THE CELEBRATED FOLEY SPRINGS.

A Singular Case.
 One of the political peculiarities of the times is the persistence of the Greenback notion. There are persons in small numbers in every state in the Union who firmly believe that a debt is discharged when a note is given for it. There was a meaning to the agitation before resumption. If their policy had been adopted new issues of greenbacks would have followed rapidly. Every successive issue would have reduced the value. In time, as it happened in the confederacy, and afterwards also in Hayti, about a bushel of paper notes would be required to buy a bushel of potatoes. It is not long since $4,000 in paper was the price of a chip hat in the island to which reference is made.

The effect would be that all the debts and mortgages of the country would have been practically wiped out. To that extent there was meaning in the Greenback movement. Since resumption there is no place for the notion in the country. But for all that the agitation is kept up. Greenback tickets are found in several of the states. There has been a regular Greenback nomination for the presidency ever since 1876.

A national convention of the party has just been held and Ben Butler is this time to be its candidate.

The platform says that they want the money that saved the country in the time of war. This is a new but more modest rendering of the "battered greenback" and "the finest currency the world ever saw." What these people call money are notes of hand, without date, given by the government in exchange for services on the field, supplies and munitions, which have not been liquidated and are still in circulation. They want more of these notes now, but do not specify what they are to be issued for. A gratuitous distribution to all good citizens may be what they mean.

A paternal government is to fill every body's pocket every morning with new and crisp notes—that is to say, it is to run in debt to every citizen so rewarded but never pay him.

To clap the climax, they insist that all the gold and silver in the treasury shall at once be paid out. This is for the purpose of making room for the new greenbacks. But the financial paradise would turn out to be very different from what they suppose it would be. The greenbacks which they so highly prize are worth 100 cents on the dollar, because there are gold and silver in the treasury to redeem as many of them as are likely to be presented. If that gold and silver should be paid out, greenbacks would run down as fast as they ran up, as the time for redemption drew nigh. These financiers evidently are of the opinion that the greenbacks appreciated by some unknown quality within themselves. But they simply advance to par as gold began to flow into the country. But as there is no law in this country to prevent people from being as muddled as they please on any question, the Greenbackers regularly assemble every four years and put forward a candidate for the presidency.

All the Rage.
 To captivate the popular taste and surpass all previous efforts to please the palate, requires no small amount of knowledge and no little skill, and when we remember that the very agreeable liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, is as beneficial to the system, as it is acceptable to the stomach, we readily understand why it is the universal favorite as a cure for Habitual Constipation and other ills arising from a weakness, or inactive condition of the Bowels, Kidneys, Liver and Stomach. When you come to think of it, it is not odd that literary people prefer a pipe to a cigar. It is harder to smoke when they are writing, and ever so much cleaner. And then it gives them the true essence and flavor of the tobacco.
