Stars and Stripes over their farms and declare for annexation. By this means she can get all the railroads she needs. There is a splendid surplus in the treasury at Washington, to a portion of which she will be entitled in the event of her joining the family.

THERE are 35,000 more women than men in Philadelphia and yet that place is called "The City of Brotherly Love." It would be more in accordance with the eternal fitness of things to designate it "The Town of Sisterly Affection." It is thought that the charge that Stanley Matthews' appointment to the Supreme court was through an agreement with Garfield, conditional upon his election, will be investigated in the senate before the July convention is held.

AGAIN Senator Edmunds protests that he does not want to be President. It is more than likely that the wishes of the frigid statesman from the Green Mountain state will be respected.
