

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1884

The salmon fishing season closes in Maine September 15th.

As high as $20 per head is offered at Victoria, B. C., by Chinamen, to be landed on American soil.

Over two thousand cradles that Blaine was rocked in are already in the market.

A GREAT many Democrats are of the opinion that it would improve their ticket to turn it upside down.

GROVER CLEVELAND is forty-seven years of age, and Thomas A. Hendricks is sixty-five. Cleveland was born in New Jersey and Hendricks in Ohio.

JOSEPH COOK calls himself a "pandemoniumist." If he has any more eight-syllabled words on hand he can make money by selling them to campaign orators.

MANY anxious politicians are wondering what John Kelly will do. Those who know him best wonder what he will not do. The enigma will be solved in November.

WATTESON has made a new word—liprop. A liprop is a Democrat who won't go with the crowd. He is of the same family as the magwump, which is a Republican who carries his party under his hat.

M. E. LEWIS, of Idaho, is a very particular man. He has written to the superintendent of Castle Garden, N. Y., for a wife, saying that he has searched the country for 300 miles, and can't find one that suits him. She must not be over 30 years of age and willing to work.

SECRETARY TELLER, in the case of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. The State of California, involving title to certain lands in the Fort Yuma military reservation, claimed by each, decides that neither is entitled to the land in question, but that the title rests in the United States.

A QUANTITY of liquified carbonic acid is kept in the steam fire engines in Berlin. On arriving at a fire it is allowed to escape into the steam cylinder, when its expansion drives the engine until a sufficient steam pressure can be obtained. A gain of four or five minutes in setting the pumps at work is thus effected.

SUGAR, perhaps, has never been so cheap since it was first produced as it is to-day. The reason assigned for it is the unprecedented yield of beet sugar in Europe far in excess of the demand there. The United States is therefore the only market for cane sugar, and the increased supply has been followed by a reduction of prices. The effect on Cuba has been very disastrous. The total value of the crop, it is reported, will not pay the government taxes.

"QUARANTINE" is a Venetian invention, and dates back to the year 1127. Under the law then enacted all merchants or travelers from the East were obliged to remain forty days in the Lazaretto, or house of St. Lazarus, before entering the city. The regulation was speedily adopted in every European country; and although the time has been much shortened—being now no longer than is found necessary for assurance that no contagious disease is brought—the old name, derived from the forty days of detention, is still retained.

The year so far has been a tolerably fortunate one for the crowned heads. There have been many explosions and assassinations on paper and in the minds of bloodthirsty fanatics, none in perfected execution. The czar of Russia remains in the peaceful enjoyment of all his bones. Victoria, notwithstanding the departure of Brown John, lives, and old father William and the rest are as usual. The attempt recently made to wreck a train in which Francis Joseph of Austria was supposed to be in proved happily abortive. It was the wrong train. It is better to be "sat upon" metaphorically, even, like Mr. John Kelly at Chicago, than to be blown up like Alexander II. at St. Petersburg. The "crowned heads" should come to America.

This practice of giving prizes for excellence in the ordinary studies of a college curriculum has been superseded by a western seminary with a view of impressing upon the minds of the maidens the importance of a practical knowledge. The girl who makes the best loaf of bread is presented with a miniature loaf made of gold. The wisdom of such a course is apparent to the most superficial observer. Good bread-makers are scarce and their efforts in that line are always appreciated. While beauty, grace and learning are potent factors in winning a man's heart, the art of bread-making invariably proves a greater attraction. The fair maiden who can transform a mass of quivering dough into a light and airy loaf of bread is worth her weight in gold. Bread-making should take the leading place among the arts and sciences taught in seminaries for the fair sex.

ENGLISH papers are prone to blunder when they write about American affairs. The London Times talks of the "inelasticity" of American parties as if hard and fast lines were kept here from decade to decade. It is no more true of America than of England. There some boroughs and counties have been counted on for one party or the other with as much certainty as Vermont has been reliable for the Republicans or Maryland for the Democrats. In England, as here, there are closely balanced states and constituencies that never can be counted on in advance for any party. The elasticity of American parties has been very marked during the last twenty years. It is true that at each presidential election during that period the result has been a Republican president, but once the Democratic candidate got a majority of the popular vote, and twice during that period the Democrats have had control of the house of representatives, and have been very close to a control of the senate, while state governments have changed all round the Union. The few Tory interludes in the history of British politics during the same period do not give the Times much high ground to preach about elasticity.
